

Finalists Named For KK Royalty

MB's, Innocents Choose Twelve To Vie For Prince, Sweetheart

Finalists for Nebraska Sweetheart and Prince Kosmet were picked Monday evening.

Selected by the Innocents Society, the six Sweetheart candidates are:

JEAN STEFFEN, a junior in Teachers College and a member of Gamma Phi Beta, AUF and Builders.

Chancellor Selection May Wait

'Selleck Fills Post Well'

There is a possibility that a new chancellor will not be selected until next year.

C. Y. Thompson of West Point, chairman of the Board of Regents, confirmed that it has been suggested the University could get along until the end of this school year before a new appointee assumes the position.

THOMPSON SAID that the Regents feel Acting Chancellor John K. Selleck is doing a first rate interim job of filling the post left vacant by the resignation of Dr. R. G. Gustafson.

The faculty committee, which is preparing a list of possible nominees for chancellor, will meet again with the Regents Saturday morning.

THOMPSON SAID he could not say whether or not the faculty committee would present its final report at that time. The faculty-prepared list was reportedly pruned to five names at an earlier meeting.

After a final list of prospects has been prepared, the Regents must check the availability of men under consideration and conduct interviews before a final selection is made, Thompson said.

of Gamma Phi Beta, AUF and Builders.

Cynthia Holyoke, a senior in Teachers College, and a member of Kappa Alpha Theta and Women's Athletic Association.

Eileen Mullarky, a junior in Teachers College, a member of Delta Gamma, YWCA cabinet, AUF board, AWS board and Builders.

Barbara Pape, a sophomore, member of Town Club, majoring in physical education.

Nancy Hemphill, a member of Pi Beta Phi, Student Union Board and a junior in home economics.

Doty Orchard, a junior in Teachers College, a member of Chi Omega and Builders Board.

THE SIX PRINCE candidates selected by Mortar Boards are:

Tom Woodward, a junior in Arts and Sciences, member of Sigma Nu, Corn Cobs and news editor of The Nebraskan.

Ken Pinkerton, a member of Alpha Gamma Rho, Cornhusker Section Head and a junior in Agriculture College.

Rex Fischer, a varsity football halfback and sophomore member of Phi Gamma Delta.

Stan Matzke, a junior agriculture student and a member of Farmhouse, basketball player and track man.

Jim Cederdahl, Phi Delta Theta, N-Club secretary, historian of Phi Kappa Epsilon, former varsity halfback, baseball player and a junior majoring in physical education.

Carr Trumbull, a member of Corn Cobs, the Student Council, Law Association, Red Cross, Sigma Chi and the Innocents' Society, and a senior law student.

The candidates were reviewed in an atmosphere of fun and frolic, callisthenics and measurements, questions and answers, in which the Innocents and the Mortar Boards each tried desperately to outdo the other — in provoking embarrassment, laughs, smiles, blushes and admissions.

Faces Are Mirrors

A series of emotions are shown as a hard-fighting Husker player barely misses a pass during the Nebraska-Missouri football game in Columbia. William Aldrich closes his eyes in silent resignation

while Ardis Fuhrman seems to curse the bad luck. Richard Wieland nearly gives up his support while Jerrie Langelett shows a "nice try" look. (Nebraskan Photo by Maynard Small.)

Governor Crosby To Speak At Annual NHSPA Meeting

The 22nd annual convention of the Nebraska High School Press Association will be held at the University School of Journalism Nov. 6 and 7.

Approximately 700 high school journalists and their faculty advisers are expected to attend the convention, which will feature Gov. Robert E. Crosby as speaker.

visers are expected to attend the convention, which will feature Gov. Robert E. Crosby as speaker.

Chemist To Lead Seminar Session

"Altruism—A factor in Evolution" is the topic to be discussed at a seminar Wednesday in the Union Faculty Lounge at 4 p.m.

Clarence J. Frankforter, associate professor of chemistry, will be moderator.

The Seminar Series is a group of informal discussions for faculty members and students on topics of general interest. Coffee will be served at the meetings.

AWARDS regularly made at the NHSPA sessions are: the five gold keys to outstanding first-year students in the School of Journalism, presented by the Lincoln Journal and Star; the yearbook trophy presented to an outstanding high school annual by the Grand Island Independent; three plaques awarded to high school newspapers by the Omaha World-Herald.

