Second NU Summer Commencement To Confer Degrees On About 330

Crosby To Speak At Outdoor Ceremonies July 30

The second annual summer commencement, which will confer degrees on approximately 330 students, will be held at 7 p.m. Friday, July 30.

The ceremonies will be held outdoors at the east entrance to the stadium. Robert Crosby, governor of Nebraska, will give the commencement address. The title of his address will be "War or Peace."

PRESIDING FOR the first time at University commencement ceremonies will be Chancellor Clifford Hardin. Master of ceremonies will be Dr. LeRoy T. Laase, professor of speech and dramatic art and chairman of the commencement committee.

The Rev. Alvin Peterson, student pastor of the Lutheran Student House, will be chaplain. Shirley Rasmussen Alpuerto, graduate student in the department of music, will give a vocal solo.

Selections will be played on the Carillon Tower bells by Don Kitchen, senior in Teachers College, both preceding and following the ceremonies.

Members of the Board of Regents and deans of the colleges will be on the platform.

Summer Play

'Glass Menagerie' To Open At Howell Theatre Tuesday

"The Glass Menagerie," the University Theatre's summer play, will be presented Tuesday and Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Howell Theatre.

The production will be open to the general public free of charge. Admission is by ticket only. Tickets may be picked up in the Union office after Friday noon. They will not be distributed at the speech office.

The Tennessee Williams' drama has been called one of the most popular modern shows and one of the best plays of recent years. Williams is also the author of "The Rose Tattoo" and "Streetcar Named Desire."

"The Glass Menagerie" is the story of a family who refuse to face the realism of the present and lives in a glorious, but dead past.

THE CAST includes: Amanda, Betty Lester; Laura, Mary Wayman; Tom, Bill Walton; and the gentleman caller, Jack Parris. Betty Lester, now attending the University summer sessions, is a former University student. While at Nebraska, she appeared in the University Theatre production of "Idiot's Delight."

Mary Wayman appeared in the leading role in the 1953 summer production of the University Theatre, "Light Up the Sky." She also had major roles in University productions, "Street Scene" and "Idiot's Delight."

BILL WALTON has appeared in University Theatre productions, "The Man Who Came to Dinner" and "The Hasty Heart." He also served as director of "Room Service," presented by the University Theatre during the past year. A June graduate of the University, Walton will resume studies here in the fall for graduate work in speech and dramatic art.

Jack Parris has been seen in University productions, "The Hasty Heart," "The Little Foxes" and "Phoenix Too Frequent." He also appeared in "Light Up the Sky," 1953 summer production of the University Theatre. A junior in Teachers College majoring in speech, Parris is attending summer sessions at the University.

John Tolch, instructor in speech and dramatic art and technical director of the University Theatre, is directing "The Glass Menagerie."

Post Session Fee Deadline On August 3

The summer post session, which is offering three courses, will start Saturday, July 31. Deadline for registration and payment of fees is Aug. 3.

Courses offered are: personal and community health, three hours credit, meeting every day for class and lab from 9 a.m. to 12 noon; teacher driving and safety education in secondary schools, one to three hours credit, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. every day, and an agronomy field experience course, one to four hours credits, time arranged.

Students may register for the post session by obtaining the signature of their advisors on an Add and Drop Work Sheet and taking it to the Office of Registration and Records, Administration. Fees are $5 a credit hour.

Final examinations and close of the post session are on Aug. 18.

Science Exhibit Planned By Education 115 Class

An exhibit of science materials for classroom use, prepared by the elementary education 115 class, has been on display in Room 200, Teachers College, this week. The exhibit will end Thursday.

The class, instructed by Joe Zaffaroni, prepares teachers for instructing science in the elementary school. The displays will involve use of magnetism, electricity, living things, sound, air and water aspects that contribute to the learning of science and everyday living of children.

Redecoration, New Services Planned By Union For Completion In August

Modernization Of Parlors XYZ Major Improvement

Duane Lake, director of the Union, announced that a Union redecoration program will go into full effect during August. The renovation should be completed by fall, he added.

