

Ag College Plays Host To 547 For Annual NU Hospitality Day

Program Includes Luncheon, Panels

Fifty high schools will send 547 representatives to the annual hospitality day at Ag College Wednesday.

Hospitality day is sponsored by the University's home economics department and the Home Economics Club.

Marilyn Schnert, a junior from Holdrege is general chairman for the day's festivities. She will be assisted by Miss Virginia Trotter.

Program

Program for the day includes registration, welcomes and greetings and a discussion in the morning. Dr. Doretta Schlaphoff, chairman of the home economics department, and Dean W. V. Lambert will give the welcomes.

The morning discussion will feature an Ag College student showing the function of classes and activities on the campus.

A luncheon is set for the noon hour. Entertainment at the luncheon will be a flute duet by Joyce Splitgerber and Margaret Christy accompanied by Jan Lindquist; a reading, "Prindearella and the Cingé" by Chlovey Ode; Farm House quartet; a reading "Hats" by Marilyn Musgrave and magician's acts by Keith Erlwine.

Rocky Yapp will be the master of ceremonies at the luncheon.

The afternoon program will provide tours and a panel discussion for the visiting high schoolers.

The discussion "Straight Scoop About Home Ec." will have a panel composed of Mrs. Virginia Trotter as moderator, Elizabeth Gass of Seward, Barbara Spilker of Minden, Phyllis Colbert of Lincoln and Betty Sisson of Oshkosh. All panel members are instructors or students at the University.

PLANS CONFIRMED . . . # Ag Board Sets Bull Session For Thursday

A "Bull Session" is scheduled for Thursday night at the College Activities Building on the Ag campus.

The meeting slated for 7:30 p.m. is open to all Ag students. A discussion and gripe session will be held for the students. A student may come and present any suggestion for a course on the Ag campus. Dale Olson, Ag Exec Board president said. The Ag Exec Board is sponsoring the "Bull Session."

Ephriam Hixson, dean of resident instructions of Ag College will moderate the discussion. He will start the gripe session with some of his own suggestions for the improvement of the college.

Each departmental chairman has been contacted and invited to attend the "Bull Session" Olson said.

Field Trip Study Offered As 3 Hour Summer Course

A 22 day field trip including 5,500 miles of travel has been planned for the Western Field Course, which is being offered this summer through the Department of Geography, the Summer Sessions and the Extension division.

"Learn Geography in Nature's Own Laboratory," is the theme of the course begins July 31 and ends August 22. It is a three hour course.

The tour will include the resources of eleven states and two Canadian provinces. In the four there are such features as: Grand Coulee Dam, Willamette Valley, Redwood Forest, Sierra Nevadas, Great Salt Lake, North Platte Valley, Jasper Park, Lake Louise, Yellowstone Park, Black Hills and Nebraska Sandhills.

The tour will provide an opportunity to study and enjoy the national forests and parks, fisheries, lumbering, ports, grazing, mining, oil fields and historic trails.

The course will be taught by Dr. Leslie Hewes, chairman of the department of geography. He has planned an itinerary that will combine the best instructional features of travel with text and lecture materials.

The course is open to all persons who have sophomore standing or above. The briefing sessions will begin in Lincoln on July 31 at the close of the regular summer session and the class will leave Lincoln on August 2.

A modern bus equipped with a public address system assures comfortable and profitable travel. Lodging in motor courts and hotels has been arranged.

The University Extension Division is now accepting registration and further information about the 1953 study tour may be obtained from them.

ANNUAL KENNEL CLUB DOG SHOW

Barking Canines Fill Coliseum

By SARA STEPHENSON Staff Writer

The barking of more than 300 dogs lent variety to the University Coliseum's routine of cheers, speeches and songs, during the Cornhusker Kennel Club's annual dog show Sunday.

One of the new features of the show this year was an obedience trial registered by the American Kennel Club, ruler of the dog world.

Miss Barbara Drinkwater, instructor of women's physical education, entered and handled her red cocker spaniel, Carolina Miss III, in the trial along with 20 other obedience enthusiasts. Cindy, as she is called, earned 188 points out of a possible 200 and thus achieved the first leg toward her Companion Dog degree.

