Rumors Fly As Powers Meet

LONDON, ENGLAND—Five leading powers of the world met in London in search of a pact which would end the arms race and outlaw atomic and germ warfare. There were rumors from British and American informants that the Western nations might introduce proposals in a bid to break the years-long deadlock with Russia on the issues. The secret talks are under the auspices of the United Nations. The group is meeting as a subcommittee of the UN Disarmament Commission.

Since recent disclosures of the effects of the H-bomb test explosions, new urgency has been given to the task which faces Russian and Western experts. These tests have caused nervousness in many parts of the world especially in England.

Seaway Now Official

WASHINGTON—The St. Lawrence seaway bill was signed by President Eisenhower Thursday. The measure will set in motion a plan to bring ocean trade into the heart of the American continent. A. C. P. Henney, Canadian ambassador, and more than a score of Congressional members looked on as the President signed the bill. He used nine pens to sign it. The President said the signing culminated 30 years of effort to put the bill through Congress, "and now work can begin on the great project."

Rep. Dondero (R-Mich) said that the St. Lawrence Seaway will be one of the great waterways of the world and should contribute much to the economic welfare and the national security of the United States.

Soviet Supervision

WASHINGTON—Swarms of Russian advisers are now helping guide Communist military strategy in embattled Indo-China, intelligence reports revealed. Reports said that Soviet "advisers" or "supervisors" work with Viet-Minh rebel officers down to the division level. Also they are helping train Chinese Communist officers for war. These facts were disclosed in a summary of "The New Colonialism in Asia: Sino-Soviet Penetration Of Indo-China." The document was "based on hard intelligence facts," official informants said, but the exact source was not revealed.

Bristol Enters Race

LINCOLN—The latest person to file in the race for governor is Clarence R. Bristol, Ansley grain dealer, who filed for the Republican nomination. Bristol said that if elected his program would be to seek a solution to the current state "tax muddle." He said he feared many persons will lose their property under present tax conditions. Bristol proclaimed that he was an "Eisenhower man, first, last and always," and added that this was his first try for governor. The candidate is owner and operator of the Bristol Grain Company Elevator at Ansley. He has been a dealer in automobiles and farm machinery, rancher, farmer and cattle feeder.

of planning the affair.

The plan originated when Ted James, senior class president, went to Chancellor John K. Selleck who had previously expressed interest in sponsoring the day.

James Pittenger of the Alumni Association earlier had visited the University of California at Los Angeles to get detailed information on Senior Day there.

He plans to go again later this spring to observe the actual running of the day. The University wants to continue Senior day and hopes to enlarge and improve on the program, according to Jim Collins, senior class vice-president.

Pollard Named Speaker

Physicist To Speak At Graduation

The 1954 Commencement speaker will be William G. Pollard, executive director of the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies, at Oak Ridge, Tenn.

He will address the 83rd annual spring Commencement of the University on June 7 at 10 a.m. in the Coliseum. More than 900 senior and graduate students are expected to receive diplomas. The topic of Pollard's speech will be: "Science and Technology in a Dangerous World."

The University Symphonic Band, under the direction of Donald A. Lentz, conductor of University bands, will be the chaplain.

Besides the presentation of diplomas, distinguished service awards and honorary degrees will be presented.

C. Y. Thompson To Dedicate New NU Meats Laboratory

A thirty-five-year-old promise will come true Friday when the NU Meats Laboratory is officially dedicated.

William J. Loeffel, chairman of the animal husbandry department, has waited since 1919 for the construction of the new building.

Loeffel believes that the new meats laboratory is the best in the nation and that the reward was well worth the waiting. Had the laboratory been built when Loeffel began teaching at the University, it would not have as many modern conveniences as it now has.

The three-story, L-shaped brick building is expected to last from 50 to 100 years. The efficiency with which classes were held in the meats laboratory the past semester has proven its adaptability.

The laboratory provides for two types of research, "fundamental and service," which include all aspects of meat production from breeding, feeding and management to cutting, curing and packaging meat.

C. Y. Thompson, University Regent will dedicate the building. Speakers for the event will be Charles Warner, Lt. Governor.

