

Director Greets Students

The University of Nebraska is happy to welcome you to the campus this summer. We believe that the University offers you exceptional educational, cultural and recreational opportunities and we urge you to become acquainted with the Summer Sessions program so that the next several weeks will be truly profitable and enjoyable ones for you.

Two hundred faculty members are kept busy during the summer providing the needed instruction for all students and the supervision of graduate students. Of this number, 37 are visiting faculty members. These visitors bring to the University campus the experience of educational institutions in about a dozen states. Together the local and visiting faculty members provide a rich environment for learning.

The Student Union serves as the University center for recreation, service and social development. Union activities during the summer cover a wide scope—from lectures, seminars and book reviews to movies, dances and a variety of games. Of particular interest is the Fine Arts series offered every Wednesday evening. Union facilities include the Corn Crib, the Round-Up Cafeteria and Main Dining Room.

In addition to the regular program of instruction, numerous educational opportunities are provided in the form of workshops, clinics and institutes. The 1954 Summer Sessions will again present authorities on national and international affairs. The program will take the form of two one-day clinics, "Meet Your Congressman," on June 21, featuring Carl Curtis; the other, "Meet the Minister to the United States from Pakistan" on July 12, featuring His Excellency Amjad Ali.

A new feature of the 1954 Summer Sessions will be a series of three "World Trouble Spot Forums" produced in cooperation with the departments of geography, political science and economics.

The annual Summer Sessions Teachers College Conference will feature internationally known educators on the dates June 29 and 30.

The Student Union Calendar, the weekly building bulletin boards, as well as the Summer Nebraskan will call attention to these and other special events.

New Chancellor To Assume Duties At University July 1

The arrival of the University's new chancellor, Dr. Clifford Hardin, former dean of agriculture at Michigan State College, will highlight the 1954 Summer Sessions, July 1.

Dr. Hardin, who will be one of the youngest chancellors in University history, will take over his duties after July 1, replacing John K. Selleck, who has served as acting chancellor during the past year and who was appointed chancellor in May pending Hardin's arrival.

After an extensive search since September in which more than 100 names were considered, the Board of Regents unanimously appointed him as chancellor in May.

THE 38-YEAR old chancellor-elect and his wife are parents of four children, Susan 12; Clifford, 11; Cynthia, 8, and Nancy, 5.

With the aid of a 4-H scholarship, Dr. Hardin attended Purdue University receiving his A.B., M.A. and Ph.D. degrees in 1937 to 1939 and 1941. The school awarded him an honorary doctorate of science in 1952.

He began his professional career at the University of Wisconsin in 1951 as an extension marketing specialist and instructor in agricultural economics. He joined the staff of Michigan State College where he became chairman of the department of agricultural economics in 1946.

IN 1948 he assumed the assistant directorship of the Michigan State Agricultural Experiment

Forums Planned On Trouble Spots

The first in a series of three forums on major trouble spots of the world will be held June 17. The forums, directed by Jack McBride, University television specialist, are a new feature of the 1954 summer session.

The programs will deal with the geographic, political and economic background of several of the troubled areas of the world and the effects of each of these phases on the United States.

Leaders for the forums will be Dr. Leslie Hewes, professor of geography and chairman of the geography department, Dr. Carl J. Schneider, assistant professor of political science and Dr. Wallace C. Peterson, instructor of economics.

Remaining forums are scheduled for July 1 and 15.

Station and became director the following year. He was appointed dean of the School of Agriculture July 1, 1953.

In addition to his educational duties, Dr. Hardin has also worked in the international field. He toured England and Europe in 1947 to survey post-war food problems under the auspices of Michigan farm groups. He later traveled in Colombia, South America, in connection with Michigan State's participation in the Point Four program.

He also spent some time in 1953 at Okinawa to expedite his school's part in a joint training project with the University of Ryukyus, Okinawa.

He is the author of numerous articles and bulletins in the field of agricultural economics.

DR. HARDIN is a member of the American Farm Economics Association, Sigma Xi, national science honorary society, and Alpha Zeta and Phi Kappa Phi, professional societies.

