Indians Back NU Graduate A. A. Simpson

Alva A. Simpson Jr. of Santa Fe, N. M., a former student at the University is being supported as U. S. Indian commissioner.

Simpson, attending the University in 1935-36 and 1936-37, earned a numeral in freshman football and played halfback on the varsity third squad. He was also boxing champion—for two years at the University and helped survey the first shelter belt in Nebraska.

Leaving the University after two years, he transferred to Montana State College, after which he received his A. B. degree from the University of Mexico.

Simpson, former chairman of the Governors' Interstate Indian Council, is now director of the New Mexico Department of Public Welfare. He is also the past United Nations Deputy Chief of Mission and of Health, Care and Maintenance for the International Refugee Organization in Italy and Greece.

Seventy-six Indian tribes, including Nebraska's Omahas, have endorsed Simpson for commissioner. Simpson has long been interested in assisting Indians to become integrated into the general American community.

Three NU Carriers Give Twice Daily Mail Service

Campus Mail is delivered twice daily, beginning at 8 a. m. and 1 p. m., and is also collected at 10:45 a. m. and 3:45 p. m. from the various mail boxes in the different buildings.

Two carriers work on city campus and one at the College of Agriculture campus, delivering the mail to all departments including the men's and women's residence halls.

In order to move packages, general stores (Ext. 3235 or 3236) should be called to obtain truck service, because the service is not equipped to move packages under the regular service.

Government or U. S. mail may also be put in the campus mail boxes with no postage necessary. It is run through the University postage meter and taken to the city Post Office twice daily. However, only official University mail may be sent through the meter.

"Postage-due" mail is collected and paid for by the University, unless it is a personal letter involved, then the recipient must pay the charges.

Unsealed mimeographed or multigraphed material may be sent second class, also printed letters sent this way may include a personalized salutation and a signature.

Bulk mailing rates are offered if two hundred or more pieces are being mailed. If the individual pieces weigh less than one and one-eighth ounces, only one cent postage is needed. This type of mail must be sorted by states and towns and must be sent all at once.

For bulk mail in which the individual pieces weigh more than one and one-eighth ounces the mail need not be sorted geographically. Bulk service will be picked up on request by calling University extension 3230.

Persons wishing help on special mailing problems and quantity mailing assistance should call Glenn Husted Ext. 3230. Mailing permit numbers will also be taken care of by the campus mailing service.

Any bulletin in which a letter is enclosed must be sent first class, however, if the letter is attached to the outside of the bulletin envelope, first class postage need be paid on the letter only.

Union To Sponsor Informal Dances

Informal dances will be held every Friday in the Round-Up room of the Union for students who wish to drop in after a basketball game or show.

Friday's dance will be a stag or date dance with new and popular records furnishing the music.

Special requests for new records may be turned in to the Student Activities office or the Union Dance Committee who is sponsoring the dances.

Dancing from 9 p. m. to midnight is open to all students.

Neb. Crusade For Safety Pledges 11,000 Citizens

Nearly 11,000 Nebraskans have joined in the Crusade for Safety sponsored by the Omaha World Herald by signing the safety pledge circulated widely throughout the State.

The Daily Nebraskan, in its second week of cooperation with the "campaign to get every Nebraskan thinking about and doing something about his part in the state traffic-safety problem," has printed the pledge frequently, asking students to sign and return it to the office.

However, to date, only 4 University students are included among the 11,000 who are now participating in this campaign.

The need for such a campaign at the University was dramatically illustrated by two recent auto accidents in which one student was killed and two others seriously injured.

In fact, the entire state has been shown the need for such a crusade. The Nebraska Department of Veterans Affairs has reported that, while 208 Nebraskans have been killed in Korea since June 1950, during the same period, 854 Nebraskans lost their lives in traffic accidents.

In its first month, the Crusade for Safety found great success. Nebraska and Iowa ranked one-two for the lowest traffic death rates among seven Midwestern states since January 1. Plans are being completed for the initiation of more award systems to spur effort by individuals and groups.

