1953 Outstanding Nebraskan, Rag Mop Nominations Increase

Drs. Lambert, Jorgensen, Janet Steffen Nominated

Two University professors and one student have been nominated for the "Outstanding Nebraskan" title.

The three, Dr. W. V. Lambert, Dr. Theodore Jorgensen and Janet Steffen, were nominated by University students in letters sent to The Nebraskan Tuesday.

The letter nominating Lambert stated, "Dean W. V. Lambert of the College of Agriculture has probably done more to enhance the prestige of the University of Nebraska by one statement of policy than has been done by a number of years of publicity."

"It was largely through his efforts the University Board of Regents closed its consideration of criticism of Dr. C. Clyde Mitchell, Ag Economics professor, and adopted a statement of principle in defense of freedom of expression by University professors."

"THE DEAN," by his statement, exhibited the finest tradition of intellectual freedom which America has long cherished."

Jorgensen, chairman of the department of physics, was nominated in a letter lauding his "outstanding contributions to the University and to science in the

Wednesday Deadline Set For Builders Filings

Deadline for Builders' applications is Wednesday.

All workers with a five average are eligible to apply, but the stated average must be approved at the registrar's office. Applications should be placed in the file of Eldor, Park which is in the Builders' office.

Applicants must sign up for Saturday interviews for the respective positions.

field of atomic physics and his long-standing devotion to his department, university and students."

It was also pointed out that Jorgensen was a "distinguished scholar who has brought national attention to the University and to himself through his efforts and has presented a complex course of study (physics) to graduate and under-graduate in a manner they could grasp and clearly understand"

"THE LETTER concluded, "Dr. Jorgensen is truly outstanding in all respects — as a man, a scholar and an educator."

Janet Steffen was nominated because, according to the letter, "She has, without a doubt, proved herself outstanding through her contributions to and her interest in the University."

"By her work on the AWS Board, she has helped her fellow students obtain better and more fair social regulations. Her desire to help foreign students has been illustrated by her Student Council work as head of the committee which coordinates international student activities"

The letter went on to say, "Janet's long record of accomplishments carried out in her quiet, efficient way, was recognized last spring when she was chosen Mortar Board president."

Applications for the "Outstanding Nebraskan" title should be sent to The Nebraskan office in the form of a letter. Nominations will not be accepted after 5 p.m. Jan. 13.

Feeney To Speak To Ag Honorary

Alpha Zeta, agricultural honorary, will meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the seminar room of the Agronomy Building.

It was incorrectly stated in Tuesday's Nebraskan that Dr. Leunis Van Es would be the speaker of the evening.

Dr. Robert E. Feeney, chairman of the department of biochemistry and nutrition at the University, will speak at the meeting.

Dr. Feeney, of Albany, Calif., was appointed head of the newly created department at the beginning of the current school year. He is a graduate of Northwestern University and received his Master's and Doctor's degrees at the University of Wisconsin.

NEA Report

University Professors Listed As Lowest Paid Professionals

The typical salary paid to college and university professors places them at the bottom of the professional scale compared with physicians, dentists and lawyers, it has been reported by the National Education Association in a release on college and university staff members' salaries.

THE STUDY, first of its kind to be undertaken by NEA, reports on salaries and salary schedules in 417 colleges and universities.

College instructors in teachers colleges were found to have the most attractive beginning salaries—the reported minimum being $3,538.

The lowest beginning salary, $2,743, is reported by small private colleges.

State universities offer financial inducement to starting professors with median beginning salaries of $5,525. The typical top salaries paid to professors range from $4,880 in small private colleges to $8,950 in municipal universities.

OF ALL institutions reporting, only one university indicated it could pay full professor: as much as $17,000 to $18,000.

The Survey of Current Business (July, 1952), published by the United States Department of Commerce, the median annual net incomes (income after business expense deductions) of the three largest professions are: physicians, $10,285; dentists, $6,501, and lawyers, $6,956.

Forty-four Coeds Eligible To Vie For Beauty Queens

Forty-four coeds are eligible to compete for the six Cornhusker Beauty Queen titles.