All-Ag Picnic Tickets

Nomination Received For Adams Recommendations Due Thursday

Barbara Adams, senior in Teachers College, has been nominated for Outstanding Nebraskan.

The letter of recommendation praised Miss Adams, past Cornhusker editor, for "her service to the University in journalistic and publicity fields."

In addition to citing her work in campus activities, the letter mentioned her work with high school students. She has taught journalism at Teachers College High School and was adviser for their newspaper last semester. This semester she has been adviser for the TCHS yearbook. She directed the Cornhusker Girls' State banquet in 1953 and was student chairman of the Nebraska High School Press Association convention last fall.

The letter cited Miss Adams' high scholarship. She is a Phi Beta Kappa and one of top ten senior women in scholarship. She is a member of Mortar Board.

NOMINATIONS FOR this semester's Outstanding Nebraskans will be accepted at the Nebraskan office until Thursday noon. The Nebraskan, sponsor of the honor, will select one student and one faculty member from the nominations based on service to the University.

Nominations must be in writing and must include a statement of the nominee's qualifications. Outstanding Nebraskans will be announced in Friday's Nebraskan.

W. V. Lambert, dean of the College of Agriculture, and Eleanor Knoll, senior in the College of Law, were named Outstanding Nebraskans for the first semester.

NU Foundation Accepts Fund, Research Aids

The University Foundation has announced the acceptance of a $1,000 research grant and a $100 student loan fund.

According to Perry W. Branch, director-secretary, the research grant was contributed by Charles Pfizer & Company, Inc., of Brooklyn, for research in the role of antibiotics in swine nutrition.

The grant will be under the direction of William J. Loeffel, chairman of the department of animal husbandry.

THE NEWLY established student loan fund will be known as Mrs. Ina Hendricks Frederick Student Loan Fund. The donor lives at 2911 No. 50th St. in Lincoln.

Loans from the fund will be available to senior students in Teachers College "who are honor students of good moral character."

Duvall Receives ROTC Promotion

Joe G. Duvall, staff member of the University Air Force ROTC unit, was promoted to the grade of major, Col. J. A. Stenglein, professor of air science and tactics, has announced.

Major Duvall has the academic rank of assistant professor and title of commandant of cadets. He received his bachelor degree from Kansas City University in 1950. He served with the Air Force in the Alaskan Theater during World War II. In June, 1951, he came to the University from Olathe, Kan., Naval Air Station, where he was stationed with the Air Force reserve training center.

Future Chancellor Plans Campus Visit

Dr. and Mrs. Clifford M. Hardin will visit the University campus Sunday, Monday and Tuesday in connection with their plans for moving to Lincoln about July 1 when Dr. Hardin will become chancellor.

At present Dr. Hardin is dean of the School of Agriculture at Michigan State College. Dr. Hardin has asked University staff members to attend a brief, informal session at 4 p.m. Monday in the Union.

Other awards to be made are: Senior Masquer's Freshman award to the freshman who has done the most outstanding work and shown the most promise for the future.

The two members who have made greatest contributions to the University Theater will be recognized by the Service Award; and the Purple Masque, the highest honor bestowed by

Paint Splattered On Carillon Tower

Officials of the University ground-keeping crew discovered two discolorations on the Carillon Tower Tuesday morning, where a bottle of red and a bottle of green paint had been thrown against it.

Charles Fowler, director of the division of buildings and grounds, said there was no indication of who threw the bottles.

Ground-keeping officials, Fowler said, removed as much of the paint as possible. Because limestone tends to absorb bleaches in paint, the surface of the Carillon Tower will be defaced until the bleach fades. This could take several years.

EE Board Picks Wood President

Daryl Wood was elected president of the Engineering Executive Board Tuesday.

Other members of the board are: Jeff Szazama, vice president, and Bill Neef, secretary-treasurer.

An amendment to the constitution of the Executive Board was submitted which provides for a publicity chairman who would be considered a non-voting member of the Board. The new post will be filled by a student chosen by an interviewing committee of the Executive Board each fall.