More than 300 Nebraska editors have been invited to join the Crusade. The publisher of every daily, weekly, and semi-weekly newspaper in the state has been offered the use of all safety stories and features used by the World Herald.

The plan is strongly endorsed by The Nebraska Press Association.

Copies of the pledge received at The Daily Nebraskan office will be forwarded to the World Herald and added to those sent in from other parts of the state.

ATTENTION

At the bottom of today's Nebraskan, is a Safety Pledge which your student paper is running in conjunction with The Omaha World-Herald. Please read the story with the pledge.

If you are willing to sign the pledge, bring it to The Nebraskan offices in the basement of the Union. We will forward signed pledges to Omaha.

The recent death of John Spear in a highway accident should be reminder enough of the importance of being safety-conscious.

Play Tryouts Scheduled For Thursday

Tryouts for four one-act plays to be produced by the laboratory theater will be held Thursday from 3 to 4:30 p. m. in Room 201 Temple building.

The plays to be presented are "This is Villa," by Josephina Nigli; "Four Poster," by Jan De Hartag; "End of the Trail," and "For Each Man Kills."

"This is Villa" will be directed by Katy Kelly. The play is a fictional story taken from accounts Miss Nigli heard about Pouchou Villa and the Mexican Revolutionary War. The play has parts for five men and two women.

"Four Poster," the story of marriage, is a play from Broadway, with parts for one woman and one man. Nancy Dark will direct the play.

"End of the Trail," directed by Dean Jameson, contains parts for two men and one woman.

Jane Jordan will direct "For Each Man Kills." The play has parts for four men and two women.

Capacity Audience Witnesses Waring Presentation Tuesday

By MARILYN MITCHELL Staff Writer

Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians held the attention of a capacity audience with three unbroken hours of music and laughter at the Coliseum Tuesday evening.

One of the highlights of the show was Frank Davis who swayed emotions with his singing of "Jesus Walked This Lonely Valley" and "Old Man River."

Effective mugging by Poley McClintock, one of the members of the four who comprised Waring's original "Banjo" orchestra, served along with Waring's own moderating to hold the performance together.

Poley, a natural comedian, played "Nola" on his teeth, spitting out those "teeth" which supposedly chipped during his solo. Another of his "solos" was one note on the triangle during the Pennsylvanians' singing of "Dry Bones."

"Uncle Lumpty" Brannum entertained the audience with the tale of his botanical expedition to the Hi-a-waiian Islands. He concluded with a Hi-a-waiian song while he accompanied himself on the bass string.

Daisy Bernier and her gang played in a nightmare which Waring claimed he had had the night before. But even though Waring professed to prefer the classical in music, Daisy won over the audience singing a be-bop version of "When My Baby Walks Down the Street" and a classical take-off on "Heaven Will Protect the Working Girl."

Each soloist was applauded back for a second number, and the audience indicated more than once that they wanted to hear even more of the artists.

Joe Martin, singing "The Birth of the Blues" and "My Blue Heaven" seemed to have a special appeal to the coeds in the audience.

Tenors Gordon Goodman and Bob Sands, as well as baritone Leonard Kranendonk were versatile in their solos and popular with those attending.

Added features to the show were duo-pianists Virginia Morley and Livingston Gearhart, a husband-wife team who began with Rachmaninoff's "Prelude" and finished with their own rendition of "Three Blind Mice."

Soprano Frances Wyatt and duo Sylvia and Keith Textor also did effective solos. The Textors sang an arrangement of "Side By Side."

The "Song of America" climaxed the concert and people left the coliseum with a current of pride for their nation and its music and poetry.

Three Plays To Be Held This Week

Three one-act plays will be presented by the laboratory theater, composed of student directors and actors, Thursday and Friday at 7:30 p. m. in the laboratory theater, Temple.

The plays are "The Game of Chess," by Chekov; "The Browning Version," by Terrance Rattigan; and "The Monkey's Paw," by W. W. Jacobs.

"The Game of Chess," a pre-revolutionary Russian story dealing with the attempted assassination of a nobleman, is directed by Richard Fink. Production manager is Katy Kelly.

