

SC, Faculty Disagree On New Parking Plan

Council To Review Proposed Program

Presentation of the proposed 1953-1954 faculty parking program was made by Rocky Yapp at the Student Council meeting Wednesday.

Following a discussion on the acceptability of this program, it was evident that the Council, in general, opposed the proposed measures of the administration's parking plan for next year.

Further discussion revealed that an indication has already been given the Council by the faculty that the weight of any Student Council opposition to this parking plan will not be sufficient to block its passage.

A special committee was drawn up, however, to review the faculty parking proposal and select the items that the Council felt were particularly objectionable to the interests of the students.

Administration's Proposal Lists Twelve Provisions

In accordance with preferences of the majority opinion of the faculties of the various colleges and staffs of the various divisions of the Lincoln campuses expressed in response to a statement circulated on March 12, 1953, the following is proposed as the parking policy for the 1953-54 academic year:

1. There will be four reserved parking areas for the city campus as follows: "A," in the rear of the Music Building; "B," on the south side of T Street from 10th Street to 12th Street; "C," in west and central sectors of the Library Mall; and "D," in the east sector of the Library Mall.

on the east, Merrill Street on the north and 33rd Street on the west. 6. Permits will be issued to eligible persons for the reserved areas. The permits deny the recipient access to any other parking area. Permits will be issued at a fee of $1 for the academic year. These shall be issued by the campus police, Room 102, Temporary L.

7. Permits will be issued to eligible persons for the general areas by the campus police, Room 102, Temporary L, at the rate of $1 for the academic year. Permits issued for the general areas do not admit holders to reserved areas.

2. There will be four reserved parking areas for the College of Agriculture campus. "One," west of Agricultural Hall; "Two," at the rear of Animal Husbandry Hall; "Three," east of Animal Husbandry Hall, adjacent to the water tower; and "Four," at the rear of the Plant Industry Building.

8. Staff members, employees or students receiving tickets for misuse of parking space without permits, or for violation of these traffic rules, shall pay fines of $1 for each such violation. Fines will be payable at the Business Manager's office, Administration Hall 102, within 24 hours after receipt of said ticket.

3. Staff members who have assigned duties on both the city campus and College of Agriculture campus shall be issued permits valid in reserved parking areas on both campuses. The fee for such permits shall be the same as for reserved areas on both of the campuses.

9. The holder of a parking permit must forfeit the permit to the campus police after receipt of more than six parking violation tickets in any academic year, or more than four in any one semester. The forfeiture will apply for the remainder of the 1953-54 academic year.

4. Only full-time members of the academic administrative staffs are eligible for parking privileges in the reserved areas.

10. A student may appeal the issuance of payment of tickets to the Dean of Student Affairs. However, students who persistently violate parking regulations after having had parking permits forfeited shall be subject to such disciplinary measures as the Dean of Student Affairs and the Chancellor may direct. In all cases, a student may appeal to the Committee on Conduct Appeals, to the Chancellor, and the Board of Regents.

5. All other parking lots and streets on the Lincoln campuses are open to all other employees of the University, both part-time and full-time; and to all students whose residence while in Lincoln is eight blocks or more from the perimeter of the campus. The perimeter as defined here is the area bounded on the west by 10th Street, south by R Street, east by 17th Street and north by Avery Avenue. The perimeter for the Agricultural campus is defined as the area bounded by Holdrege Street on the south, 48th Street

Friday DN To Carry Winners Of Outstanding Nebraskan Contest

With the addition of five nominations for this semester's outstanding Nebraskan awards, nominations closed Wednesday afternoon.

graduate work, upon which, ultimately, the reputation of the Graduate College and the caliber of its graduates are based. The University of Nebraska students have been provided with a nationally ranking Graduate College on their own campus, a College which also, attracts students of high quality from elsewhere in the United States and from abroad.

George Round, University Director of Public Relations; Dean Goss, Dean of Graduate College; Henry Gibson, junior in engineering; Dr. David Foltz, professor of voice and choral director; Pat Bechan, senior in Arts and Sciences, and Col. C. J. Frankforter, associate professor of Chemistry, are the last nominations for the honor.

"As Agricultural Extension Editor he has been responsible for planning the publication of much newspaper, magazine, and radio material related to the College of Agriculture. "As Director of Public Relations, the first person ever to hold the title, his job is of tremendous importance, particularly in years like this one, when the State Legislature is in session, doing much of the work necessary to arrange the presentation of the University's biennial budget request before the Legislature. And though it is generally known, it was due largely to Round's efforts that the so-called Loyalty Oath bill, which many University persons found so obnoxious, was withdrawn without ill-feelings."