GAMMA ALPHA CHI, University women's professional advertising fraternity, will present a certificate for outstanding work in student publications. Campus chapters of Sigma Delta Chi and Theta Sigma Phi, professional journalism fraternities for men and women respectively, will award certificates to winners in fourteen competitive contests conducted during the convention.

KAPPA ALPHA MU, honorary photography fraternity, will conduct the workshops on news pictures.

James Morrison, assistant professor in the University School of Journalism, is convention director.

Most of the convention program will be taken up with clinics, workshops and student panel discussions. Concluding the two-day festivities will be the annual awards luncheon on Saturday.

Officers of COA are Mac Bailey, president; Al Blessing, vice-president and treasurer, and Bob Bachman, secretary.

Delta Omicron To Hold Banquet

Active and alumnae chapters of Delta Omicron, national professional music sorority, will celebrate Tuesday the founding of the University chapter 32 years ago.

After the initiation of Yvonne Moran of Scottsbluff, a banquet will be held at the Cornhusker Hotel at 6 p.m. Following the banquet, a program will be held at the H. E. Harvey residence, 2438 Lake.

Mrs. Florence McNair Kitch of Beatrice, national executive secretary-treasurer, will attend the celebration. Other guests will be Mrs. Harry Fox and Shirley Fremer, both of Beatrice.

Program chairman is Hazel Arpke of Beatrice. Mary Robinson of Holdrege, active chapter president, will preside.

British Middle East Policy Topic Of Oxford, NU Debate

Debate teams from the University and Oxford University, England, will meet for the third time Sunday at 8 p.m. at the Unitarian Church.

Contending that the British have mishandled the Middle East will be Wayne Johnson and Dale Johnson, University debaters, while Patrick Mayhew and John Peters from Oxford take the negative side of the issue.

OXFORD STUDENTS first visited the University campus in 1928. At this debate a record attendance of 1200 was made for University debates and remains unsurpassed. The last time that Oxford and University debaters met was in 1947.

Sam McKelvie, former governor of Nebraska, was chairman for the first international debate held at the University in 1927. Cambridge and University students debated on whether or not ethics in business are incompatible with sound morals. At this debate which was attended by 700 people, Cambridge won by an audience vote.

for the first international debate held at the University in 1927. Cambridge and University students debated on whether or not ethics in business are incompatible with sound morals. At this debate which was attended by 700 people, Cambridge won by an audience vote.

IN 1948, two men from Birmingham and Bristol Universities in Great Britain journeyed to Nebraska to debate on United States free enterprise versus Britain's planned economy. This was the last international debate held on the Nebraska campus.

The debate Sunday, presented under auspices of the Men's Forum of the Unitarian Church, will be non-sectarian and open to the public.

The Outside World

Peace Talks Should Include Neutral Nations, Reds Say

By WILLIE DESCH Staff Writer

The Communists have demanded the admission of neutral nations to the Korean peace talks. This proposal, considered a threat to the success of the big talks, is opposed by the United States.

Arthur Dean, United States ambassador representing the United Nations, said that he hoped some agreement could be reached.

Another disagreement between the Reds and the United States concerns the order of business for the preliminary talks. The Reds insist upon discussing the composition of the first item on the agenda for this meeting.

Agricultural Agitation

Prompt new government action to prop up declining cattle prices has been urged by several hundred cattle men representing 30 states.

A caravan of approximately 350 men traveled to Washington, D.C., planning to meet with Secretary of Agriculture Benson to express their views on the controversial agricultural problem.

The group is sponsored by the National Farmers Union. James G. Patton, president of the farm organization, gave a welcoming talk before the meeting with Benson.

The group hopes to draw up recommendations for emergency aid to distressed producers and a longer range program of government action. Also they advocate further drought assistance.

Benson said that a mass meeting of this sort would accomplish nothing substantial.

Communist Promises

In order to gain information to use in exposing Communism to the world, Cpl. Edward S. Dickenson remained with the Communists and was placed before the expansion groups. He said that the Reds promised many things such as good homes, good schooling, and political leadership.

He predicted that many of the remaining 22 American prisoners in neutral custody would change their minds and choose freedom over Communism.