The cast includes Bob Wells, Alexis; Bill Walton, Boris; Paul Kidd, Constantine and Bob Williamson, a footman.

The student director of "Browning Version" is Vance Hanson. The story deals with an unsuccessful teacher who is leaving his school, unmoved until a student gives him the Browning version of a well-known book.

Cast members are Tony Melia, Frank; Fletcher Coleman, Andrew Crocker-Harris; Jean Carol DeLong, his wife; Joyce Fangman, Mrs. Gilbert; Jack Parris, Mr. Gilbert; Roger Wait, Frobisher; and Jim Davis, Taplow. Dorothy Elliott is the production manager.

Dick Shubert will direct "The Monkey's Paw," the story of a family that idolizes their son. The monkey's paw is a spell that grants wishes.

The cast includes Ron Brandt, Mr. White; Sandra Slick, Mrs. White; Dick Hess, Herbert White; Sylvan Zwick, Sergeant Major Morris; and A. D. Van Sickle, Samson. Production manager is Nancy Dark.

Lincoln ministers of every denomination will visit the sorority and fraternity houses during the week, speaking and answering questions. Religious speakers will discuss aspects of religion with denominational and interdenominational student groups in the various student houses. Faculty coffee hours, classroom visitations, and local meetings will round out the activities of the week.

Search Week is aimed at: 1. transplanting generalized hopes into actual reality, 2. creating a sense of purpose and direction, 3. asking "Is religion connected with every day living?" and "What is the revelation of religious faith to our every day life?"

4. winning students and faculty into active participation of organized institutions of faith, 5. to recognize the importance of churches today, 6. to seek to religious dedication whatever our faith may be in whatever vocational column we choose to follow, 7. to apply prin-

United Nation's Seminar Applications Due Mar. 11

Three Day Stopover in Washington, D. C. Scheduled For YM-YW Chartered Bus

This end they seek to accomplish through a four-point program:

To gain first-hand acquaintance with the UN through attending sessions, interviewing members of the secretariat, and meeting delegates from different countries.

To visit the U. S. Mission to learn how our government is related to the UN and our part in determining U. S. foreign policy.

To participate in a community of Students from different parts of this country and the world.

To consider what is required of us as responsible citizens of the world through interviews and discussion of international issues in the light of our Christian faith.

Anyone interested in registering for the trip should contact either Sam Gibson, executive secretary of the University YMCA or Janice Osburn, executive director of the University YWCA.

The purpose of the United Nations seminar, according to a pamphlet sent out by the National Student Council, is to answer the Christian student's question as to what they can do to help realize a free and peaceful world.

Seminary Student Continues Lecture On Religious Topics

C. Brandon Rimmer, student at Fuller Theological Seminary in Pasadena, will continue his series of lectures on "Christ and Reason" in Love Library Auditorium at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday and Thursday.

For the past seven years Rimmer has been lecturing throughout the United States on secular and religious topics. He received his B. A. in philosophy from the University of Southern California in 1951.

Rimmer fought in the North African and Italian campaigns while serving as a captain in the Air Force. He was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross.

Four To Speak At Symposium About Poetry

Robert E. Knoll, James E. Miller, Jr., Bernice Slote, assistant professors of English, and Walter F. Wright, professor of English, are members of a symposium on 20th century literature which will be held March 12 at 8 p. m. in Morrill Hall.

The symposium, sponsored by the Department of English, is being held as a general introduction to the Montgomery lecture series given by Karl Shapiro, which will be presented March 16 through 20.

The panel will "attempt to isolate those characteristics primarily or peculiarly distinctive in 20th century poetry," Knoll said.

The program will begin with a short talk on the general characteristics of poetry by Knoll. The remaining time will be devoted to answering questions from members of the panel and audience.

The symposium is open to the public.

Join The Crusade For Safety Here Is My Pledge

I personally pledge myself to drive and walk safely and think in terms of safety throughout 1953.

I give this promise in seriousness and earnestness having considered fully my obligation to protect my life and the lives of my family and my fellow men.

I pledge myself further to advance the cause of safety by taking part in safety activities of my club, school, employee group and other organizations.
