WAA Awards Scholarship To O'Donnell

Kathleen O'Donnell, president of WAA, was awarded the Mable Lee Scholarship at the WAA banquet Thursday night.

The scholarship was established in 1952 in memory of Miss Mabel Lee for outstanding service and contribution to WAA. Miss Lee was the head of the women's physical education department at the University for 28 years.

Journalists Plan Newsletter Debut

"NHSFA Round Table" quarterly newsletter for the Nebraska High School Press Association, published by the School of Journalism, will make its first appearance this week.

The newsletter replaces a mimeographed bulletin which had been prepared for the association by the School of Journalism in the past.

Featured in the quarterly publication will be news and pictures of high school journalism activities, including the annual state-wide convention, and occasional district meetings of the association.

Purpose of the "Round Table" is to provide a medium for the regular exchange of ideas and news among high school journalism students and teachers and a continuity of activities between the annual state meetings.

Wilson Backs Army's Stevens

WASHINGTON—Secretary of Defense Charles Wilson has backed the Army report charging Sen. McCarthy and Roy Cohn, his chief counsel, of putting on the pressure for special treatment of G. David Schine, drafted former aide.

Wilson also believes that McCarthy's counter-charge that Secretary of the Army Stevens sought to have the investigation of alleged Communism switched from the Army to other branches of the service "was never a proper one and that it was never so."

"I have absolute and complete confidence in Stevens," Wilson told the Senate Armed Services Committee at a public hearing.

New H-Bomb Blast Results

WASHINGTON—Rep. Van Zandt (R-Pa) said American scientists have broken through a log jam in the development of hydrogen and atomic power, and that the achievement points to accelerated development of both weapons and civilian power.

Rep. Durham (D-NC) said the new bomb is such a horrible thing it's best to tell the world about it. He estimated the bomb blast on "several times" the strength of the first hydrogen explosion on Nov. 1, 1952.

Van Zandt said that the latest hydrogen explosion was measured to be equal to between 12 and 14 million tons of TNT.

The explosion shot a cloud more than 17 miles into the air.

Federal Tax Aid To Education?

BUFFALO, N. Y.—The time has come for Americans to consider whether the states can or will meet serious educational problems "without financial aid from federal taxation."

Samuel M. Brownell, United States commissioner of education, also said, "Seen from the federal point of view, the question is very real as to whether or not the response of 70,000 school districts and of 48 state legislatures will or can be great enough in mobilizing the necessary action programs to provide essential education for the security and well being of America."

Brownell pointed out that despite vigorous efforts by the states and local communities, there are "great inadequacies in educational opportunities provided the youth of this nation."

Income Tax Bill Defeated

WASHINGTON—A Democratic drive for a $2.5 billion annual income tax cut was defeated by a slim majority of House Republicans.

Key Democrats planned a last ditch fight for their proposal to increase income tax exemptions for each taxpayer by $100.

Republican leaders maintained a prediction that the move to boost tax exemptions would fail. President Eisenhower opposes the tax exemption increase as a political maneuver upon the part of those who support it.

Both sides agree that the general revision bill would pass, although some Democrats bitterly attacked parts of it.

Symphonic Band To Give Spring Concert Sunday

Audience To Hear Works By Rimsky-Korsakov, Wagner

The University Symphonic Band, under the direction of Donald Lentz, will present its annual spring concert Sunday at 3 p.m. in the Coliseum.

The concert program will include: "La Gazza Ladra" by Rossini; "Good Friday Music" from "Parsifal" by Wagner; "The Planets, Mars and Jupiter" by Holst; "Concerto for Trombone and Band," "Allegro Vivace," "Andante Cantabile," and "Allegro" by Rimsky-Korsakov; "Psyche and Eros" by Franck; "Suite of Old American Dances," "Western One-Step," "Wall-fower Waltz," and "Rag" by Bennett; "Latinas at Large" by Bennett; and "Street Scene" by Newman.

THE OPERA "Parsifal," from which "Good Friday Music" is taken, is Wagner's last work, and is based on the legend of the Holy Grail.

"The Planets" creates an atmosphere of brutal tension which recedes at times, only to renew with increasing strength to depict Mars, bringer of war. Jupiter, bringer of jollity, reflects the cheeriness of life in a succession of infectious tunes of color and liveliness.

University Enrollment Includes Students From 43 Countries

Foreign students representing 43 countries are enrolled at the University this semester.

According to G. W. Rosenlof, dean of admissions and inter-institutional relationships, 188 foreign students, including 12 from Hawaii, have registered.

Of the total number, 44 are Latvian students who came to the United States as refugees.

Iran is represented by 19 students; Canada, 10; Germany eight; India, seven and China six. The Philippines, Poland and Afghanistan are each represented by five, while Lithuania, Korea, Austria, Kyukyus and Trinidad each have four.

Dr. Rosenlof, the University's unofficial ambassador, said the yearly increase in foreign students shows that the University is "held in high regard by students returning to their countries."

The University provides 10 foreign student scholarships each year.

City Religious Council Elects Faculty Advisors

Group To Support WUS Project

Dr. Charles H. Patterson, professor and chairman of the philosophy department, and Dr. Herbert Jehle, associate professor of physics, were elected as faculty advisors of the City Campus Religious Council at its regular meeting Wednesday.

The organization voted to support and participate in the experiment in international relations being conducted and sponsored in 30 select schools, by the World University Service. The Council will set up several discussion groups and submit a report to the national meeting in New York City this April.