Young Demos' Convention Elects Knudtzen, Hansen

Sixty-five Delegates Draw Up Resolution List Charging Present Administration With Failures

Donald J. Knudtzen, chairman of the Lancaster Young Democrat Club and former University student, was elected state Nebraska Young Democrat chairman at a convention wind-up session Saturday.

Another University student, Dick Hansen, junior in Law College, was named state secretary of the organization.

OTHER OFFICERS named are:

Inez Flynn, Omaha, vice chairman; John Burk, Omaha, national convention committeeman; Mrs. Gene Eckholt, Columbus, national committeewoman; Pat Mullin, Omaha, treasurer; and Donald Kirkpatrick, Lincoln, vice chairman in charge of student affairs.

During the two-day convention, held in Lincoln, the 65 delegates drew up a resolution charging the administration with "contemptuous repudiation of Republican promises to the American people."

"FAILURES OF the Eisenhower administration" were listed as:

- (1) Failure to reduce the national debt.
- (2) Failure to assure 90 per cent of parity price supports to farmers.
- (3) Failure to lower the cost of living.
- (4) Cutting funds for rural electrification.
- (5) Cutting agricultural research funds "by over $2 million."
- (6) Cutting soil conservation funds.
- (7) Failure to continue public power development.
- (8) Supporting the tidelands oil bill, which the resolution said "robbed US children of millions of dollars of educational funds."
- (9) Failure "to aid small business."
- (10) Failure to strengthen labor laws.

A resolution on the state level condemned the state administration for "failure to develop a sound and equitable tax program," and urged Democrats "to adopt a positive tax program as part of their 1954 platform."

In another resolution the Young Democrats opposed the Bricker Amendment to the Constitution, which would limit treaty-making powers of the President.

Defeated was a resolution favoring the lowering of voting age requirements to 18.

The Young Democrats took no action on the proposal to change the Nebraska Unicameral to a bicameral legislature. However, delegates participated in a panel discussion and informal debates concerning the subject.

THE RESOLUTIONS committee decided after recognizing much controversy among the Young Democratic ranks to make no suggestion at all on the matter.

Young Demos Select Leaders

Officers elected at the Nebraska Young Democrats convention Saturday are (from left, seated) Inez Flynn, vice chairman; Donald Knudtzen chairman; (standing, from left) John Burk, national committeeman; Pat Mullin, treasurer; Richard Hansen, secretary, and Donald Kirkpatrick, vice chairman in charge of student affairs. Not pictured is Mrs. Gene Eckholt, national committeewoman.

Commandant Candidates Announced

46 Senior Coeds Named By COA

Forty-six senior women will compete for the title of Honorary Commandant, Candidate Officer's Association president William Bailey announced Monday.

Candidates are: Barbara Adams, Peggy Albert, Barbara Bell, Sue Brownlee, Grace Burkhardt, Jane Calhoun, Joan Claussen, Margery DeLamatre, Jane Deppen, Nora Devore, Barbara Dunn.

GRACIA EYTH, Donna Folmer, Jean Gomet, Darlene Gooding, Sue Gorton, Sally Hall, Lara Ann Harden, Nita Helmstadter, Sue Holmes, Cynthia Holyoke, Sharon Horning, Joyce Johnson, Ann Jouvencat, Connie Clark Karges, Shirley Ledingham, Teresa Claire Lilly, Norma Lothrop, Dorothy Low, Sally Mallory, Mary Jean Niehaus, Neala O'Dell, Nan-see Peterson, Jean Perrin, Barbara Raun, Susan Reinhardt, Beth Rohwer, Paula Scharman.

Martha Lee Schuster, Sabra Smith, Barbara Spilker, Joy Wachal, Mary Jane Weir, Harriet G. Wenke, Nancy Whitmore and Carol Ann Wright.

Six finalists will be chosen at an all University election Friday and the winner will be presented at the Military Ball Dec. 4.

MB Chairmen To Form Plans On Tuesday

The Candidate Officers Association will meet Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Room 107, Military and Naval Science Building.

Business will include appointment of committees for the Military Ball, discussion of possible bands and arrangements for an all University election to be held Friday to elect the six Honorary Commandant finalists.

COMMITTEES for the Ball and their chairmen are: Gerald Bingham, grand march; Mac Bailey, publicity; Frank Sorenson, band and master of ceremonies; Bob Bachman, coliseum arrangements; Norm Mann, coliseum decorations; Arnold Air Society, band stand decorations.

