Lindley First Art Student To Win Fulbright Award

Paris Study Set For Fall

Ward Lindley, senior in Arts and Sciences, will study art in Paris next fall at the Ecole des Beaux Arts under a Fulbright scholarship provision.

Lindley, a native of Omaha, will leave for France in the middle of September. He will enroll at the government school on October 1 for four weeks of orientation prior to study.

After he entered the University in the fall of 1949, Lindley decided to concentrate on art instead of music. He had given several duo-piano concerts at Joslyn Memorial in Omaha during the past six years.

Lindley recently was named recipient of the purchase award in painting at the Springfield 22nd annual exhibition.

The fourth winner of the Fulbright scholarship in the University's department of art, Lindley is the first student who has won the award.

The other three Fulbright scholarship winners were members of the faculty.

Hal Wilmeth, a professor of history at the University, studied in Italy. LeRoy Burkett, assistant professor of art, the second winner, has just returned from studies in Paris, and the third winner, Rudy Pozzatti, is presently studying in Italy.

Lindley will return to this country for a Master's degree in art after completing his studies in Paris.

FULBRIGHT SCHOLARSHIP WINNER AND HIS WORK... Ward Lindley is shown with two of the paintings which helped him win a year's study at the Ecole de Beaux Arts in Paris.

New Emphasis For Educational Television Predicted By Committee Director Reed

New emphasis this year in educational television across the nation is predicted by Paul Reed, assistant director of the Joint Committee on Educational Television, Washington, D. C.

"This year is destined to be a record of achievement," he told more than 100 representatives of educational and civic groups attending the University's Conference on Educational Television in Nebraska Friday.

The past year, ending this June 2, educators and interested laymen built the foundation for educational television to justify the need for such a service in this country, he said.

The scorecard, he explained, for this past year reads: Out of 242 non-commercial channels assigned, 25 applications have been submitted to date with 17 construction permits issued. During the next month, he expects another 20 applications for educational television stations.

He also pointed out that one educational TV station is now in operation in Houston, Texas, and that two more—one in Los Angeles and another in St. Louis—will go on the air in the next two months.

These stations and others to follow will prove with their performance that educational television is a necessity, he said.

George Round, director of public relations and chairman of the University TV Committee, emphasized that the future of educational television rests with all of us: public and private school people, parochial school people, parent-teachers organizations, home-makers, businessmen, fathers, mothers and commercial television stations.

"Together I am sure that we can build a pattern of educational TV which will be envied by others and aid in the transmission of knowledge, or we can accept the defeatist attitude and merely say, 'TV, sure it's a fine thing for entertainment.'"

Round sketched the present status of educational TV in Nebraska and said, "I think educational institutions have made a good start; not a perfect start, but an intelligent small start."

He commended Chancellor R. G. Gustavson for "having a big hand in getting educational television before the country as a whole."

He listed programs on commercial stations presented by Nebraska, Creighton and Omaha Universities.

Also in the morning session, Chancellor Gustavson welcomed the conference gathering and listed the purpose of the sessions as:

1. To examine present and potential educational uses of television.
2. To report on the latest developments in educational television, as they pertain to Nebraska.
3. To determine what immediate action, if any, should be taken to further the development of educational television in Nebraska.

Ed W. Janke, secretary of the University TV Committee, acted as chairman of the morning session.

Featured in the afternoon session were talks by William B. Levenson, assistant superintendent of schools at Cleveland, O., and Arthur Brandon, director of public relations at University of Michigan.

The resolution was submitted to the main group by:

Mrs. A. E. Hanneman, Nebraska Congress of Parents and Teachers; Mrs. Clifford M. Hicks, Nebraska Council for Better Education; William Bogar, Nebraska Association of School Administrators; John E. Lynch, Nebraska State Education Association; LeRoy Ortgiesen, Nebraska Department of Public Instruction; R. C. Williams, S. J., Creighton University; Wayne P. Marshall, Superintendent of Schools, Trenton, Secy.; Leroy T. Laase, University of Nebraska, Chairman.

Long Hike...

Two students walked 60 miles in 12 hours, from London to Cambridge, and arrived just in time to keep a date with a girl from Girton college.

Crosby Asked By Resolution To Appoint TV Committee

Gov. Robert Crosby was asked Friday to appoint a Governor's Committee "to investigate problems of educational television in Nebraska and to make recommendations for its development and utilization."

The request was made in a resolution adopted Friday night by representatives of educational and civic groups attending the University Conference on Educational Television.

The resolution read in part: "The participants... recognize the great potential values of educational television to the people of the State of Nebraska."

"It is urgent that the two educational channels now allocated by the FCC to the State of Nebraska be preserved for future development."

YEARS AHEAD OF THEM ALL!

1. THE QUALITY CONTRAST between Chesterfield and other leading cigarettes is a revealing story. Recent chemical analyses give an index of good quality for the country's six leading cigarette brands.
- The index of good quality table—a ratio of high sugar to low nicotine—shows Chesterfield quality highest
- ... 15% higher than its nearest competitor and Chesterfield quality 31% higher than the average of the five other leading brands.

2. First to Give You Premium Quality in Regular and King-size... much milder with an extraordinarily good taste—and for your pocketbook, Chesterfield is today's best cigarette buy.
3. A Report Never Before Made About a Cigarette. For well over a year a medical specialist has been giving a group of Chesterfield smokers regular examinations every two months. He reports... no adverse effects to nose, throat and sinuses from smoking Chesterfield.

CHESTERFIELD IS BEST FOR YOU
