Two giant killers took to the field and emerged victorious Thursday evening as the temperature dropped to near-freezing forcing the participants to don heavy sweatshirts during their intramural football playoff encounters.

An underdog Beta Theta Pi B team proved their might by downing the favored Delta Tau Deltas' 14-6 to win the B league championship and another trophy for their show case.

THE BETA'S shot to third place in the B team rankings only a week before the play-

Delt Serr, Sigma Chi Win Titles

Individual, Team Champs Named

Delta Tau Delta's Bob Serr was the individual champion and Sigma Chi captured the team championship in the final results of the All-University free throw tournament.

Serr won individual honors by defeating Jack March of Sigma Chi in a playoff. Both had completed the final round by dumping in 46 out of 50 attempts. A total of 456 men attempted to qualify for this year's tournament and 320 participated in ten tournaments of 32 men each.

OTHER INDIVIDUAL winners included Bill Nelson, Phi Gamma Delta; Bill Wells, Phi Delta Theta; Bruce Miller, Sigma Phi Epsilon; Dave McCommon, Sigma Phi Epsilon; Kenneth Vosika, Sigma Chi; Jack Hawkins, Sigma Chi; Don Wanek, Sigma Chi; and Pat Romberg, Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

The winning Sigma Chi's piled up a total of 350 points to easily triumph in the team division. Their nearest rival, Phi Gamma Delta, was 84 points behind with 266 points. Others high up on the list included Sigma Phi Epsilon, 202; Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 124; Beta Theta Pi, 109; Phi Kappa Psi, 107; and Delta Tau Delta, 100. Eighteen teams broke into the scoring column.

Forty-six free shots were the best individual mark with seven participants tied for the distinction. Among the seven men were Carr Trumbull, Sigma Chi; Dave Brandon, Sigma Phi Epsilon; and Bert Linn, Phi Gamma Delta as well as champion Serr, March, Wells and Nelson.

Cyclones, Sooners Dejected As Cage Teams View Slates

With all Big Seven basketball clubs now preparing to open their 1953-54 seasons, Iowa State has its woes and Oklahoma its high hopes as a survey of pre-season power is conducted.

The Cyclones list five returning lettermen in forwards Jerry Davis and Barney Alleman, guards Dutch Van Cleave and Larry Wetter, and center Chuck Duncan. Alleman will report following the grid season.

COACH CLAYTON (Chick) Sutherland must replace four seniors from last year's squad, including 6-8 center Delmar Diercks, all-Big Seven Cyclone star who ranks as Iowa State's greatest scorer in history.

The other graduated lettermen are Sam Long, highest scoring guard ever to play for Iowa State, Virg Byerly and Clarence Russie.

Getting set for a tough schedule that includes eight games against five of last year's college powers picked in the first ten of the national United Press poll, Oklahoma began basketball practice with three returning regulars.

Coach Bruce Drake, starting his 16th season at OU will return nine lettermen. And he'll need them all while playing the difficult December slate that finds Oklahoma meeting Illinois, Ohio State and Wisconsin of the Big Ten Conference, Oklahoma A&M of the Missouri Valley, and Washington of the Pacific Coast League.

Oklahoma Sprint Ace Beats World Mark In Practice

J. W. Mashburn's feat of unofficially breaking the world's record for 500 yards in a Sooner practice race at Norman last week indicates that Oklahoma should be formidable next month in both the mile relay and the 440 yards of the Sugar Bowl meet at New Orleans.

Coach John Jacobs' junior speedster blazed the 500 in 55.9 seconds, two-tenths better than the world mark of 56.1 set ten years ago by Cliff Bourland of California.

MASHBURN BROKE the string 35 yards ahead of three competitors. Three watches caught him. He wasn't paced but ran practically alone around two full curves, turning the 220 in 22.5 seconds and the 440 in 48.4 on his way.

At New Orleans, Mashburn will probably run the open 440, then come back and anchor Jacobs' Sooner mile relayists who have won that event or its 1,600-meter equivalent three years in a row at the Sugar Bowl.

offs commenced. However, they set about to prove they were better than scores showed them to be.

They started out slowly but surely by downing a strong ATO crew 20-12. They then went on to trounce the Sigma Chi Juniors 27-6 to set the stage for the championship encounter with the front running Deltas.

Only two days previous the Delt Juniors had been ranked tenth in the all University ratings, just to show how fallacious comparative scores can be.

PHI DELTA Phi again advanced in the tournament by downing Presby House 9-8. The Phi's scored in the first frame while holding the Presby's scoreless. They then went scoreless in the second while the losers were picking up six valuable markers. Each team scored a safety in the second half to end the scoring for the encounter.

In the only other game, the Ag Jokers pulled somewhat of an upset by downing the Dental Juniors by an impressive score of 31-0.

