Golf, Football In News

By GEORGE PAYNICH
One ex-Husker athlete making quite a name for himself in Nebraska golfing circles this summer is Dick Spangler Jr. The former star for the University of Nebraska golf team won his second straight Lincoln Country Club tilt Tuesday by downing Del Ryder 7 and 6 in the finals of the club tournament.

Spangler together with teammates Louie Roper and Irv Petersen, all of Lincoln, have brought the limelight on the university golf sport by their consistent-amateur play. Roper worked his way into the quarterfinals of the Trans-Mississippi golf meet while Petersen has been one of the top amateur players in the state.

King football is a lot nearer than one realizes. John Bordogna, senior from Turtle Creek, Pa., is the boy we think will fill the new spot in the single-wing formation adequately. John has settled down quite a bit from his erratic sophomore year and is more serious and determined to do the job than ever before.

It is this reporter's belief that John will be one of the truly great tailbacks in the nation next season. The televised opener will give him a chance to strut his stuff before the football fans of the nation.
