

Cast For 'Male Animal' Announced By Meeker

Faculty, Student Body Portrayed In Production About University Life At Homecoming Time

The cast for the University Theater's second 1953 production, "The Male Animal", has been selected. Dr. Grace Meeker, visiting professor in Speech and Dramatic Art from Washington State College, announced.

THOSE SELECTED were: Margaret Johnson, portraying Gwendolyn, the maid; Barbara Leigh as Ellen Turner, wife of Tom Turner, who is played by Don Sobolik; Ann Corcoran as Patricia Stanley, a coed; Donald Blaw playing a burly football star, Wally Meyers; and Morse Weisgart as Dean Damon, the dean of the college.

Mrs. Damon is played by Joyce Fangman; Allan Kenyon is Michael Barnes; and Ed Keller, a trustee of the University, is portrayed by William Klammer. Keller's wife, Myrtle, is Margot Hunt, and Cameron plays Nutsy Miller; Harry Parrott is a reporter on the school paper and Joe Ferguson, a former All-American, is played by Richard Marrs.

THE ACTION of the play takes place on the campus of Midwestern University at the time of the big Homecoming game. Michael Barnes, the editor of the school paper, writes a very controversial editorial, and the rest of the play revolves around his attempts to justify his action.

Dr. Meeker, commenting on the play, said, "The play is a very humorous comedy about college life. It is especially amusing because members of the faculty and student body are portrayed. I'm sure that 'The Male Animal' will be enjoyed by the entire student body."

"The Male Animal" will be presented Dec. 2 to 4, and Dec. 8 to 12.

MRS. CLAUDIA Mason, dean of women at Northwestern University, spoke at the banquet. Mrs. Mason told active and alumnae sorority members that group living surrounds a girl with the assistance and discipline to help her meet the highest possible goals.

Group living offers one of the greatest challenges, she said. When a member forgets the standards set by the group, the girl leaves herself and her group open to criticism, Mrs. Mason added.

Through orientation of new students to a new environment, by setting up and promoting high scholastic standards and standards of social behavior and by teaching girls to learn their obligations and limitations, Mrs. Mason concluded.

Cold War Colder

A truce in the cold war is beginning to look impossible because Russia has presented more obstacles in the way of the Allied proposal for a Big Four foreign ministers' meeting on Germany and Austria.

Some of the complaints made by the Russians are: Red China must be present at any meeting on East-West issues; plans for rearming West Germany must be dropped by the Allies; the North Atlantic Treaty Organization must be abolished; and American bases in Spain, Greece, and elsewhere in Europe and the Middle East be a subject for discussion.

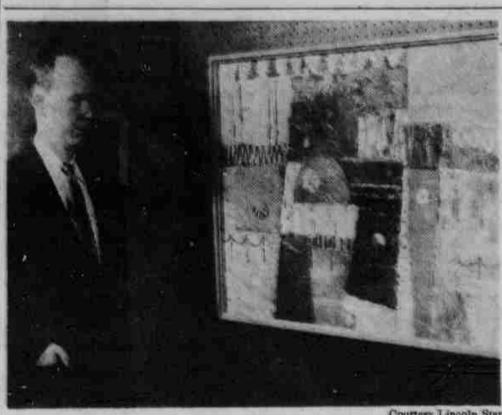

United States officials said that because of these demands and the demand for a Korean key trouble spots might increase made by Russia the tension in peace conference may become more difficult.

And Fortitude

Britain will continue in its attempt to arrange talks with the Soviet Union, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden said.

The Russians have continually rejected and evaded Western invitations to hold a peace conference and also to discuss Germany, Eden said in his speech to the House of Commons. We will keep trying and will hope for some relaxation in the world tension, he added.

Two-Day 'Refresher' Omitted Before Finals

SC To Seek Compromise Action

An action by the Board of Regents requiring mid-year commencement has forced the calendar committee to rule out the two-day refresher period before the first semester exams.

Danny Fogel, student member of the calendar committee, made the announcement in Student Council meeting Wednesday.

AFTER HEARING Fogel's report, the Council empowered him to seek a compromise of a one-day "refresher" before and one day "vacation" after the examination period.

Mid-year commencement exercises have not been held since 1950, despite efforts to obtain them. Reasons for the two-day elimination, according to Fogel, are the Wednesday to Saturday overlap at the girl's dorm. The difficulty for studying and difficulty doubt that the time is used cutties of registration for new students.

