In 1941 Gen. Romulo won Pulitzer Prize for his news stories on Japanese aims in the Orient.

In San Francisco in 1945, Gen. Romulo was present when the charter for the United Nations organization was drawn up.

He thought each meeting of the General Assembly should have a reverent moment of prayer before starting its business. Several objections arose so the final decision was for "a minute of silence" before the meetings.

Gen. Romulo was elected president of the Fourth General Assembly in 1949 and helped make the moment of silence more significant with these words: "Let us pray to Almighty God to give us courage and the vision to face our awesome responsibility."

He served as Gen. Douglas MacArthur's aide-de-camp on Bataan, Corregidor and Australia during World War II. Staying until all the forces had left Bataan, he was the last one to depart. He accompanied General MacArthur and the liberating forces in the invasion of Leyte and in the recapture of Manila.

Gen. Romulo himself is an example of his thesis that the Filipino is the composite of the Orient, the product of three influences: the basic Malayan, Spanish, and American. His extensive knowledge of existing conditions in Asia will prove of value to all University students.

The procedure for removing a down is as follows: Talk to the instructor of the course in which the down was received. If the down is removable, complete the work and get a slip from the instructor indicating that the down has been removed.

Second, record the removal of the down with the Associate Dean of Women in Ellen Smith Hall.

Third, file the removal with the house mother.

It is no longer necessary to have a down removed through the Dean of Student Affairs. If the down is a mistake, it is still necessary to follow the above rules to have it removed.

A trophy will be presented to the winning organized houses with the name of the house (not the winning candidate) and the year engraved on it. The trophy will be kept by the winning house during the 1954-55 school year and the 1955 Rush Week.

Complimentary Tickets Awarded

Six candidates for Honorary Producer have received complimentary tickets for the Tuesday night performance of "Death of a Salesman." The two Honorary Producers will be given two complimentary tickets for the remaining University productions.

Individual portraits of the Honorary Producers will be displayed in the Theater lobby and will be given later to the individuals.

The Honorary Producer tradition began in 1948 when representatives of Kappa Delta, Margy Zellers, and Zeta Beta Tau, Byron Krasne, were given the title in the old Temple Theater, the remodeled Howell Theater.

The organization went to Paris to play at the Cafe des Ambassadeurs and upon returning appeared in the Broadway musical "Hello Yourself." The Waring group, including the glee club, was first introduced on radio in 1933 and in 1949 Waring began his television series.

"Every creed, every nation and every state has its story,"

DuTeau said, "and I believe Nebraska has a story. The story of the University is one of which every citizen, student and alumnus can be proud. The story should make students proud to be students and proud of their degrees."

Tom Woodward, Nebraskan editor, said in connection with the selection of DuTeau, "I think we are more fortunate to have Ellsworth DuTeau as the speaker for the dinner. I have heard him speak before student audiences twice before and believe the spirit and interest he shows in the University has done much to change even the most lackadaisical attitude."

"He seems to know more about this school's history and outstanding accomplishments than anyone I've heard," Woodward said.

DuTeau was graduated from the University in 1927. He was a member of Innocents Society, Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Alpha Epsilon. He was also a member of the Nebraska staff.

DuTeau was secretary of the Alumni Association from 1939 to 1946. He is immediate past president of the Alumni Association.

DuTeau recently wrote a book entitled: "How to Succeed Through Speech." He is president of The University Club and active in many other affairs, especially the Chamber of Commerce.

Tickets for the banquet may be purchased from Corn Cob and Kosmet Klub workers and Nebraskan staff members for $1.60.

The dinner will begin at 5:30 p.m.

Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians will present their new musical theater show, "Pleasure Time, 1955" Sunday, Nov. 21, at 7:30 p.m. at University Coliseum.

This production is being sponsored by the Union Board of Managers. A special student section on the main floor will be reserved for students. Tickets for this section are $1.50.

Advance sale of tickets for students only will begin Nov. 1, 2 and 3 in both the Ag and City Unions. Sales will reopen Nov. 10.

Regular tickets sales will start Nov. 8 at Walt's Music Store and the Union with prices at $1, $1.50, $2, $2.50 and $3.

Electronic Innovations

The presentation here is part of a 29-week road show by Fred Waring and the Pennsylvanians and will feature special electronic innovations by Waring himself. Both young performers making their first nation-wide tour and many old-favorites from the glee club and orchestra will appear with the featured soloists in what Waring has called "the most gratifying sound I've heard."

Parents who wish to write in for tickets should make checks payable to the Student Union and enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

The Pennsylvanians were organized first in 1916 by Waring and his brother, Tom. Beginning as a four man group, it later grew to 11 and was known as "Waring's Tewell Collegians." In 1927 they were selected as the outstanding American dance band.
