Raises $9839

AUF Tops '54 Goal By More Than $300

The All University Fund, in its 1954 campaign, raised $9,839. Figures were disclosed by Carl Mammel, retiring treasurer of AUF. The total exceeds the goal of $9,500 by $300.

"I am very pleased about the total and I want to thank every student who contributed to AUF this year," Phyllis Colbert, AUF retiring president said.

Solicitations were divided into divisions with separate goals. Medical College donations, which were $211, were an effort of the whole board. Jean Steffen, returning vice-president in charge of solici-

Miami Bowl Ticket Sale Policy Told

A change in the Orange Bowl ticket sale policy was announced Monday by A. J. Lewandowski, Nebraska ticket manager. Dates for public sale have been switched to conform with contractual terms which call for the return of all unsold tickets to the Orange Bowl no later than December 15, Lewandowski said. As a result the public sale will open December 4th and close at 4 p.m. December 10th. Tickets will be mailed December 12. Season ticket holders will be limited to four tickets at $6.25 each. These must be handled by mail with all orders containing checks or money orders in the proper amounts, plus a 25 cent mailing charge. In the event there are tickets remaining after the students, faculty, employees and season ticket holders' sale, these will be offered to the public in the Coliseum Ticket Office starting at 9 a.m. December 13th. Each purchaser will be permitted to four tickets at this time. Ticket sale for faculty and employees will open December 3rd and will close December 8th at 4 p.m. Faculty and employees will be limited to two tickets and students will be given receipts for their tickets which can be picked up at the Nebraska Ticket Office in Miami. This location will be designated later.

Two Waring Hats Misplaced At NU

Two iridescent pink hats were misplaced Sunday night after the Fred Waring Show. The hats, part of the minstrel act, were necessary to the performance and Waring would like to have them returned. There were no duplicate hats and unless they are found two singers will have to be taken out of the act. If anyone discovers the hats, they should return them to the Union Activities Office. No questions will be asked and the hats mailed to Waring immediately.

Vishinsky Dies

Andrei Vishinsky, deputy foreign minister for the Soviet Union, died Monday of a heart attack. The once obscure Russian lawyer had become one of Russia's foremost mouthpieces and her chief delegate to the United Nations.

Eelco Van Kleffens of the Netherlands, president of the United Nations, announced the death of the Soviet diplomat. All United Nations meetings were suspended for the day, and thus debate in the U.N. Political committee on President Eisenhower's Atoms-for-Peace Plan was postponed.

Editorial

Thanksgiving, 1954

For the greater part of its fifty-odd years of publication, The Nebraskan has used this last issue before the Thanksgiving holidays to make a last entreaty for students to be thankful rather than only relieved when Thanksgiving rolled around. These words on being thankful were written with one purpose in mind, to try to make students think on more serious things than the next term paper date, hour examinations after the rest period or the big party scheduled the evening of the first day at home.

Whether the attempts have been successful or not in the past or will be this time is a matter of question. Whether we give thanks to our parents, a god, a government or to the good green dollars that keep us in school, all of us could do well to be grateful.

For the pseudo-individualists who are strong in their belief they are what and where they are because of their own ability, let them be thankful for life itself. Though they may do great things with that life, the debt remains.

For the student who is putting himself through this University who feels a sting of bitterness toward those who are not and feels no gratitude toward the world, let him be grateful for a government which allows him to work and learn, let him be grateful to the someone who had money and established scholarships.

For the wealthy man's son or daughter who comes to school as a matter of course, let him be grateful to the someone who made sacrifices and worked to accumulate the material wealth he now enjoys. Let him be grateful for that chance of birth that brought him into the privileged class.

And for the rest of us who fall into the great gulf between these two extremes, let us be thankful that we are where we are.

May we all be thankful. The world, with all its faults, is a good place to be and we are here, literally on top of it.—T. W.

Ataturk University Turkish Enthusiasm For Improvement Told

"The great enthusiasm of the Turkish people for improving themselves," was the most outstanding impression of E. L. Lambert, dean of the Agricultural College, on his return from a six week trip to Turkey. Lambert and six other University faculty members had been sent to help organize the proposed Ataturk University.

Lambert commented that there have been many changes both politically and economically in Turkey in the past thirty years. In touring eastern Turkey, Lambert said he found the country very poor, and using very primitive methods. Eastern Turkey is mostly made up of small villages and tiny farms which raise mostly livestock.

Geography Professor To Speak

Professor Charles C. Colby, professor emeritus of the Department of Geography, University of Chicago, will be on campus Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 29 and 30. Colby will address an open meeting in the Union Faculty Lounge Monday at 3 p.m. on "Resources for the Future: Prospects for the Year 1975." A second meeting will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m. in Room 206, Geography Building, where he will speak on "Sparks of Talent," in which he will give an analysis of leading figures in the United States. Colby will also speak to the four regular sectional meetings of Geography 71 meeting at 9 a.m. Monday, 11 a.m. Monday, 8 a.m. Tuesday, and 1 p.m. Tuesday.