The major redecoration of the Union will be in parlors XYZ which will be redone in modern decor. The present carpeting will be replaced by specially designed modern carpeting and new chairs and tables made of a new type of wood-grain which is practically indestructible will be added to the rooms.

Mobile light fixtures will be installed and the folding doors will be upholstered. In addition, the entrance doors will be redesigned to feature modernistic glass and wire patterns.

THE CRIB will undergo re-equipping in order to enlarge its services. Next year the Crib will operate on a self-service basis. A fountain unit, salad section, short order section, soup and sandwich unit, pastry section and a coffee bar will be added. In addition, a greater variety of foods will be served in the Crib. The kitchen adjoining the Crib will also be renovated to assure more complete and efficient service.

Beginning in the fall, the Round-Up Room will be open throughout the day to accommodate students on coffee breaks. To expedite service, a dual unit for hot food and a new automatic unit for coffee service are being installed.

ROOM 18 in the northeast corner of the Union basement will be renovated to facilitate a game room and additional storage space. The present game nook to the left of the Crib entrance is being removed because the northeast door of the Union, previously closed, will be open to traffic from the newly constructed Men's Dormitories in the fall.

The layout of the Nebraskan and Cornhusker offices will be changed to facilitate the installation of a large walk-in freezer purchased for the Union. The freezer, 20 feet in length, will be installed in the space now occupied by the Nebraskan business office. Lake said that plans are also being made to repaint the Nebraskan office.

A TILE floor and an acoustical ceiling will be put in the ping pong room in the basement. The walls of the room will also be paneled.

Education Address

Dr. Martin J. Langeveld of the University of Utrecht, Holland, speaks to University summer session students on the effect of an educational system on the development of the child. He was on campus Monday and Tuesday for a series of lectures.

Dr. Langeveld

'Process Of Intellectualism' Attacked By Dutch Educator

An attack against the formalized education system of rules and regulations only and the "process of intellectualism" was made by Dr. Martin J. Langeveld, head of the department of education at the University of Utrecht, Holland, at Love Library Auditorium Monday night. Speaking to teachers on "The Impact of an Educational System on the Development of a Child," Dr. Langeveld said that teachers should help the child to take full responsibility for himself, shared responsibility for a larger community such as the family, and responsibility for others who are not able to take responsibility at the moment.

"EDUCATION," he said, "must help a child build an inner security apart from the mother's lap and teach him how to take the risks of life." It is the development of the helpless child into a self-reliant, responsible adult, he continued.

"The educator joins the weakest and most helpless of men—the child," Dr. Langeveld said. "He who takes the side of the weakest may have to share the burden of the weakest."

The formalized part of an educational system is important he said. It allows a system to be carried over from one generation to another with easiness and provides the advantages of accumulative methods.

"BUT WE must ask of the educational system whether it expects the child as child," he said. "The answer is no. He is something called a pupil."

In European schools we are losing the child in a mass of pupils, he said. "There is a depersonalization going on."

The same kind of depersonalization is turning the educator into a civil servant, an education engineer or a teaching machine, the Dutch educator said.

The student is held down by the one who holds the keys in his pocket and says, "I'll open the door, but I'll tell you before what you'll see," Dr. Langeveld said.

"WE WANT children to develop responsibility even if he doesn't know the result," he said. He asked how a "process of intellectualism" could prevent the student from becoming just an imitator.

"How shall a child build up a harmonious personal life if it is not balanced by loyalty and self-reliance?" he asked.

The personal pattern of living is neglected, he said. "We have no time to live—we are always in a hurry to get somewhere."

"The American educational system has made the choice," he said, and gave American schools credit for helping to give to the child a more well-rounded personality.

Phi Delta Kappa

Phi Delta Kappa, men's education honorary, will hold an initiation and picnic at Pioneer Park Tuesday, July 27.

Frank E. Henzlik, dean of Teachers College, will speak at the initiation, which will be at 5 p.m. The picnic will follow at 6:30 p.m.
