Beware IM Violators; New Rules In Effect

Phyl Cast

Are you one who has just been faking intramurals by forgetting to show up? Then you had better start marking your Builders calendar for there are new default rules now in effect.

Third and fourth for intramurals? Best start eating your Cheerios and dust off those tennis shoes because it's that time again—October 4 is the opening day for intramurals.

TEAM LISTS are due today at noon for these sports so, Reps, if you've forgotten, you may still have about 15 minutes to get your list in.

You don't have to be an expert to play in intramurals, but there is one necessary prerequisite—every girl not taking physical education must have a HEALTH PERMIT.

Alas—No longer can you enter the intramural field and at the same time walk down the Sigma Chi driveway.

Huskers Preparing For Iowa State; First Big Seven Encounter For NU

After bowing to Minnesota last Saturday in a heartbreaking 19-7 loss, coach Bill Glassford took his charges through a full game workout yesterday in preparation for the Nebraska's opening Big Seven tilt against the Iowa State Cyclones Saturday.

After the Gopher contest, only center Bob Oberlin and halfback Sylvester Harris came out with any injuries.

LAST NIGHT'S practice was a contest between the Reds and Whites. Running for the Red first team was the starting line-up last week in the Minnesota game with the exception of halfback Willie Greenlaw.

Iowa State will enter the Cornhusker tilt with a one-one record. They opened their season against South Dakota State two weeks ago, downing them 39-0.

FIFTEEN LETTERMEN returned to Iowa State this year. Among the new faces this year will be that of head coach Vince Di Francesca.

In the IS backfield will be Jerry Finley at quarterback; Bruce Alexander and Gary Lutz at halfbacks, and Max Burkett at fullback.

THREE CORNHUSKERS that stood out in the Minnesota tilt were Charlie Bryant, Bob Wagner, and Bill Holloran.

Coach Glassford said that this week's practice will stress defense on punts.