In what was the second major upset of the tournament, the Tau's ran and passed by the DU's in a very closely played game.

THE DUS, heavy favorites to go all the way by virtue of past performances, were just another team that night, but continually threatened to wrestle the lead from the eventual winners. The losers were off their pace, but it is very doubtful if they could have won anyway. The Tau's played almost flawless ball and cashed in on many DU mistakes.

The winners scored first on a surprising pass play that put them in front 6-0. They failed to convert the extra point and the score remained the same. The DU's not out of the game yet, struck back with a series of plays that paid off late in the initial frame with a TD to knot the count up at 6-all. Their conversion was knocked down by the Tau secondary and the half ended at 6-all.

THE TAUS came raging back after the rest to score on a series of plays that carried from their 15 to the paydirt line. The scoring march was featured by the passing of Mac Bailey and Bill Weber. That terminated the scoring for the evening.

Bailey and Brown along with Weber starred for the winners while Captain Tom Tolson and Bill Harmon led the vanquished.

As generally expected, there was again plenty of excitement, the usual share of upsets and a few surprises as well as disappointments in Saturday's college football action. Many of the teams ran into a flurry of bad weather as snow and near-freezing temperatures made its initial appearance on numerous gridirons.

Close to home, the monopolizing Oklahoma Sooners nearly got their long Big Seven winning streak snapped before a fourth-quarter touchdown by LaGrue Grigg gave Bud Wilkinson's clan a 14-7 squeak past Missouri. As it was, Oklahoma stretched their streak to 38 games and continued to roll merrily along to their sixth straight Big Seven title.

Bill Meek's Kansas State Wildcats pushed Kansas all over the field at Lawrence, but got only one touchdown to win by a 7-0 margin. Verry Switzer was the individual standout in the game of fumbles that was due largely to a wet snow that fell throughout the game.

NEBRASKA WON their second straight Big Seven contest by rolling past Iowa State 27-19 after ringing up a 27-6 third-quarter lead — while Colorado rolled past once-beaten Utah 21-0, mainly on some timely interceptions by Carroll Hardy and Frank Bernardi.

In the Big Ten, an Illinois team which wasn't supposed to have too much at the start of the season took another big step in their drive for a Rose Bowl bid by battering Michigan 19-3 behind the tremendous running of J. C. Caroline, a Negro sophomore who shattered the 30-year-old yardage-making mark of the immortal Red Grange. Michigan State kept its Rose Bowl hopes alive and at the same time virtually wrecked any ideas Ohio State had about participating in the big New Year's Day clash. Leroy Bolden, the Spartans' little Negro halfback, tallied three times to lead the 28-13 win past the rugged Buckeyes.

PAUL GIEL had another one of his unusual afternoons by scoring twice and passing for another as Minnesota stopped Indiana 28-0. Iowa smothered Purdue 26-0 and Wisconsin clobbered Northwestern 34-13 in other Big Ten action.

JOHN LATNER ran back a Pennsylvania kickoff 92 yards for a touchdown after the keyed-up Quakers had taken a 7-0 lead and Notre Dame went on to post a 28-20 triumph. The Irish All-American also set up two other touchdowns with spectacular runs.

In other games, Navy and Duke battled to a 0-0 draw, Georgia Tech stopped Clemson, 20-7, Kentucky walloped Vanderbilt, 40-13, Southern Methodist kayoed Texas A. & M., 23-0, Rice rolled over Arkansas, 47-0, California outlasted Washington, 53-25, and Tennessee slipped by Louisiana State, 32-14.

Down in the unpredictable Southwest, Texas tumbled Baylor from the undefeated ranks by edging the favored Bears 21-20 largely behind the accurate toe of Phil Branch who converted three straight times. The Longhorn triumph put them into a first-place deadlock with Baylor, who is seeking its first Southwest Conference title in 29 years.

Coach Bill Glassford sends his charges against the Colorado Buffaloes Saturday before the homecoming crowd at Memorial Stadium. The large throng is expected to witness a wide open brand of football as Homer Jenkins, Buff backfield star, returns to the lineup this week.

The Cornhuskers may be without the services of star tackle Ted Connor. Connor is reportedly doing fine at the student health center, but it will not be announced for a few days if he will be able to play Saturday. Connor suffered a slight concussion at Ames Saturday.

A CORNHUSKER victory, combined with a Missouri loss to Kansas State, would place Nebraska all alone in third place in the Big Seven standings.

The Tiger-Wildcat fray should be the top attraction of the week in the Conference. Oklahoma could clinch their sixth straight title by defeating Iowa State Saturday in Ames.

Outsider of the possible loss of Connor, both teams are going to be at top strength at game time. The Cornhuskers will be trying to score their first win over the Buffs since 1949.

Nebraska is seeking its third consecutive Big Seven win.