SANDRA GADD, summer projects chairman, reported that the recent Summer Projects Mart had been successful, and revealed that about 15 University students had decided to devote their summers to helping others.

An Advisory Board to consist of three faculty members, one administration representative, four professional religious workers, three representatives of the City Campus Religious Council and one representative of the Ag Religious Council is being set up in accordance with the new constitution of the Council on Religion.

Don Bartlett, Marv Friedman and Sue Muelhaupt have been elected to represent the City Campus Religious Council.

The Council has voted to devote one meeting each month to religious study. Marv Friedman, president, said that by constituting themselves as a study group, the representatives hope not only to increase their own religious knowledge, but also to learn techniques of leadership which they will be able to use as study group leaders.

Latin American Communism Discussed In Relation To Caracas Conference

Ross, Schneider Review Problem In Union Seminar

Communism as it exists in Latin America, as well as some of the specific implications of the Caracas conference, were discussed at a Union Seminar Wednesday.

Stanley R. Ross, assistant professor of history, gave a summary of Communism in Latin America, and Dr. Carl J. Schneider, assistant professor of political science, reviewed several aspects of the recent Caracas conference.

THREE FACTORS to be considered in discussing the question of Latin American communism were presented by Ross. "First," he said, "it is necessary to realize that in these countries communism is both an ideology and an international organization or conspiracy."

Other factors which he pointed out were the ability of the Communists to parallel the appeals of other groups, and the expedient aspect of their movement.

In attempting to estimate the strength of the Communists in Latin America, Ross brought out several of the facts which make it difficult to accurately approximate it. The facts that they are vocal, that they are often confused with other groups and that any opposition to the established government tends to be labeled as communistic by this country all were cited as complications.

"Probably only two-fifths of 1 per cent of the population of these countries are actually members of the Communist party," he stated. "This number is not to be sneered at, however," he added. He then proceeded to give some specific facts concerning the strength of the party in different Latin American countries.

Ross discussed Guatemala at some length as an introduction to the talk by Dr. Schneider. Guatemala, Ross pointed out, is the country where the Communists have been able to gain the most power. The explanation for this, he noted, is mainly economic rather than political. "In a country which is so poor, the people are not so much concerned with the ideology of communism as with the realities of food, clothing and shelter," he said.

ROSS GAVE several additional reasons for the Communists' success in Guatemala. He said they have shown themselves to be loyal supporters of any reform movement by their willingness to undertake the dirty jobs which other groups refuse. Another reason he cited was the United States' intervention into the country.

After giving some specific examples of Communist control over that country, Ross turned the discussion over to Dr. Schneider who reviewed the Caracas conference.

Two main issues were presented before the conference, Schneider said. The United States' delegation was mainly interested in getting the Latin American countries on record as opposed to Communist subversion, he said. "The other issue and the one in which the Latin Americans were primarily interested was that of United States intervention," he added.

THE DILEMMA which presented itself at the conference, he continued, was that the U.S. has been subjected to criticism because of its intervention and, on the other hand, because of its policy of extending aid to Europe rather than our Southern neighbors.

Dr. Schneider praised Dulles' handling of the conference, but said that he doubted that the resulting resolution had added much new hope because it doesn't provide for any real action.

The economic implication of the Communist problem in Latin America was brought up again in connection with a proposed economic conference which will be held this summer.

Following the two speeches, the group discussed the aspects of the question informally, in a question and answer period.

The next faculty seminar, sponsored by the Union seminar committee, will be held in two weeks.

Leverton Accepts Post At Oklahoma A And M

Nutritionist Praised For NU Work

Dr. Ruth M. Leverton, professor of home economics and director of human nutrition research, has been appointed assistant director of experiment stations at Oklahoma A&M College.

Dr. Leverton, who will administer the home economics phase of the experiment station work, will assume the duties of her new post Sept. 1.

Her decision to leave Nebraska was "very difficult to make," Dr. Leverton said. "I have mixed feelings about leaving. There are so many things here I am fond of, but there are nice opportunities at Oklahoma," she added.

WUS Plan Accepted By 8 Clubs

Nucleus Groups To Study, Talk

Foundations have been laid for World University Service "nucleus groups" at the University.

Membership in WUS consists of 30 U.S. colleges. The purpose of the campus organizations is to study attitudes and motivations in international relationships and to investigate how to improve relationships with foreign students.

Jim Collins, chairman of the WUS project at the University, announced that eight organizations will sponsor nucleus groups. Groups having six to 15-member representations are: Lutheran Student Association, YWCA, YMCA, Religious Welfare Council, Hillel Foundation, Newman Club, AUF and NU-CWA.

FOUR OF the nucleus groups, under the chairmanship of Brock Dutton, will discuss the first project. The topic of discussion is: Foreign Students and the Promotion of International Understanding.

The other four groups will discuss the second project: Utilizing the Foreign Experiences of U.S. Faculty and Students to Promote International Understanding. Sue Muelhaupt was appointed head of this discussion project.

Miss Muelhaupt and Dutton will appoint a chairman and a recorder for each of the four groups under their direction. The recorder will keep an account of the discussion. The members will spend a minimum of six hours in these discussion meetings.

A QUESTIONNAIRE will be provided the "nucleus groups" to use in securing an expression of campus attitudes and motivations. Kay Burcum has been appointed chairman of that project. Miss Burcum said that sample surveys of 400 students will be taken through cooperation with Richard Videbeck, instructor in sociology. On March 25 a report