Mac Bailey, Honorary Commandant; Al Blessing, finance; Dan Wolkenstorfer, programs, invitations and seating; Pershing Rifles, color guard, ushers and crack squad; Provost Corps, parking; Marv Stromer and Frank Sorenson, presentation; and George Karabatsos, saber guard.

French Clothes Chic But Drab Says Sabin

NUer Attends School in Paris

By GRACE HARVEY Staff Writer

"French women are very style-conscious—overly so." According to Ellen Sabin, freshman in Arts and Sciences from New York City, the weaker sex in France are "nuts about clothes. However," she added, "although they wear only the latest costumes they are of dark, drab colors."

Miss Sabin said French school girls, instead of wearing the typically American bobby sox and skirts and sweaters, are required to wear uniforms.

As a result of her father's position as chief of the milk conservation program of the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund, Miss Sabin has lived in Washington, D. C., New York City, Laramie, Wyo., and Paris, France.

MISS SABIN'S family sailed for Europe July 19, 1949 to spend a year in the French capital. A freshman in high school, Miss Sabin attended the American Community School in Paris. She said that only English-speaking students attend this high school. All classes were taught in English, except the foreign language courses. In these classrooms only the language of the course was spoken.

The school was located in what had formerly been a private mansion. As most European homes are, it was fenced so that no one could see in.

MISS SABIN'S family lived in a four-room fifth floor apartment in Paris. "There was an elevator up, but it wouldn't go down again," she said.

Miss Sabin said, "The rooms in that apartment were so tiny that it was only 75 paces from one end of the kitchen to the opposite end of the dining-living room. There was no refrigerator and the gas for their little gas cook stove was always turned down to its lowest ebb when it was time to prepare meals." She added, "The only nice furniture in the French apartments was that imported by Americans."

While in Europe, Miss Sabin toured Belgium, northern Italy, Switzerland, England, and the Netherlands at tulip time.

SHE OBSERVED, "Europe is an interesting place to visit. You can observe new cultures and attempt to learn to understand the people and their views. You see international relations from a different angle. For instance, you begin to understand just why the French will not cooperate with Germany in their fight over the Saar Valley. More important, you become more aware of the real conflicts over Communism in France."

Miss Sabin said, "The French people are hard to get acquainted with because of the language barrier. They resent the fact that Americans do not speak French. They think that we don't care enough about them to learn their language, while they are required to take English in school."

She added, "French girls do not wear makeup until they are 18. Boys and girls are held down to the old customs of proper introductions and chaperones until they reach that age. After that, however, many of them run wild doing whatever they choose."

Ag Y's Sponsor Farm Tour

Foreign students at the University prepare to board a bus to begin their tour of Lancaster County farm. Pictured above are: (left to right)

Hwellan Swen from China, Elsa Carino from the Philippines, Iris Becker of Lincoln, and S. Kuskaki from Afghanistan.

New Members Chosen For Freshman Actors

Workshop To Teach Techniques

Dallas Williams, director of the University Theater, announced that from a record-breaking number of 55 students trying out, 30 students were selected for the Freshman Actors' Workshop.

Williams said the new members have been divided into four separate work groups under the direction of four staff members.

They are: John C. Tolch, technical director of the University Theater; Max M. Whittaker, director of the Experimental Theater; Frank G. Bock, director of the Laboratory Theater, and Williams.

Rystrom, Joyce Stratton, Lucigrace Switzer.

James Boling, James Copp, Don Ehlers, Gene Gaddie, Bill Goodwin, Skip Greenlee, C. Rod Holmes, George Hunker, Jerry McGaffey, Richard Meyers, Ted Nittler, Don Robinson, David Sccherling, Len Schropfer and Kirk Woodward.

Candidates For Rhodes Announced

Rystrom, Johnson Endorsed By NU

Ken Rystrom and Wayne Johnson, both seniors in the College of Arts and Sciences, were selected Monday to represent the University as candidates for Rhodes Scholarships for 1954-1955.

The candidates were selected by Harold W. Manter, professor of zoology; Lane W. Lancaster, professor of political science; Clarence McNeill, professor of economics and David Dow, professor of law.

