

Play Therapy

Dr. Lucille Cypreansen, assistant professor of speech, offers individual instruction to two children enrolled in the University's Speech and Hearing Clinic. The clown is a form of play therapy to help youngsters with hearing and speaking problems.

Special Speech, Hearing Clinic Opened At NU Laboratories

A special summer school for pre-school and elementary school children has been opened at the University speech and hearing laboratories. The school, with daily classes at 1:30 p.m. will run through July 9.

About 50 youngsters are enrolled to improve their speech habits and, in some cases, to receive help with hearing problems. Individual and group instruction will be given in creative play, choral reading and play therapy instruction which includes speech games, musical games and dancing.

Coach School Program Set For August 16

Don Faurot, head football coach at the University of Missouri for the past 16 years, and Jerry Bush, new Nebraska basketball coach, will be two important figures in the University's Coaching School program dated for August 16 through 19.

Sponsored jointly by the University Athletic Department and the Nebraska School Activities Association, the school will be held on the Cornhusker campus. Registration is scheduled for August 15 from 4 to 6 p.m. in the athletic director's office.

Faurot will lecture on the operation of the split-T and will be assisted by members of the Nebraska football staff. Don Stroh, coach at Palmer, will discuss the six-man game.

Bush will head the basketball portion of the program. Before coming to this University, he coached at Toledo University, and prior to that played in the professional leagues.

The Cornhusker training room staff will discuss the prevention and handling of athletic injuries.

THE CLINIC is divided into five special groups: pre-school, six to eight years, nine to 11 years, hearing deficiency and cerebral palsy. Speech training and instruction in lip reading will be given to children with hearing difficulties. The cerebral palsy group will be given speech training as individual needs indicate.

THE CLINIC staff includes Dr. John Wiley, Dr. Lucille Cypreansen, Ernest Burgi, University staff members, and a number of senior and graduate assistants. The clinic staff will work in co-operation with parents of the children.

The University department of audio-visual instruction is co-operating with the laboratories. Financial aid has been provided by the Nebraska Society for Crippled Children, the Lincoln Quota Club and the Cooper Foundation.

Union Bridge Lessons To Begin At New Time

Bridge lessons, originally planned to start at 3 p.m., will be held every Wednesday from 4 to 5 p.m. in the Union.

Robert A. Ratner, assistant professor of mechanical engineering, will instruct students in beginning and advanced levels of bridge.

A bridge tournament is planned to end the lessons.

Visiting NU Instructor Describes Schools, Sights Of Foreign Tour

By BARBARA CLARK

The Louvre of Paris, historic cities of Cuba and famous buildings in England highlighted the recent trip of Russel Holy, visiting University instructor, to the three countries.

Holy, who is serving as an instructor in school business management this summer, is professor of Administration at the University of Paris. The purpose of his trip was to observe school systems in Cuba, France and England.

ON THE first lap of their tour, Mr. and Mrs. Holy visited Cuba, which Holy described as being a contrast of ancient and modern ways of living. He said that schools in Cuba are small compared to schools in an American city of the same size.

The majority of Cuban schools offer extensive courses in English, he said.

The Holys flew from New York City to Paris on the second lap of their journey. While in Paris, they visited many schools, including the University of Paris, which has an enrollment of approximately 30,000 students. Holy said that classes contain an average of 150 students.

HOLY ESPECIALLY enjoyed a visit to the world famous Louvre. The art gallery was built during the reign of Louis XIV and covers 40 acres of land.

It contains famous works of art such as the "Winged Victory" and Da Vinci's "Mona Lisa." Crown jewels and crowns belonging to the old kings of France and the second largest diamond in the world, weighing 134 carats, are also found in the Louvre.

The Holys also visited the Cathedral of Notre Dame, Eiffel Tower, Church of the Sacred Heart and Arch D'Triumph. Twelve streets, named after Napoleon's famous generals, converge at the Arch D'Triumph. Every evening, services are held to keep the eternal flame burning for the Unknown Soldier.

Eleven University Students Named Scholarship Winners

Dean J. P. Colbert, chairman of the committee on general scholarship awards, announced that 11 University students have been named as recipients of 1954-55 University scholarships.

The $300 F. E. and Orinda M. Johnson Scholarships, given to juniors and seniors who have demonstrated outstanding ability and who are worthy of financial assistance, were awarded to Lynn Brady, Pharmacy senior; Thelma Cox, Arts and Sciences junior majoring in Spanish; Raymond Hruby, Business Administration senior specializing in accounting, and Gerald Weinberg, Arts and Sciences senior majoring in physics.

IRIS BECKER, Agriculture junior majoring in vocational education, and Dorothy Sears, Business Administration senior, received the $100 Jones National Bank Scholarships. The Jones Scholarships are awarded annually to one junior and one senior who show promise of future success in their chosen fields and who are residents of Seward County.

Gloria Kollmorgen, junior in Teachers college, received the $200 Stella Kirker Meissner Scholarship. She is majoring in speech.

THREE RECIPIENTS of the $200 Matthew G. Herold Scholarship are Lillian J. Barrett, junior in Teachers College and elementary education major; Donita J. Brehm, sophomore in the College of Agriculture and vocational education major, and Robert L. Yekel Jr., senior in College of Arts and Sciences and major in pre-medicine.

John R. Luethje, senior in College of Business Administration, received the $160 Margaret McNulty Memorial Scholarship.

THE MODERN subway system and the cleanliness and beauty of Paris impressed the Holys. Early each morning, every street is thoroughly cleaned. The tree-lined avenues and symmetrical height of the buildings indicate the careful planning of the city, Holy said.

The French are very conscious of the cultural heritage, Holy reported. Paris contains many museums and art galleries, numerous statues of famous French philosophers, writers, artists and composers are found throughout the city. The patriotism of the French people is evidenced by the statues of French political figures and the many streets and buildings named after French patriots.

Holy stated he felt he had gained much in knowledge and understanding of cultural, economic and educational conditions in other countries by his trip.