M.I.T. Recognizes Professor Ernst

A University professor has been recognized as one of the best-informed authorities on thin shell concrete design by Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

As a result of several years of research, George C. Ernst, chairman of the department of civil engineering, has been asked to give the principal paper at a conference on thin shell concrete design.

The conference, being planned by the department of architecture and civil engineering at M.I.T., will be held at Cambridge, Mass., June 21 to 23.

High School Students Invade Campus For All-State Fine Arts Course Today

High School students attending the University All-State Fine Arts Course will invade the University campus Wednesday for a three-week stay lasting until June 27.

The students—277 in number—will take intensive group and individual training in one of three fields: music, art or speech. They will be housed at University dormitories and fraternity and sorority houses.

For music students, the course offers a chance to participate in the All-State Chorus, Band and

Bebb

On one side is the summer activities director, who does everything from arranging for productions like "The Theater of Mr. Poe" to delivering posters and setting up the weekly schedule of bridge lessons, book reviews and music albums.

ERNIE BEBB, this summer's director, is the one man bundle of energy whose job it is to line up all Union events and to coordinate them with Summer Session activities.

From Omaha, Bebb has served as activities chairman of Union activities during the past school year, and has been regional chairman of the Association of College Unions.

He received his B.S. degree Monday after serving the past year as Innuent's secretary and vice-president of both Corn Cobs and Alpha Tau Omega.

"Because of the success of previous Union programs," Bebb said, "Union activities have been expanding, and this summer's program is expected to be one of the most successful."

ACROSS THE hall from the Activities office is the office of Duane Lake, managing director of the Union, and his staff, whose job it is to direct the business side of the Union.

Lake received his A.B. degree at the University of Minnesota, worked in the Union there and then moved to South Dakota where he headed the Union staff at South Dakota State University. He has been here since 1947.

Del Heiny, who was graduated from Wayne College and took his masters work here, is the assistant director. He was a coach at Fremont.

A NEW face at the Union is Mrs. Maureen Farris who is reservations secretary, serves as secretary to the director and cashier and reserves Union rooms for students and organizations.

Union bookkeeper is Joan Rillings, who received her B.S. degree Monday.

Night supervisors are Gene Cody, sophomore in business administration, and Avery Noll, who was graduated from the University in 1950.

A NEW member of the Union staff is Mrs. Stephanie Drucker, food production manager. Mrs. Drucker, originally from France, attended the Universities of Vienna and Paris, where she received the French equivalent of a master's degree. She came to America four years ago and has been assistant manager at Gold's dietary department. Her daughter, Jeanne Beck, is majoring in language and education at the University.

Mrs. Anita Wilson is secretary in the catering department and Dorothy Spears is the food director.

Building engineer is Grandville "Mac" McKene.

Teachers Conference Scheduled

Internationally known educators will be at the University June 29 and 30 to address educators attending the annual summer Teachers College Conference on "Promising Practices in Community Education."

Willard Beatty, former Chief of Fundamental Education for UNESCO and supervisor of the International Fundamental Education Training Centers at Patzcuaro, Mexico, and Sirs-el-Loyan, Egypt, will speak about "International Experiments in Community Education."

AT THE first general session Dr. Walter Cocking, editor of the magazine, "School Executive," will discuss "National Trends in Community Education."

Because July 5, the first day of the conference as originally scheduled, has been designated as a holiday by the University, it has been necessary to change the dates of the meetings to June 29 and 30, rather than July 5 and 6 as stated in previous announcements.

University staff members who will participate in the conference include Dr. Frank Henzlik, dean of Teachers College; Dr. William Hall, professor of educational psychology; Dr. Walter Beggs, professor of school administration, and Dr. Norman Thorpe, director of teaching training.

Orchestra as well as small ensembles.

Students taking speech will produce plays, learn radio techniques and practice debating and interpretive reading. Art students will use the studios of the University's art department for drawing, painting and sculpture.

At the end of the Fine Arts Course, the students will present an outdoor public concert on the steps of the Coliseum Sunday, June 27.

The course is sponsored by the University School of Fine Arts.
