Freshman, you can put your kiddie-cars in winter storage because you no longer must go charging over to the field to play your soccer baseball games. Unless your team is equipped with a set of "Little Eskimo" parkas, we suggest that you play indoors at Grant Memorial. Due to this switch only one game can be played each night. The finals are scheduled for next Tuesday night.

Sherwood forest hasn't got a thing on Nebraska. Nothing but the finest archers are found right here on this campus. Arline Harie won the tournament again this year. Janet McClung won second place and Sandy Speicher won third place.

Hurrah, hurrah, my frantic plea for the lost notebook worked. Thanks to the little pixie who placed said notebook on the W.A.A. desk. We can live again.

How does a challenge from the council to the sports board sound? The council is busily engaged in making plans for some type of a picnic or game each month between the council and sports board.

Three new Tournaments are starting next week. Monday the Duckpin tournament begins—duckpins—that's where six ducks are let loose in a room and you see how many you can hit with pins. Bowling starts Tuesday and the tournament is held at the Lincoln Bowling Alley. Volleyball also starts Tuesday. Tennis shoes must be worn—We'll have none of this stocking feet attire this year. The latest splash is this—The swimming meet is Nov. 16 at 7:00. Practices are Nov. 9 and 11 at 7:15. You must have a SWIMMING PERMIT.

Office hours for workers have begun. You lucky girls. Hours are posted on the W.A.A. bulletin board.

The Assistant Officials chairmen for the Soccer baseball tournament are Jeanie Craig and Bobby Holmes. If anyone is interested in officiating for volleyball, call Katy Kelly at the Chi O house.

The council has decided that seven delegates will be sent to National Convention to represent W.A.A. It has not been determined who the delegates will be. Any similarity between this and a column is purely coincidental.

Sporting upset wins over Colorado and Missouri on successive Saturdays, the Nebraska Cornhuskers invade the Kansas Jayhawks in an all-important Big Seven contest at Lawrence this Saturday. The Huskers, with a 3-1 mark in league play and an overall 4-2 mark, will be highly favored over the Jayhawks, winless in seven tilts and with a conference mark of 0-4.

The Kansans opened their 1954 season under the leadership of Coach Chucá Mather, who succeeded J. V. Sikes at the end of the 1953 campaign. The rookie mentor, with a new system and a crop of fine sophomores, has looked good, but hasn't been able to get going in the late stages of the game. both zeroed the Hawks, and Oklahoma trounced the Jayhawks, 65-0. S.M.U. blasted the Kansans, 33-13, and Kansas State dropped KU, 27-0.

campaign. They received their first bad break when their starting center and captain, Bud Bixler, broke his collar bone in practice. They gained a good break when Bud Laughlin, starting fullback of the 1952 eleven, returned after a two-year hitch in the Service. He will be one of the main cogs in the KU running attack this week.

Another performer in the Jayhawk lineup that will have to be watched is Quarterback Bev Butler. The junior signal-caller took over the position from last year's starter John McFarland and has carried the brunt of a small KU offense. His passing will require much attention. John Anderson, senior from Grand Island, will be at fullback and end for Kansas.

Missing the Kansas trip will be Bob Berguin and Jack Braley. Berguin suffered an injury in the Missouri contest and Braley has been out for two weeks with a stomach disorder. Don Comstock, sophomore halfback who has shined in the CU and MU victories, has taken over the ground leadership. Senior Bob Smith will captain the Huskers this week.

What's NU In Sports?

Complicated Conference Conditions Clarified

After the fine showing the Nebraska Cornhuskers made last Saturday in downing the Missouri Tigers 25-19, the NU campus has been buzzing about Nebraska going to the Orange Bowl. There is a good possibility of this. The Huskers are right now in one of the favorite positions.

Figuratively speaking, there are three teams that are battling it out for the right to meet the Atlantic Coast Conference winner New Years Day in Miami. The three elevens are Colorado, Missouri and Nebraska.

OU Again?

It appears that Oklahoma will win the Big Seven again this year. This still means that the Sooners can't go, leaving the right of representation to the second place squad. In conference play, NU has a 3-1 mark, Missouri a 2-1 record, and Colorado an even 2-2 record. Nebraska has only Kansas and Oklahoma on their agenda. They should have little trouble beating the Jayhawks, but will have a hard time clearing the Sooner hurdle. This would leave them with a final mark of 4-2.

Tough Hurdles

The Tigers still must meet Oklahoma, Colorado and KU. The Missourians should have an easy time with the Kansas eleven, but OU and the Buffs will prove the roughest. Evident of an Oklahoma loss, the MU-CU contest, to be played in Columbia, will prove the difference. A Colorado win would eliminate the Buffs from any hope of going to the Orange Bowl, while a Colorado win would eliminate the Tigers.

4-2 Looks Good

The team that finishes the season with a 4-2 record will be the team to go to Miami. At this point, it looks like Nebraska will be one of those teams. Barring a loss to Kansas, the Huskers would be sitting atop the heap, just watching CU and the Tigers cutting each others throats. In the event of a tie, the coin will probably be used. However, another way to pick a team is by elimination. This would mean that Nebraska would receive the bid. They beat both elevens. So everybody, cross your fingers. Nebraska is on the gravy train.

Line Plunge

This trio of Nebraska first stringers have been one reason for the Husker's success so far this season. Bob Wagner, Bob Oberlin and Charley Bryant (left to right) form the center of the NU line. In last week's upset over Missouri these three players were called on time and time again to open the line up for Husker runners or to fill up the gaps that the Tigers would try to open in the NU defenses. This week the boys will have to be at their best to give the Nebraska team a 5-2 win-loss record and to remain in undisputed possession of second place in the Big Seven race.

You can win this pipe.
