Dickenson Convicted

WASHINGTON—Cpl. Edward Dickenson was convicted Tuesday of collaborating with the Chinese Communists and with informing on his buddies while a prisoner of war in Korea.

A board of eight high-ranking Army officers returned the verdict after deliberating for 10½ hours, a time regarded by court officials as the longest taken in military history. The maximum sentence under such a charge is life imprisonment.

Support, Then Troops

WASHINGTON—The United States will undertake no military operations in Indo-China unless it has the support of the people of that region, President Eisenhower was quoted saying by Sen. Flanders (R-Vt.). Flanders is a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee. He released this statement following a visit with the President concerning the Indo-China crisis.

The visit followed close on the heels of word from Senate Republican leader Knowland of California that he would give his "fullest support" if Eisenhower should ask Congress to approve sending U.S. troops to the Southeast Asia trouble spot.

Korean Compromise Near

GENEVA—Among the top developments concerning the troubled Asiatic questions are that the U.N. allies were reported readying a compromise proposal for unification of the war-torn Korean peninsula. Also French sources said Communist-Western talks on Indo-China will probably get under way on Friday.

Reaction by the Communists to the Allied proposal would determine whether there is any real chance of unifying the divided country and holding free elections there. The Korean phase of the Far Eastern conference has come to a standstill because each country has its own plan for unification.

McCarthy-Army Continue

WASHINGTON—The attempt to cut short the McCarthy-Army hearings backfired and instead new charges were brought to the light. The Senate investigation turned towards a charge from the light. The Senate that the Army allowed "friends and associates" of atom spy Julius Rosenberg to work in a secret radar laboratory.

The accusation was made by Roy Cohn, general counsel to Sen. McCarthy. He asked Secretary of the Army Stevens if he did not know Rosenberg associates were employed at Ft. Monmouth, N.J., until the senator's investigations "occasioned their dismissal" months after Stevens took office.

Sharon Mangold Heads NUCWA Interim Group

New Officers Plan Reorganization

Sharon Mangold, a sophomore in Teachers College, has been selected as intermediary president of the Nebraska University Council on World Affairs.

Paul Scheele, a junior in Arts and Science, has been named vice president in charge of programs.

Anne Thompson, a sophomore in Teachers College, has been named secretary and Don Rosenberg, a sophomore in the College of Business Administration, treasurer.

THE PRESIDENT, secretary and treasurer will assume regular duties. The vice president in charge of programs will supervise the United Nations Week in the fall, the International Friendship Dinner and bi-monthly meetings.

Members of the appointment committee were: Dr. Frank E. Sorenson, director of summer sessions; Dr. Norman Hill, professor of political science; Dr. Stanley R. Ross, assistant professor of history; James Collins, retiring president of NUCWA; Neala O'Dell and Nita Heimstadter.

THE NEWLY-SELECTED officers, the present board members and the members of the appointment committee will meet next week to initiate next year's program.

New officers and the appointment committee will also select the new board positions before the end of the school year.

OFFICERS WERE appointed after the following resolution was passed by the NUCWA board:

"Be it resolved that the Nebraska University Council on World Affairs be declared in a state of reorganization and intermediary officers be appointed by NUCWA's Faculty Sponsors and senior Board members. Intermediary officers shall serve until election shall be held under a new constitution. The intermediary officers shall have the responsibility of executing the reorganization with the advice of faculty sponsors and old board members."

On the Friday programs, students from many foreign nations have appeared with Ted Collins and Kate Smith to explain the background of events in their own nations and to discuss ways to strengthen freedom.

Announcement of the winner will be made on the Kate Smith program in June.

Phi Sigma Iota To Hold Final Meeting Thursday

The final meeting of Phi Sigma Iota will be held Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Union.

Dr. Margaret Moon, part-time instructor in romance languages, will present a paper entitled: "Paul Claudel: a poet 'malgre lui'."

it happened at nu

An English instructor spent part of the period reading an essay to the class. He then called upon one member of the class to criticize it.

The puzzled student, instead, confronted the professor with, "But you always call on me." The instructor replied, "I do, because you have such an intelligent face."

With that, another student immediately popped up his hand and exclaimed, "You've NEVER called on me!"

AUF Begins NU Faculty Fund Drive

New Situation Policy Explained

All University Fund faculty solicitations are being held now. Je an Steffen, AUF vice-president in charge of solicitations, announced.

"Faculty solicitations are being held this spring," Miss Steffen said, "so that the fall drive of AUF will not compete with the Lincoln Community Chest solicitations. Faculty contributions to AUF are not given to Community Chest, but are divided among the other three AUF charities, Cancer, World University Service and the National Mental Health Association," she explained.

A special committee composed of assistant dean Walter Wright, assistant dean Lee W. Chatfield, Theodore T. Aakhus, representatives of the Community Chest and the AUF Executive Board studied the plan and gave their approval.

Junior Jitters Virus Strikes; Epidemic Continues To Grow

Vicims Easily Noticed—Nervous, Tired, Hushed Tones

By MARILYN MITCHELL
Staff Writer

Junior Jitters, that seasonal virus, has once again invaded the campus.

What is it? Always nearing its crisis sometime during April, Junior Jitters lasts until early May. Medical authorities predict that this year all cases will be cured, or will wear themselves out, by the late afternoon of Ivy Day, May 8.

This virus only affects junior students, although some of its early symptoms may easily be observed in ambitious, energetic freshmen and sophomores. Those having the disease are well aware of it. This only tends to aggravate the nervous disorder.

