

Frankforter, Raymond—'Outstanding'

Col. C. J. Frankforter, associate professor of chemistry, and Ruth Raymond, senior journalism student, are the winners of the Outstanding Nebraskan awards. The Daily Nebraskan made the choice from a field of 11 nominees.

In the letter nominating Col. Frankforter, he was cited for "serving this University and the students connected with it unselfishly for about 20 years."

"As an advisor for many students, he has helped a great number of troubled students by his frank and sincere advice."

"He is advisor for numerous organizations among which number: Sponsor of Corn Cobs, honorary innocent and sponsor, as well as sponsor for all band trips."

"Through his wide contacts with students both in and out of the class room, he has made a great number of friends."

Col. Frankforter graduated from Lincoln High School and received his BA degree and Masters degree from the University. He obtained his Ph.D. from the University of Minnesota. He then returned to the University and has spent his teaching career in the chemistry department, instructing classes and doing research.

At the University he has also been active in military activities since World War I. He is now high-ranking colonel of the University ROTC. Annually an award in his name is given to the outstanding ROTC student.

The letter nominating Miss Raymond said: "We feel that in her senior year Ruth probably has been the outstanding woman on the campus, for as the first semester editor of The Nebraskan, she rose quickly to defend the right of our professors and students to be free of any dogmatic indoctrination and through her editorials she helped to maintain their freedom in the classroom, to examine critically all that they study."

"Ruth has made further contributions to the campus, besides editing a good paper, by participating throughout her three years here in the activities of several extra-curricular organizations."

Miss Raymond is a graduate of Scottsbluff High School and a graduating senior at the University in the College of Arts and Sciences. She is past editor, associate editor, managing editor, and news editor of The Daily Nebraskan. She is a member of Kappa Tau Alpha, honorary journalism fraternity, and Theta Sigma Phi, women's professional journalism honorary. She was senior attendant to the May Queen on Ivy Day.

Fourteen students and faculty members have been honored since The Daily Nebraskan inaugurated the Outstanding Nebraskan award in 1949. Selection of the contest winners is based on the nominations made by student and faculty members. Each semester two Outstanding Nebraskans are chosen—one student and one faculty member.

SC Makes Recommendations On Faculty Parking Proposal

Farewell To Gus

Committee, Nicoll To Confer Today About Council's Tentative Changes

"In a final attempt to obtain a parking policy that is truly a result of student-faculty and administration cooperation, the special parking committee of the Student Council makes the following comments and recommendations concerning the tentative parking policy for 1953-54."

The above statement marks the opening paragraph of the recommended changes to be offered the administration by the Student Council as part of the proposed parking program for next year.

A special meeting of the Council was held yesterday to discuss the measures of the above proposal that had been drawn up at an earlier Council parking committee meeting.

After considerable debate on various aspects of the proposal and taking into account the suggestions of Robert E. Knoll, assistant professor of English, who is one of the faculty advisers to the Council, the following parts of the Council's proposal were unanimously approved and will be submitted to the administration as they appear here:

"We agree with articles 1-5 inclusive as presented in the instructions proposed parking proposal.

"Articles 6 and 7 provide that permits will be issued to eligible persons for the reserved areas. The permits deny the recipient access to any other parking area. Permits will be issued at a fee of $1 for the academic year. These shall be issued by the campus police in Room 102, Temporary L."

The Student Council is willing to take charge of the sale of these permits if the campus police have sufficient confidence in our intent to sell only to qualified individuals. We do not feel that the $1 fee is excessive, however we do have an additional suggestion, which will be made in reference to Article 12.

"Article 8 states that the $1 fines must be paid at the Business Managers office within 24 hours after receipt. We would rather see a system similar to that used by the Lincoln City Police which provides that fines paid within

- 1-5 days $1.
- 6-15 days $2.
- 15 days or after $4.

"In lieu of court action held after 15 days by the city police, we propose that the student credits be withheld until payment of the parking fines. (This is to be included on the back of all tickets.)"

University Alumnus Dies In Washington

A former University faculty member, Harold Hedges died Monday in Washington, D.C.

He was chief of the Bank of Co-operatives, Department of Agriculture.

Hedges as an agricultural economist at the University headed the College of Agriculture's marketing division and did special work for government agencies.