Elections for the vacant position from the College of Arts and Science were again postponed until next week because of the ROTC parade.

Jan Steffen, chairman of the student activities committee, reported that the International Friendship dinner will be held Tuesday and encouraged everyone to attend.

Bob Peterson, elections chairman, reported that 1800 students voted in the UMOC and COA election last Friday, and 1000 students voted for Nebraska Sweetheart and Prince Kosmet.

Ottosen, Ford Cite Farm Program Needs In Seminar

The two basic needs of a farm program are efficiency and equity.

This was the conclusion reached by Howard Ottosen and Richard Ford in the weekly seminar sponsored by the Union in which farm policy was discussed. Ford cited "Political Feasibility" as the main reason for present high and rigid price supports we now have. By this he meant the vote-getting power.

OTTOSON SHOWED how parties are not solving the main problems of the farmer because they are actually benefiting the high income farmer who needs it the least. Parties also make no provision for perishable farm commodities and neglect farm poverty areas.

"But the solution of these problems is another thing," Ottosen said, "If we had the answers, we would be in Washington helping Benson." Ottosen did suggest, however, that income insurance would possibly be the answer. A member of the audience noted that it would be extremely difficult to determine the incomes and take into consideration the farmer's labor.

THE PROBLEM of abundance of farm products is going to continue, Ford showed, since there is no sign that the population will ever catch up with the advances in agriculture.

Next week the topic will be "Trade Versus Aid." Chairman Lola Monia said "all students and faculty are cordially invited."

Complaint On Pledge Action Made By Irate Professor

Sigma Chi fraternity has been put on social probation until the end of the school year, J. P. Colbert, Dean of Student Affairs announced Thursday.

The probation is the result of complaint filed in the Dean's office by Ferris W. Norris, professor of electrical engineering.

THE COMPLAINT charged that five Sigma Chi pledges, John Carper, Dwayne Burhans, Jack Moore, John Sears and Dick Johnston before leaving on their annual pledge sneak interrupted his class by abducting Dan Rasdal.

A letter from Professor Norris reportedly requested that the five students be dismissed from the University, that the fraternity's charter be revoked, and the discipline used as an example for similar instances in the future.

DEAN COLBERT had no comment on the decision other than that the whole fraternity was being disciplined instead of only the five individuals because their actions were representing the fraternity. Professor Norris could not be reached for comment.

Sigma Chi President, Dan

Dunbar, said he considered the matter a past issue.

SOCIAL PROBATION includes withdrawal of social privileges of the fraternity, according to Frank M. Hallgren, assistant dean of student affairs. The fraternity will still be allowed to participate in activities both as individuals and as a group. Their rushing privileges will not be revoked and they can participate in events such as Ivy Day and Homecoming.

They will not, however, be allowed house parties, formals or fraternity functions connected with the University.

Weekend Retreat Planned

Group To View Campus Religion

The Religion in Life Retreat, a program to evaluate the place of religion on the University campus, is scheduled to begin at Camp Minis-kuya on the outskirts of Lincoln Friday at 6 p.m.

The retreat, the first of its kind at the University, is sponsored by the Religion in Life Committee in an attempt to find answers to such questions as: what place does religion have in organized houses on campus, what should be done, and whether the present program is adequate or not, said Miss Jan Osborne, YWCA director.

REPRESENTATIVES FROM fraternities, sororities, religious student groups, student pastors, Lincoln ministers, student leaders, and several faculty members are planning to attend and participate in the retreat. Marv Friedman, committee secretary, reported that about 75 persons will attend, with most of the students remaining at the camp Friday night.

The program will begin with a mock trial based on Chad Walsh's book, "Campus Gods on Trial," and followed by group discussion. Participating in the trial are Sandra Gadd, Charles Swan, Rocky Yapp, Mary Friedman, Shirley Langhus, Mary Green and Neala O'Dell. In the mock trial the students will represent materialism, skepticism, scientism, liberalism, and communism and try to picture the relationship of these terms to the life of the University student.

SATURDAY MORNING'S program will begin with a short address by Rev. Rex Knowles. The group will conclude its work early Saturday afternoon.

Those attending the retreat will meet in front of the Union at 5 p.m. Friday afternoon. Marv Friedman said those attending should bring warm clothes and blankets.
