

The Student Speaking

Stern Thoughts

By ARNIE STERN. The big weekend has come at last! For a number of weeks I've been hearing a melody which goes in part like this, "There's no weekend like Homecoming, etc." Now that HC has arrived, I am anxious to see if that song is true. I really can't see what's so special about Homecoming weekend. Most of the old alums come down every home game weekend, especially when there is a large array of parties. The only thing different about this weekend is the impressive number of blood shot eyes in every pledge class. Yessiree, those pledges really have it rough. Imagine staying up late nights working on some ridiculous float or display which probably won't work anyway, and which surely will be torn down by Sunday morning.

All joking aside, I think Homecoming is a wonderful institution. I am sure that most Law students will agree with me if the parade is loud and long in passing by the local justice academy tomorrow. In behalf of the Law students, who unlike other students must attend class on Homecoming Saturdays, I ask the consideration of the participants in the float parade. Keep it down to a mild roar while you are in the vicinity of the Law College.

With Homecoming comes another queen. You get no choice in the matter; you must accept the queen of Homecoming. This year the sponsors of this fair damsel have managed a special bargain. Two Homecoming queens are on the weekend's agenda. Don't forget to get a program, you can't tell the queens without a program. I hope that the next queen election is pretty soon. The two Homecoming queens and the football team queen need a fourth for bridge.

Enough of Homecoming! Next week is the Oklahoma game. They should stay home!

Well, I guess that's it for now. See ya around. "Mrs. Jones, I have some good news for you," said the doctor. "It isn't Mrs. Jones, it's Miss Jones," said the patient. "Oh," said the doctor, "I have bad news for you, Miss Jones."

Willmarth, 'Pancho' Sketcher, Enjoys Students' Optimistic Outlook On Life

California Artist Works Own Gold Mine In Winter

By KIRK WOODWARD Staff Writer "I've sketched over 25,000 persons since 1934," said Frank Willmarth, popular comic sketcher, better known as "Pancho" now doing sketching on the University's campus. Willmarth said that he started out as a student of fine art at Los Angeles Art School and did his comic drawings as a hobby. He found that he liked the sketching and, after leaving the school, he set up his studio in the market place in the Los Angeles Latin quarter.

IT WAS there that he picked up the nickname of Pancho, which means Frank, in Spanish. "Pancho" drew in Los Angeles for 10 years, doing many sketches in the Brown Derby in Hollywood. He went on to say that he had drawn such celebrities as Amos and Andy, Bob Hope, and Abbott and Costello.

It was after leaving Los Angeles that Willmarth started touring the country and doing his work on most every campus in the U.S. He enjoys drawing college students because "of their easy going nature and optimistic outlook on life."

DURING THE summer months "Pancho" spends his time in his native California working his own gold mine, which he operates with the help of friends. When asked about the success of his gold mine Willmarth referred to a statement published in the Los Angeles Times: "Of Frank Willmarth's two gold mines his crayons are by far the most rewarding."

Willmarth's family is now in

Sun Valley Idaho where he sketched until this, his most recent, tour. He plans to join them later this winter and resume his work there.

When asked what kind of philosophy of life all his traveling around and meeting many kinds of people has given him, Pancho's answer was short and to the point, "I laugh with people instead of at them."

Sculpture Films Slated For Sunday

Three films on sculpture will be shown Sunday at 3:30 p.m. in Morrill Hall as part of the art film series.

"Looking at Sculpture" compares three representations of the Madonna and Child. "Steinernen Wunder Von Naumburg" is a pictorial survey of the stone sculptures in and around the Cathedral of Naumburg in Saxony.

According to Norman Geske, assistant director of the University Art Galleries, "This film is one of the earliest and best art films produced."

Nebraskan Given Merit Certificate

The Omaha World-Herald Certificate of Merit was awarded to The Daily Nebraskan, now The Nebraskan, for contributions to the Crusade for Safety campaign. The purpose of the Crusade was to develop public interest in the traffic accident problem, and the awards were given on the basis of support shown by papers in the effort to cut down traffic accidents and their heavy toll in life and property.