He was named secretary of the Bank of Co-operatives at Omaha in 1934. He later became head of the Washington D. C. office.

Graduating from the University in 1921, he continued to obtain his masters degree from the University.

In 1925, he returned to the campus and served as associate professor of rural economics.

"We feel that the 24 hour period is inadequate and that action in advent of non-payment should be clearly stated."

"We are in agreement with article 9."

"Article 10 provides for a system of appeals with which we agree, although we have favored a student-faculty committee to air these appeals."

"We feel the policy towards persistent violators should be made more definite. We again feel the system used by the Lincoln City Police is adequate. That is, persistent violators receive persistent fines. We do not feel that additional disciplinary action such as rustication is required."

"Article 11 provides that for handling of staff members who disregard the intent of the parking regulations and we do agree with that action. In addition we realize that we are a student body with no control over faculty affairs, but we do believe that all violators should receive equal punishment."

"Article 12 provides that permit fees and parking fines be used to enforce the parking policy. In addition we feel that any surplus of the funds collected should be used for parking lot improvements."

"In addition to these comments and recommendations we believe that a strong policy should be enacted for violators not holding permits. This should include both University and non-University persons."

Upon concluding the business of the day, the regular sessions of the Council have been concluded for the year. A special meeting of the parking committee will be held today when the committee confers with Bruce Nicoll to discuss the Council's proposed changes in the administration tentative parking plan for 1953-1954.

Gus' Resignation Top 1953 Story

When Dr. R. G. Gustavson resigned after being Chancellor of the University since Sept. 1, 1946, he made the news that constituted the Daily Nebraskan's biggest news story for the second semester.

The Chancellor will leave the University to become president of Resources for the Future, Inc., a fund associated with the Ford Foundation.

To show their appreciation for Dr. Gustavson and regret of his resignation, more than 300 students attended a banquet in his honor. At this banquet he was given a movie camera and projector which was purchased entirely with student donations.

The remaining ten top stories are as follows:

2. The cut in Daily Nebraskan issues.
3. Brownell's speaking at Commencement.
4. Medical school appropriations.
5. Elections.
6. Administration's action against liquor regulations.
7. Doctor of Education degree.
8. Ivy Day.
9. Vacation robberies.
10. Model United Nations.

The story in second place was created when the Student Publication reduced the issues of the Daily Nebraskan from four to three copies a week. This decision was made in order to defray the cost of publishing the Nebraskan.

Herbert Brownell Jr., United States attorney general, who graduated from the University of Nebraska in 1922, will speak at the 82nd commencement June 8. This information was the third biggest story of the year.

Next came the story of the decision of the Nebraska legislature to finance a long range building program at the University School of Medicine. The funds will be provided by a quarter of a mill levy over a period of years.

In fifth place was the election story which told of the campaign and the election of junior and senior class officers and Student Council representatives. Junior and senior class presidents are Marvin Stromer, Arts and Sciences, and Theodore James, Business Administration.

The story concerning the Administration's action against violation of liquor regulations in the University took sixth position.

Rating seventh were the stories about the creation of a Doctor of Education degree at the University. Such a degree was proposed by the Chancellor but Dr. Robert W. Goss, dean of the Graduate School is opposed to it.

Ivy Day at which Julie Johnson, Arts and Sciences, was presented as May Queen was the event which was featured in the story which rated eighth.

Ninth in place was the story of the robberies during the spring vacation in which nearly $500 in cash and valuables was taken from the Sigma Chi, Farm House, and Beta Sigma Psi fraternities.

The tenth place is occupied by the news of the Model United Nations in which University students assumed the roles of foreign delegates and tried to solve the problems of the United Nations.

Air ROTC Unit Ups Pre-Flight Requirements

Aimed at providing increased flying personnel for the Air Force, a more selective program has been adopted by the University Air ROTC unit, Lt. Col. Alex C. Jamieson, commandant, revealed Thursday.

Of the 153 applicants tentatively accepted to date for next fall's advanced course, 96 are qualified for flight training, 20 for the engineering phase and 27 for administrative training, he said.

The need for an increase in flight officer graduates from Air ROTC units, he said, is caused by the Air Force's goal of 143 operational wing by 1955.