Students in sophomore NROTC had been re-assured by their instructor and students who had taken the course that the final examination would be an easy job after the usual dose of interior and exterior ballistics. The exam day, Tuesday, arrived and all students learned the horrible truth — the exam was rough, very rough. A group of dismayed and dog-tired students stood outside the examination room after handing in their papers—defeat written on their faces. As the door opened more students walked out wearing the same expression.

Bailey's Proposals

These were: 1. The proposed program does not provide for a student-faculty committee to hear appeals on parking fines issued students. This was one of the measures the Council was seeking to enact in the faculty program.

2. The faculty proposal states that fines must be paid within 24 hours after they are issued. Since it is improbable that those with the authority to hear appeals (The Dean of Student Affairs and the Committee on Conduct Appeals, the Chancellor and the Board of Regents) will be available every day to hear appeals, it would seem that some parking violators will not be given the opportunity to appeal their cases.

3. The revenue that is to come from raising the price of parking stickers from 25 cents to $1.00 will go to increase the campus police force as well as to enact the measures of the parking program. It does not seem to be justifiable that students who buy parking stickers should have to support the campus police that guard the entire campus.

4. The main idea behind the recommendations on parking given the faculty by the Student Council was to eliminate the practice of rustication of students from class attendance for a week. In this new proposal, no specific measures were given as to what punishment would be given a chronic parker violator. It was merely stated that the violator would be subject to disciplinary measures which the Dean of Student Affairs and the Chancellor may direct.

5. Bailey's proposal was defeated by the Council in favor of waiting for the special committee's report on the Council's objection, that will be presented today at a special Council meeting.

6. Marshal Kushner addressed the Council as a student representative on the committee on student publications. He advised the Council on the recent action taken by the publications board, that of cutting the issues of the Daily Nebraskan from four to three issues a week.

Kushner Explains

Kushner gave a thorough explanation of the situation confronting the publications board and said that it was hoped that by the end of the fall semester next year we could return to four issues weekly.

The Council discussed the fundraising problems of the Daily Nebraskan and a committee was appointed to investigate the publication board's actions and any possible alternative action. It was pointed out at the Council meeting that a student paper issued four times a week would serve the interests of the students more completely than a paper issued only three times a week.

Yapp went through the list of the 15 Council committees and appointed each Council member to act as a member of at least one of these for the coming school year.

Dr. Gus

Dr. H. G. Werkmeister, who gave his last talk at the University for some time, presented some of the facts and explained the value theory from a three-volume book which he is writing.

Billoni

The egotist is right. He can't open his mouth without putting his feet into it.

Mama: "This is our new neighbor, Mrs. Jones. Kiss the pretty lady, Junior." Junior: "No! I'm afraid." Mama: "Why, Junior, what an awful thing to say!" Junior: "Well, she might slap me like she slapped Papa."

Irv: "Does this wind bother you?" Date: "Oh, no, talk as much as you please."

Willie: "Every night I dream of a sign on a door and I push it and push it, but I can't open it!" Bogus: "What does the sign say?" Willie: "Pull."

T' Hug is energy that has gone to waste. A girl who knows all the answers has been asked all the questions.

"I hate to tell you this," said the psychiatrist, "but the fact is, your wife's mind is gone—completely gone." The husband sighed. "Can't say I'm surprised. She's been giving me a piece of it every day for 15 years now."

Munch: "You're just two steps ahead of an idiot." Zieders: "Well, why don't you walk faster?"

Put away the picnic clothing and bring out the rain coats college James and Joes as the weatherman is up to his old trick of producing thunder showers and light rains for Friday and the weekend. The temperature is expected to reach a high of seventy for the weekend days.

Commencement Committee To Conduct Ticket Exchange

A ticket exchange will be conducted June 1 and 2 from 2 to 4 p.m. in the Student Council office to aid graduating seniors in obtaining more than the three tickets allotted them.

Mary Lou Flaherty, chairman of the ticket exchange committee, requests that all graduating students who do not need the three tickets given them put them in the ballot box in the Union Activities office.

The committee urges students to keep the tickets for the use of Class members. Each person presenting a ticket will be admitted to the Coliseum between 9 and 9:40 a.m. on June 8. The doors will be open to the general public at 9:40 a.m.

Rehearsal for candidates for degrees will be June 6 at 11 a.m. in the Coliseum. Details of the commencement program, arrangements for seating in designated areas, information instructions regarding the processional and recessional will be given at the rehearsal. Caps and gowns will not be worn during rehearsal.

