Guy's, Run For The Hills; The Girls Are Shooting!

The latest brainstorm from the council is a supper-type function at the cabin with the sports board. This grew out of a compromise between a marshmallow roast and a Christmas supper.

New Members

The two new members on W.A.A. Council are: Nan Engler, Kappa Kappa Gamma, aquaettes representative; and Myrna Olson, Pi Beta Phi, orchestra representative.

House Representatives, would ya be so kind as to put your lists in alphabetical order—Don't try to confuse us more than we already are.

Competing in the finals for freshman soccer baseball champions are:—a little fanfare please—Alpha Omicron Pi and Towne Club. Who will be the winner? Only the shadow knows.

Girls who are in Individual Gym and who cannot participate in any intramural activity may earn their points by officiating.

94 High

Maybe "you can't get a man with a gun" but beware anyway because there are some really sharp riflers who are practicing up for something. Rifle Club is booming. Janet Lidstrand was high scorer in rifling with a 94.

Perhaps you're no Esther Williams yourself but you do enjoy watching good swimmers. Why not come over to the intramural swimming meet, Nov. 16, at 7:00 and cheer for your favorite mermaid.

Junior End, Sophomore Back Husker Stalwarts

By DICK WATSON Sports Staff Writer

One of the bright spots in the "look to the future" is Don Erway, six-foot, 185 pound sophomore quarterback from Lincoln. Don has been doing a good job quarterbacking the crowd-pleasing second unit through the first seven games.

Don played his high school football at Lincoln High where he played tailback on the single wing. The change to the sliding T hasn't bothered him and he likes the choice of the option play. Don also starred in basketball and baseball while in high school

Erway

Don rates his first game as a Cornhusker as one of his biggest thrills in sports. If Don has his way Husker fans are going to see a lot of him in the next three years.

"Diamond Jack"

Stabilizing the right side of the Husker line is Jack Braley, a 6'2, 185 pound end who likes his football rough. Jack, or "Diamond Jack" as he is called by his teammates, has been seeing yeoman duty on the first unit this year. He was on the varsity last year but missed playing enough to earn a letter.

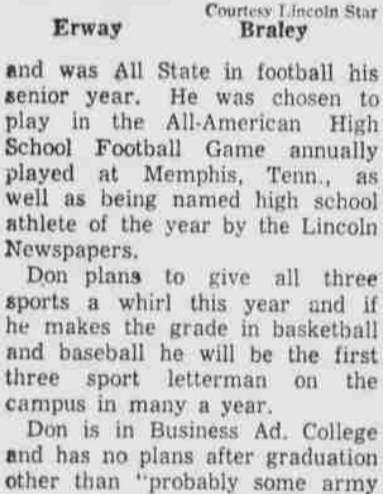

Jack played his high school football at Custer County High School in Miles City, Mont., where he also lettered in basketball and track. He earned Honorable Mention All-State Honors in football his senior year.

Jack decided to come to Nebraska after some close friends interested him in the school. He is a junior in Ag College and has no definite plans after graduation.

Jack thinks his biggest sports thrill was probably Ron Clark's touchdown run against Minnesota. "It put us ahead for a while and it gave everyone a big lift," he said. He can't pick out any one lineman as being outstanding but thinks they are all tough. Bob McNamara is the most elusive back he has faced this fall but thinks he might change his mind before the season is over.

Jack likes the plane rides the team is taking to several of the games this fall and thinks "It's the only way to travel."

About the remainder of the season Jack says, "We have surprised a few people already and we might surprise a few more."

Game Captain

Charley Bryant, senior guard from Omaha, will captain the Cornhuskers in their final home appearance of the season this Saturday. Invading the NU campus will be the dangerous

Pittsburgh Panthers, victors over Navy and West Virginia. Charley has received backing for all-American honors along with two other Huskers, namely tackle Don Glantz and fullback Bob Smith.

Jackrabbit

Ron Clark, senior halfback on the Husker squad, has been running with the force and speed of an unstoppable race car. When Ron comes charging through the line, whether on a fake or on an attempt to gain yardage, he drives with the same amount of power. In his last two games,

Ron has shown up especially well. He can always be called upon for necessary yardage.

Nebraska Prepares For Pitt; End Injuries Worry Coaches

The Nebraska Cornhuskers, fresh after a win over the Kansas Jayhawkers, have plenty to look forward to when they meet the Pittsburgh Panthers on Homecoming Day here at Nebraska this coming Saturday.

Impressive Wins

The Panthers, after having dropped their first three games to Southern California, Minnesota and Notre Dame finally came alive and won their next three games over such formidable opponents as Navy, West Virginia and Northwestern. Last week the Panthers dropped a 26-0 decision to Ohio State, but it should be remembered that Ohio State is ranked as the number two team in the nation.

A thoroughly aroused Pittsburgh Panther comes here Saturday for a renewal of an inter-sectional series with the University of Nebraska Cornhuskers.

It is Homecoming for Nebraska. Stadium tickets have been sold out for more than a week, but 3,500 bleacher seats remain for the contest which marks the nineteenth meeting between the two universities.

Although Pitt holds a heavy edge in the series with 12 victories, three defeats and three ties, practically all of the games have been battles right down to the wire.

The Cornhuskers are badly hit at the end positions. Coach Bill Glassford said the Nebraskans are in the worst shape from an injury standpoint than they have been this season.

Ends Hit

All of the hurts are centered largely in the end corps. Jack Braley is still recovering from a chest infection. LeRoy Butcherus and Dean Lux suffered sprained ankles in the Kansas game. As a result, two backfield men, Jon McWilliams and Sylvester Harris may get a duty summons at the wing positions.

McWilliams saw service against Kansas and Harris alternated last season between end and the backfield.

Bob Berguin, center on the second unit, will be back in action after sitting out the Kansas game with a leg injury.

Charles Bryant, senior guard from Omaha, will be the game captain. Bryant was banged up a bit in the Jayhawk tilt, but it appeared early in the week that he would be ready for Pittsburgh.

Nebraska must improve its passing game, according to Coach Glassford, if it hopes to get past Pittsburgh and Oklahoma.

Don Straszheim, who scouted Pitt, described the Panthers as a "big, strong team that can hurt you." The Panthers use both the split and tight "T" formations.

Buff-Tiger Tie Helps Huskers

The Nebraska Cornhuskers came closer to the Orange Bowl Saturday, pulling away from a spirited Kansas outfit, 41-20. In another Big Seven game that couldn't have ended any better for Nebraska, Missouri and Colorado fought to a 19-19 tie that eliminated both from any chance for the bowl bid.

Oklahoma took its fourth conference victory and its sixteenth consecutive win with a 40-0 romp over Iowa State. In the Big Ten, Michigan edged Illinois, 14-7; Iowa clubbed Purdue, 25-14; and Wisconsin trounced Northwestern, 34-13, for conference victories. In outside games, Michigan State ran over Washington State, 54-6; Ohio State blanked Pittsburgh, 26-0; undefeated Miami of Ohio edged Indiana, 6-0; and Minnesota romped to a 44-6 win over Oregon State.