THIRTY-TWO Rhodes Scholarships are assigned annually to the United States. The states are grouped into eight districts of six states each in order to make the appointments.

The candidates from all of the colleges in Nebraska who are submitting applicants will be interviewed by the state committee on Dec. 9.

Application may be made in either the state in which they have ordinary home and residence, or in any state in which they have received at least two years of college training.

CANDIDATES are first nominated by the states; two candidates from each state then appear before the district committee. Four men are selected from the twelve candidates to represent their states as Rhodes Scholars at Oxford University.

The six states in this district include: Nebraska, Minnesota, South Dakota, Iowa, Missouri and Kansas.

Rhodes scholars have the opportunity to choose a course of study at Oxford, which will be carried out for a period of at least two years.

TO BE eligible for the scholarships, one must be a male citizen, unmarried, between the ages of 19 and 25, with certain exceptions, and have a junior standing at a recognized college or university in the United States which grants degrees.

Michigan Man To Address Seminar Here

An office management seminar for Nebraska business employees will be held Friday in Love Library Auditorium.

Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m. with Kenneth D. King, president of the Lincoln National Office Association chapter, presiding.

Featured speaker will be Dr. Daniel Katz, research associate of the Survey Research Center at the University of Michigan. He will speak at 10 a.m. on "Increasing Productivity in the Office."

THOSE PARTICIPATING include Richard M. Bourne, Curtis M. Elliott, Earl S. Fullbrook, Frank M. Hallgren and Charles S. Miller, all of the University faculty.

The University's College of Business Administration, the University Extension Division and the National Office Management Association are sponsoring the one-day seminar.

THOSE PARTICIPATING include Richard M. Bourne, Curtis M. Elliott, Earl S. Fullbrook, Frank M. Hallgren and Charles S. Miller, all of the University faculty.

The University's College of Business Administration, the University Extension Division and the National Office Management Association are sponsoring the one-day seminar.

THOSE PARTICIPATING include Richard M. Bourne, Curtis M. Elliott, Earl S. Fullbrook, Frank M. Hallgren and Charles S. Miller, all of the University faculty.

The University's College of Business Administration, the University Extension Division and the National Office Management Association are sponsoring the one-day seminar.

THOSE PARTICIPATING include Richard M. Bourne, Curtis M. Elliott, Earl S. Fullbrook, Frank M. Hallgren and Charles S. Miller, all of the University faculty.

French Clothes Chic But Drab Says Sabin

NUer Attends School in Paris

By GRACE HARVEY Staff Writer

"French women are very style-conscious—overly so." According to Ellen Sabin, freshman in Arts and Sciences from New York City, the weaker sex in France are "nuts about clothes. However," she added, "although they wear only the latest costumes they are of dark, drab colors."

Miss Sabin said French school girls, instead of wearing the typically American bobby sox and skirts and sweaters, are required to wear uniforms.

As a result of her father's position as chief of the milk conservation program of the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund, Miss Sabin has lived in Washington, D. C., New York City, Laramie, Wyo., and Paris, France.

MISS SABIN'S family sailed for Europe July 19, 1949 to spend a year in the French capital. A freshman in high school, Miss Sabin attended the American Community School in Paris. She said that only English-speaking students attend this high school. All classes were taught in English, except the foreign language courses. In these classrooms only the language of the course was spoken.

The school was located in what had formerly been a private mansion. As most European homes are, it was fenced so that no one could see in.

MISS SABIN'S family lived in a four-room fifth floor apartment in Paris. "There was an elevator up, but it wouldn't go down again," she said.

Miss Sabin said, "The rooms in that apartment were so tiny that it was only 75 paces from one end of the kitchen to the opposite end of the dining-living room. There was no refrigerator and the gas for their little gas cook stove was always turned down to its lowest ebb when it was time to prepare meals." She added, "The only nice furniture in the French apartments was that imported by Americans."

While in Europe, Miss Sabin toured Belgium, northern Italy, Switzerland, England, and the Netherlands at tulip time.

SHE OBSERVED, "Europe is an interesting place to visit. You can observe new cultures and attempt to learn to understand the people and their views. You see international relations from a different angle. For instance, you begin to understand just why the French will not cooperate with Germany in their fight over the Saar Valley. More important, you become more aware of the real conflicts over Communism in France."