

Three NU Fraternities Complete Building Plan

Off Campus Groups To Leave Present Sites

Three fraternities will complete new houses during the coming year if present plans materialize.

Delta Upsilon and Kappa Sigma are planning new on-campus houses, leaving Delta Sigma Phi as the only off-campus fraternity. Construction has already been begun on the new Farmhouse building.

Farmhouse will be the first of the three to be completed. It should be finished by the middle of November, according to Dwight Jundt president. The house will be located on five lots, three blocks south of Holdrege street at the end of Idylwild drive.

IN ARCHITECTURE. It will resemble the Delta Tau Delta house. The three-story structure will be constructed with buff brick, metal and all tile floors so that it will be completely fire-proof.

The main reason for the move, Jundt said, is to accommodate the entire chapter, which is not possible in the present house. The new building is planned to house 86 boys.

Special features of the $106,000 house are a $2,000 disposal and dishwashing system, an inter-communication system and its fire-proof construction.

Members of Farmhouse board of directors worked with the architect, E. G. Schaumburg, on the planning and offered suggestions to be incorporated into the new building.

KAPPA SIGMA president Wes Barton reported that construction on their new house will begin this semester.

The fraternity's present house at 1141 H street was sold, he said, in order to give impetus to the building fund drive.

Plans for the house were first begun two years ago. Since then a new architect has been employed and present plans call for a modernistic L-shaped structure with three stories in front and one in back.

The cost has been estimated at $200,000. It will accommodate 52. The new house will be built on north 16th street, between the Phi Kappa Psi house and the Lutheran Student Center.

ALSO MODERNISTIC in design will be the new Delta Upsilon house at 16th and Vine. It will be a T-shaped, two-story building with lots of windows in the front and a dining room at the back forming the cross-bar of the T.

DU president John Gibbs said that plans are to start razing of the building on the site in March and that they hope to be able to move in by next fall.

The Alumni Building Corporation has been in charge of fund raising and plans for the house. Marv Robinson is the architect.

Big Red Club

Alumni Contributions Reach $9,000 Mark

Contributions to the Big Red Club now total well over $9,000. By the end of the week the drive will be well over the $4 mark.

James Pittenger, alumni secretary, said Tuesday. "In addition to regular contributions, many alumni groups are helping in the Big Red Drive," Pittenger continued. "Washington D. C. Alumni Club is planning a $10 a plate dinner to help the drive."

There are about 40 alumni clubs throughout the United States which will begin holding regular meetings during the fall months. Pittenger expects each of the clubs to help the fund drive.

Plans are also being to get civic groups and organizations to take over the support of one or more scholarships, Pittenger said.

During the summer, a special issue of the Nebraska Alumnus was sent out to 80,000 alumni. The United States has been divided into 12 sections. Each area is in a contest. Prizes will be given to the largest contributing areas and individual clubs.

"There are many things about our University of which we have been and are proud," Pittenger wrote in the September issue of the Nebraska Alumnus. "Among them has been athletics.

"Now that the Alumni Association has started a drive to do something about the Grant-in-Aid situation, we will see if the screamers back up their words with a helping hand.

"All Grants-in-Aid are to be awarded by the regular scholarship committee. For years the University, through the Foundation, has asked for funds to support other parts of the University.

"I can see no wrong in equally supporting our athletic program, provided such scholarships are awarded on the basis of scholastic ability as well as athletic ability, he concluded."

Thailand Honors ROTC Professor

The Most Exalted Order of the White Elephant, fourth class, has been conferred by the King of Thailand upon Maj. Earl W. Bihlmeyer, associate professor of military science and tactics at the University of Nebraska.

Major Bihlmeyer was recognized for his services to the Thailand Infantry Battalion during the Korean campaign. He assisted in training and tactical employment of the unit as adviser to the Thailand troops.

A native of Elk Point, S. D., Major Bihlmeyer is a graduate of the University of South Dakota.

NU Students Win Cash Scholarships

Four University students, Rex Bosley, Wayne Olson, Charles Day, and Keith Bauman have been named as winners of Vita Craft Cash Scholarships.

The Vita Craft Scholarships are awarded each year on the basis of sales made the preceding summer by college students working for the Vita Craft company.

A letter to the Chancellor from the company sales manager announced a total of $700 in scholarship money will be sent the four students for tuition and expenses. Bosley is a member of Sigma Chi fraternity, and Bauman is a Theta Chi. Day is a senior; Bosley, Olson and Bauman are sophomores.