Kappa Alpha Theta and the Girls' Dorm will each have four candidates for the annual contest while Alpha Chi Omega, Kappa Kappa Gamma and Pi Beta Phi will have three candidates each.

THE NUMBER of candidates sororities and organized houses can have is determined by the number of Cornhuskers sold by each group. Every twenty-five Cornhuskers gives one candidate to each group.

Houses qualifying to name two candidates are Alpha Omicron Pi, Alpha Phi, Alpha Xi Delta, Delta Delta Delta, Delta Gamma, Gamma Phi Beta and Kappa Delta.

Houses eligible to have one candidate are Chi Omega, International House, Loomis Hall, School of Nursing, Sigma Delta Tau, Sigma Kappa, Terrace Hall, Towne Club and Wilson Hall.

Preliminary judging will be held Tuesday, February 2.

Theta Mu To Meet

Theta Mu, honorary fraternity of pre-med students, will meet Wednesday at 7 p.m. in Room 202, Bessey Hall.

Dr. W. D. Hilton, a Lincoln surgeon, will speak before the group.

Administrative Council To Set Nebraskan Opinion Poll Fate

Class Disruption Made Issue By Several Deans

The Administrative Council will determine Wednesday whether The Nebraskan will be allowed to conduct a poll of student opinion in organized classrooms.

The Council consists of deans of University colleges; J. P. Colbert, dean of student affairs, and Chancellor Selleck.

The Nebraskan had previously sought permission from individual deans to conduct the poll in classes of their respective colleges.

When at least two of the deans brought the proposed poll to the attention of Chancellor Selleck, Colbert and Selleck asked The Nebraskan "not to conduct solicitations for student opinion through organized classrooms until such time as Dean Colbert has had time to study the situation and see what is involved."

They emphasized the question was one of class disruption rather than of questions contained in the poll.

Dean Frank E. Henzlik of Teachers College, however, objected to the contents of the poll.

"Students are free as individuals," he said, "to express a point of view on any issue of University extra-curricular organizations or life and studies in general."

"(BUT) I don't think that, ethically or professionally, the organized machinery of the University should be used to help undermine or create emotional or other attitudes which would tend to convict University personnel under fire," he said.

Dean Henzlik apparently was referring to questions involving Dr. C. Clyde Mitchell, chairman of the department of agricultural economics, and William J. Glassford, head football coach. Both men were under fire from non-University persons this fall.

The poll consisted of two portions. The first was designed to determine the reading habits of University students, particularly as they relate to The Nebraskan.

The second section asked student opinion on a variety of current events. Included were questions on Glassford and Mitchell, the study period before semester examinations, the recently inaugurated doctorate of education, 18-year-old vote, frequency of publication of The Nebraskan, possible discrimination against independent students.

Eisenhower Promises Nation Continued Prosperity In '54

By WILLIE DESCH Staff Writer

In a report in which President Eisenhower described past accomplishments of his administration and a general look ahead at the 1954 legislative program, the chief executive assured the American people that every means will be used to maintain the nation's prosperity and will continue to be used as necessary.

Eisenhower named as his object of deepest concern realities of living—peace in the world, cost of food, clothing and shelter, taxes and income, savings and jobs, schooling and health.

More Talk

"Informal discussions" have been started with the Chinese Communists by the State Department in order to determine whether a formula for resuming Korean peace talks can be found. These talks are being carried forward through unidentified intermediaries.

Ambassador Arthur Dean is prepared to return to Korea on short notice if a renewal can be arranged, Press Officer Henry Suydam said.

The United Nations-Communist talks were ceased when the Reds accused the United States of perfidy.

Optimistic View

In the opinion of Sen. Griswold (R-Nebr.), who just returned from a visit to Europe and Asia, there will not be a "spooting or all-out war between Russia and the Western World."

"There may be fighting like in Korea and Indo-China, maybe in Iran, but it will be isolated incidents," Griswold said. The North Atlantic Treaty Organization has changed the picture in Europe, and we are in better position than we were, Griswold added.