The Companion Dog degree is awarded to a dog which earns 50 per cent of the points offered on each of the six exercises, plus having an over-all total of 150 points.

A dog must prove his merit by meeting these requirements at three different shows under three different judges before the degree is granted by the American Kennel Club. With the judge taking off points for any small mistake, the degree is quite difficult to obtain.

Cindy, handled by Miss Drinkwater, was high point dog at the Cornhusker Kennel Club sanction match on January 25, so they are familiar with this type of work. They appeared in an obedience demonstration on KOLNTV as advertisement for Sunday's show. Cindy was entered in the obedience trial only and not in the regular dog show.

Bill Hodder, senior in Business Administration, was present at the Sunday event to give the relatives of Sirron Gui de Noel the once-over. The Phi Delt dog, commonly known as Max, was not entered in the show, but C. E. Morris, breeder of the Great Pyrenees, brought eight of Max's relatives to the show. Hodder returned to the Phi Delt house with a lot of new ideas on dog care after a talk with Mr. Morris.

Ron Dade, sophomore in Arts and Sciences, and a budding professional handler and breeder of collies, had five of his own dogs entered this year, but he handled only two dogs in this show. Parader's Diamond Jim, a dog owned by the Parader Kennels in Omaha, was reserve male winner.

Ten-month old Royal Duke's Heritage, owned and handled by Dade, was judged first in the puppy class and best local collie in the show.

Dade has just returned from a five-city tour of shows where his dogs took top honors. Kansas City, Chicago, Indianapolis, Minneapolis and Denver all had over a thousand dogs entered. Dick Waeden, a sophomore at Peru State Teachers' College, accompanied Dade on his tour.

Ludwig Von Koenigstein, a dachshund owned by Carole Marx, Arts and Sciences freshman, took the blue ribbon in the novice male class.

Though the climax of the show was crowning of the toy poodle,

Champion Marquis Show Boy of Glade, as the best dog in the show, the event was but a semi-climax for 11-year old Dave Wolfarth from Lincoln. At the beginning of the evening judging program, Dave received a tri-color collie puppy for his essay on "Why Train Your Dog."

The ten winners in the contest, which was open to all children 12 years and under, were guests of the Cornhusker Kennel Club at the all-day show.

ALL POOPED . . . Sir Mack II, a one-year old English bulldog, expressed the feelings of all entrants in the Cornhusker Kennel Club dog show at the end of a day of strenuous competition. Sir Mack is owned by Glenn Warren and Glenn Eager of Louisville.

Gustavson Speaks To Dairy Breeders

Chancellor R. G. Gustavson spoke to 150 members of the Nebraska Dairy Breeders' Association April 23.

He told the association that the University had a storehouse of information in the Ag college and urged the members to take advantage of the service.

The dairy breeders inspected their new physical plant north of Fremont during the meeting.

The new plant is to serve as a distributing section for the department of artificial insemination of dairy cattle.

OPTOMETRY IN THREE YEARS, IF YOU HAVE SIXTY L. A. CREDITS

In three college years, you can prepare for the attractive profession of optometry if you have a minimum of sixty required Liberal Arts credits.

There is a shortage of optometrists in many States. Eighty per cent of the Nation's millionaires depend upon the Doctor of Optometry and his professional skill in conserving vision.

The optometrist possesses the dignity of being a professional man. He renders a service essential to the health and well-being of his community. Substantial financial rewards are obtainable almost from the beginning of his practice. Optometry is especially attractive to women.

The U. S. Department of Defense and Selective Service grant optometry students the same consideration accorded medical students.

Chicago College of Optometry, nationally accredited, is located in the heart of the world's greatest center for teaching in the healing arts. It is famous for its eye clinic. A building program is in progress. Dormitory accommodations, apartments and other facilities are available on a large campus.

For catalog and other literature, address Registrar, Chicago College of Optometry, 1945-K Laramie St., Chicago 14, Ill. RW.