The June 8 processional will begin at 10 a.m. All Candidates are to meet in front of the library. In event of rain there will be no procession. Diplomas and certificates for students who have fulfilled all degree requirements, will be distributed in Grand Memorial (east entrance) following the exercises. After 1 p.m. they will be distributed from the Senior Checking Office, Room 9 in Administration Hall.

Graduates are to present their I. D. cards when picking up their diplomas. These unable to call for diplomas will be charged 50 cents for mailing. Each candidate is required to attend the graduation exercises unless officially excused by the dean of their college, the Committee on Commencement and Honorary Degrees announced.

Each excused candidate must pay a $10 fee. Arrangements for absence from exercises must be made at the office Registration and Records not later than May 29.

Another letter spoke of Pat Bechan's tireless efforts throughout the entire school year and last summer, resulting in "a truly remarkable Cornhusker, portraying every phase of campus life."

'Decisions Rest On Value Judgment'—Werkmeister

Dr. H. G. Werkmeister, who gave his last talk at the University for some time, presented some of the facts and explained the value theory from a three-volume book which he is writing.

Dr. Werkmeister spoke Wednesday at 4 p.m. at the Union for the final seminar discussion group.

"Because of my many good friends it is hard to leave this University," said Dr. Werkmeister, who recently resigned his position as chairman of the philosophy department. He has been at the University 23 years.

Director of the School of Philosophy at Southern University in California will be Dr. Werkmeister's new position in the fall.

Utility, beauty, goodness, value, right, and ought were the words used by Dr. Werkmeister in connection of his explanations of his theory. He brought out how each word affects the other.

"Any decision rests on value judgment," stated the professor. "My theory cannot be proved. I can only persuade people to accept this. Men are rational and reasonable beings and the reasonable person should do what is right," said Dr. Werkmeister.

The only good that can be accepted is "goodwill" and the definition Dr. Werkmeister used for goodwill was "the will which aims at the realization of values."

Right is the quality which pertains to an act and fills the two conditions of the act of goodwill and the act performed with best possible information concerning the act.

Each excused candidate must pay a $10 fee. Arrangements for absence from exercises must be made at the office Registration and Records not later than May 29.

The traditional Cornhusker-Daily Nebraskan softball game and picnic will be held Friday at 2 p.m.

Columnists, reporters, staff members of both publications and the board of publications members may attend the picnic. Persons interested in attending should meet at the Daily Nebraskan office at 1:45 p.m. Buses will be provided.

Nancy Odum and Marilyn Tyson are making arrangements for the food.

Three Arena plays and two lab stage plays will be given May 21 and 22 in the Temple Building at 7:30 p.m.

No admission will be charged. These plays are presented by the University Laboratory Productions.

The four plays that will be given in the Arena are "The Moon is Blue," "Glass Mengerie" and "The Boor."

Rita Shaw is the director and Norma Erickson is the production manager of the "Moon is Blue." This play is a cut from the Broadway production. The cast includes Margot Hunt, A. D. Van Sickle, Fletcher Coleman and John Churchill.

More than 300 students gathered in the Union Ballroom Wednesday evening to honor the University's retiring chancellor.

Dr. R. G. Gustavson, who has announced his resignation from the University to serve as president of the Resources for the Future Inc., was presented a movie camera, a projector and a book of instructions purchased entirely from student donations.

After he was presented the gifts by Don Noble and Sylvia Krasne, presidents of Innocents and Mortar Boards, the Chancellor told the students that it "would be very hard to break the ties" with the University.

He explained the work he would be doing in his new job which is an adjunct of the Ford Foundation. The Chancellor said that all his life he had been looking for pennies to support his ideas. Now, he said, he will have to look for ideas to spend dollars on.

Rocky Yapp, new president of the Student Council, gave a short sketch of the Chancellor's life and Janet Steffen, president of the Associated Women's Students Board, explained the contributions Dr. Gustavson has made to student life during his administration here.

Kassa Michael, a student from Ethiopia, described the Chancellor's relations with international students. He called Nebraska his second home and indicated that Dr. Gustavson was largely responsible for that feeling.

Marjorie Danly, who was accompanied by Mary Robinson, and David Mullin, who was accompanied by Janice Fullerton, sang solos.

Dr. Werkmeister explained that the basis of his theory stems from an occasion that leads to an experience. He presented illustrations and explanations.

The different kinds of value experiences that were cited by Dr. Werkmeister included joy of creation, peace of mind, intellectual satisfaction, communal feeling, well-being, gratifications of appetites, and simple pleasures.

Following his talk, Dr. Werkmeister answered questions asked by the audience.

Before talking over his new post in California, Dr. Werkmeister will present a paper at the Eleventh International Congress of Philosophy in Brussels, Belgium.