Its symptoms? Everybody recognizes them. The victims, always active and scholarly students, have dark, tired eyes and nervous giggles. They have hushed conversations among themselves, carry important-appearing notebooks, and flash bright, toothy grins at senior wheels. As the name implies, all these symptoms are accompanied by nervous jitters.

A study of a recent case history includes this revealing conversation between two junior women:

Coed 1: I have to get asked to that fraternity picnic. I've never missed their Ivy Day picnic yet.

Coed 2: But you'll be busy elsewhere.

Coed 1: Busy elsewhere? (Nervous laughter) What do you mean?

Coed 2: You know... I don't know what you're talking about. (More nervous laughter)

At this moment, a smart sophomore, recognizing the symptoms of Junior Jitters, interrupted and

Johnson To Tell Of World Trip

Visiting Historian, Author To Speak On 'Around World With Stevenson'

Dr. Walter Johnson, chairman of the department of history at the University of Chicago, will speak at a convocation at 11 p.m. Thursday in the Union Ballroom.

He will discuss "Around the World with Adlai Stevenson. Dr. Johnson was co-chairman of Stevenson's presidential campaign and accompanied him on his world tour last year.

Johnson is the author of several books, including "William Allen White's America," "The Battle Against Isolationism" and a report of the Yalta Conference entitled "Roosevelt and Russia." He is also co-author of a college text entitled "The United States' Experiment in Democracy."

TWO YEARS ago, Dr. Johnson traveled around the world to investigate the operation of the Fulbright scholarship program. His lectures are being sponsored by the University convocation committee and the department of history.

In addition to his convocation speech, he will give two informal lectures. At 4 p.m. Thursday he will address an informal meeting of graduate students and history majors on "Some Problems of History." At 2 p.m. Friday in Burnett 108, he will speak to undergraduates interested in history on "The Fascination and Importance of History."

M. H. ABRAMS, professor of English at Cornell University, will speak on "The Poet as Creator" at 7:30 p.m., Thursday in Love Library Auditorium. He will also present special lectures for advanced undergraduate and graduate students in English and philosophy departments.

Fritz G. Arndt will discuss "The Development of the Synthetic Reaction of Diazoalkanes" at 4 p.m. Wednesday in Avery Laboratory, Room 208. Arndt, professor of general chemistry at the University of Istanbul, Turkey, is a native of Germany.

He has taught at Kiel University, Ottoman University of Constantinople, University of Breslau and Oxford University. In 1934 he took over the chair in general chemistry at the University of Istanbul, the position which he holds at present.

Philbrick Awarded Scholarship To Receive $500

Kenneth W. Philbrick, a junior in the College of Engineering and Architecture, has received a $500 General Electric Engineering scholarship for the school year 1954-55.

Scholarships are given to "deserving engineering students to assist them in their senior year." Two such scholarships were given for a three-state area, which includes Kansas, Nebraska and South Dakota.

JAMES W. Ludwickson, University representative on the selection board, said requirements for the scholarship stipulate that the recipient must be in the upper quarter of his class, have outstanding technical and administrative potential, good character, financial need and participate in extra-curricular activities.

Philbrick, who is majoring in electrical engineering, is president of Sigma Tau, national honorary scholastic society in engineering member of Eta Kappa Nu, professional electrical engineering fraternity; American Institute of Electrical Engineers; vice president of Delta Sigma Rho, professional speech society, and a member of the University debate team.

SC Rejects ROTC Group Constitution

Student Council rejected a motion made last week to approve the constitution of the Nebraska Military Association, a University ROTC organization.

The constitution was rejected because of one provision which required a mandatory $1.00 to be paid at the time of registration by all military science students. The money collected was to be used in helping finance the Military Ball.

Several Council members voiced the opinion that many students undoubtedly would not want to pay the $1.00 because they did not plan to attend the ball. According to Eldon Park, the constitution may be revised by the association and then be submitted for another hearing before the Council.

NU Registration To Begin May 17

Registration for the 1954 University summer and fall sessions will begin May 17 and close May 19.

Mrs. Irma Laase of the Admissions Office advised that students make appointments with their advisors during the first two weeks of May. Students must have their schedules completed and approved by their respective colleges to be eligible for registration.

Students will register according to the number of credit hours they have earned as of Feb. 1. Registration will be held in the Military and Naval Science Building.

Faction Captures 8 Council Posts

The All University Party—the faction—swept eight of its ten proposed candidates in office during Monday's Student Council elections.

Of the two defeated candidates one came out third in the balloting but was replaced by the required girl representative. The other candidate was defeated by two votes.

In last year's class officer elections faction candidates captured all fifteen places, but in the Student Council race were edged out 8 to 7 by non-faction candidates.

Four Graduates Named To Head '24 Committee

Col. Hobb Turner, Hugo Srb, John Whitten and William Alstadt were selected to head the honor class of 1924 program committee.

The class of '24 will be honored at the annual University Alumni Association Round-Up, June 5. A special table will be reserved at the luncheon for the class. A Sunday breakfast has been scheduled.

Variety Show Planned For Palladian Meeting

Palladian Literary Society will present a Variety Show Friday at 8 p.m. in Temple Room J.

The program will consist of both classical and popular music, skits and vaudeville acts. Following the program square dancing, games, ping pong and cards is planned.

Eldon Parks, Innocents president, tackles Mac Bailey as Coach Glasford stands by to give pointers.
