Nebraska Banker, 11 Others Die In Plane Crash Sunday

By WILLIE DESCH Staff Writer

Thomas E. Braniff, 70, founder of Braniff International Airways, was killed in a plane crash near Shreveport, La. Sunday. Eleven other passengers were also killed when the ill-fated plane crashed.

Chris J. Abbott, 65, of Hyannis, Neb., was included in the group. Abbott was one of Nebraska's leading bankers. A rancher and cattleman, he was prominent in a multitude of civic organizations and other business enterprises. He was also prominent in Republican party activities.

The amphibian plane, owned by the United Gas Company, was used for hunting trips along the Gulf of Mexico. The group had been duck hunting. Attempting a forced landing, the plane hit a power line, struck the ground, bounced into a nearby house and burned.

False Alarm

According to the London Daily Sketch, Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov suffered a heart attack recently. However the newspaper did not further identify his source.

An informant for the London newspaper said that Molotov collapsed in the Kremlin a week ago. However the 63-year-old foreign minister was able to fulfill his official duties as late as last Wednesday.

Charles E. Bohlen, United States Ambassador, said that Molotov had expressed the Soviet government's willingness to

Nationwide Chancellor Search Set

Regents Plan First Hand Look

Members of the University Board of Regents are planning personal visits to both coasts and through the Midwest to examine the off-campus qualifications of nominees for the position of chancellor.

Main objective of the trips, according to Regent Robert W. Devoe, will be to contact business and professional men and alumni in the cities where the prospective chancellors are now serving.

DEVOE WAS named president of the Board at the annual meeting Saturday, and J. LeRoy Welsh was elected vice-president.

At the meeting, Acting Chancellor John K. Selleck reaffirmed his desire to be relieved of the position in the near future. His statement, coupled with the personal visit plan of the Regents, would indicate that the search for a new chancellor is going ahead rapidly.

Manke Held By Officials After Attack

Don A. Manke, 18-year-old University freshman being held at police headquarters on an open charge after an alleged hammer attack Monday morning on Ruth Ann Scott, 18, also a freshman. Both are from Lincoln.

According to police, Manke offered Miss Scott a ride to the campus after seeing her at a bus stop at 40th and J. She accepted. After a short ride he pulled over to the curb, saying he wanted to get some books into the back seat. Instead he grabbed a hammer and struck the girl several times on the head, police report. Miss Scott somehow managed to get out of the car and summoned help.

MANKE WAS at the scene when police arrived. He gave no reason for the attack.

He and Miss Scott have known each other since grade school days, police said, but had never dated one another. According to police, Miss Scott said she had accepted rides before with Manke without incident.

According to the attending physician Miss Scott's condition is satisfactory except she is nervously upset.

ACCORDING TO County Attorney Frederick Wagner, Manke will be charged Tuesday with assault with intent to do great bodily harm against Miss Scott.

Assistant Chief of Police Eugene Masters reported that Manke, who took a lie detector test, had admitted he was responsible for the series of fires and disappearance of lingerie from the George Jacobs residence at 2710 So. 17th.

Patient France

France will go the four-power meeting in Berlin "with infinite patience" said Georges Bidault, French Foreign Minister, addressing the national committee of his popular Republican Movement Sunday.

"We will maintain patience but also firm intention of seizing all opportunities for negotiations which would permit the free world to breathe without abandoning itself," Bidault said.

Top Fashion

President Eisenhower and his brother Milton made history Sunday when they were classed as two of the 10 best-dressed men in America. This is the first time two brothers have been placed in the top 10.

The survey was conducted among members of the Custom Tailors Guild of America. Concerning masculine styles in general, the Guild commented that latest fashions tend toward a "dressed-up" look at the expense of comfort.

The color of the year is charcoal grey.

The Guild added that some famous men are not aware of their influence on the rest of the male population and often times set bad examples.

Selleck, Knoll Added To 'Outstanding' List

Nominations To Close Wednesday

Acting Chancellor, John K. Selleck and Eleanor Knoll, senior in Law College, have been added to the list of students and faculty members nominated for the "Outstanding Nebraskan" award.

Other nominees are C. Clyde Mitchell, chairman of the department of agricultural economics; Eldon Park, senior in the College of Business Administration; Dr. W. V. Lambert, dean of the College of Agriculture; Dr. Theodore Jorgensen, chairman of the department of physics, and Janet Steffen, senior in Teachers College.

The letter nominating Selleck said "He (Selleck) has been outstanding not by moving mountains or grabbing headlines, but by simply handling the duties of our most important job in a competent, dignified manner."

SELLECK HAS been acting Chancellor since the resignation of R. G. Gustavson last spring. The nominating letter continued, "His outstanding ability is indicated by one plain fact: after one short semester none of us consider John K. Selleck the Acting Chancellor; he is the real article."

The letter nominating Eleanor Knoll stated, "Miss Knoll's accomplishments did more than any other single individual's efforts in publicizing the University, and showing wealthy eastern and possibly better known schools that the Midwest is just as capable of producing outstanding students."

MISS KNOLL, in conjunction with two other law students, recently participated in the National Moot Court Competition along with students from seventy other leading law schools in the country. They won the regional finals at St. Louis, and during December participated in the national finals winning out over Georgetown, the incumbent champion, in the final round.

Applications of nominations for "Outstanding Nebraskan" should be sent to The Nebraskan office in letter form. They will not be accepted after 5 p.m. Wednesday.

Regents And Athletic Board Define NU Athletic Policy

Other Current Problems Not Reported From Meeting

The Board of Regents and the Board of Collegiate Athletics met Saturday to define athletic policy and to help determine the future of Nebraska athletics.

The result of the three-hour meeting was a statement consisting chiefly of (1.) definition of the program of intercollegiate Athletics, (2.) requirements the Athletic Board shall seek to fill in selecting a new Director of Athletics, and (3.) the appointment of a three-man committee to "evaluate the athletic program."

NOTABLY MISSING, however, was mention of such current problems as the progress being made on the selection of a new director, dissension among football players as made public by Ralph Weddle last week, evaluation of a scholarship program proposed by acting Chancellor John K. Selleck and the results of several meetings between Athletic Board members and members of the football squad.

These problems are expected to be evaluated by the three-