Colby is an authority in the field of natural resources, has served as a consultant on TVA development and worked with the Ford Foundation Project on Resources of the Future. Colby is serving currently on a committee attempting to define the role of federal and state governments in the resource field.

Colby is being sponsored by the University Convocations Committee, the University Research Council, and the Departments of Economics, Political Science, and Geography.

Three Teams Leave Lincoln For Judging

Three Nebraska judging teams will take part in judging contests during Thanksgiving Vacation this week.

The Livestock Judging Team, coached by Don Warner, will leave Thursday evening for Chicago where they will compete in the Intercollegiate Livestock Judging Contest held in conjunction with the International Livestock Exposition.

The Nebraska team will be in competition with approximately 35 teams from all parts of the United States. Some 175 individual college judges will take part in the contest.

Members of the team who will make the trip are Don Novotny, Delbert Merritt, Orval Weyers, Charles Watson, and Dwight Jundt.

Thus far this season the Nebraska team has finished 3rd in the National Western Stock Show at Denver, 1st in the National Barrow Show at Austin, Minnesota, and 7th at the American Royal Show at Kansas City.

The Nebraska Meats Judging Team, composed of Ken Pinkerton, Gary Hild and Earl Stokaker, and coached by Charles Adams, will take part in the Intercollegiate Meats Judging Contest, also held in conjunction with the International Livestock Exposition.

Thus far this season, the Meats Judging Teams has entered in only one contest, placing 11th in the Meats Judging Contest at the American Royal Stock Show in Kansas City.

The University Crops Judging Team left Tuesday for Kansas City to compete in the National Collegiate Crops Judging Contest, Wednesday, the team will leave for Chicago where they will take part in the International Collegiate Crops Judging Contest.

Chase Allred is coach of the Crops Judging Team and members include Bill Weisler, Marvin Coffey, Junior Knobel and alternate, Charles Harris.

Anthology Accepts Dawson's Poetry

A poem, written by Jon Dawson, has been accepted for publication in the Annual Anthology of College Poetry.

Dawson, a sophomore majoring in music, does creative writing as a hobby. This is the first time he has had anything published. The poem, "Thwart Not The Genius," emphasizes the belief that all people who have talent should develop it to the great extent because there are some who have no talent at all.

The Anthology is a collection of the outstanding poetry written by college students.

Anderson felt that Turkey, which has long been indifferent to the other Moslem countries, has recently been making attempts to woo them. "They would like to assume a position of leadership in the area—preferably an intellectual leadership."

The Turkish government is making many changes in order to modernize Turkey, Lambert said. By sponsoring more educational programs and by encouraging more industry in Turkey, the government hopes to correct the poor

ROTC To Go Ahead With MB Proceedings

By JULIE MARR Staff Writer

Honorary Commandant elections were declared invalid by the Student Council judiciary committee at a closed meeting Monday.

Norman Mann, president of the Cadet Officers Association, replied to the committee's decision after consulting with Col. Kievit COA advisor.

"The Student Council has invalidated the election held in the Military & Naval Science building, Nov. 11. This election was to choose the Honorary Commandant for the Military Ball, Dec. 3. As president of the COA, I have been notified that this verdict will be upheld by the University administration. But due to the lateness of the verdict, a re-election will not be feasible."

"Therefore, the Military Ball will open the Nebraska University social season as usual. Some University coed will be presented at the Ball to replace the Honorary Commandant. The procedure to be followed by the COA on the final selection of this girl is indefinite at this time."

Art Raun, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, announced the elections, sponsored by the COA, were invalid due to negligence on the part of the COA.

In a report released shortly after the decision was passed, the committee stated that this action has been taken because of the failure of the COA to comply with the following rules: 1) notify the Student Council Elections chairman two weeks in advance of the date on which the election is to be held, 2) provide persons to operate the polling place, including a faculty member, and 3) provide people to count the votes, to include a faculty member.

Mann, in replying to these charges, said that, "through negligence on my part, I failed to notify the chairman of the Elections Committee, Dan Rasdal, about the second election. I didn't notify him because I didn't know I had to. However, they were notified by a letter, dated Oct. 12, informing them of our plans for the first election which was held Oct. 26. In this letter the date Nov. 11 was mentioned for the second election."

In answer to the second charge Mann said, "ROTC cadets did operate the polls, and faculty members were present although they were not seated at the balloting tables at the time." Regarding the third charge, Mann also noted that faculty members were present most of the time while the votes were being counted.

The report by the Judiciary Committee was based on the power held by the Student Council, granted to them by their constitution, to schedule and conduct all student elections of general interest to the University and to decide on the validity of Student Council elections. On these grounds, the Honorary Commandant elections were unanimously voted invalid.

Committee members were: Art Raun, chairman; Dick Fellman, John Gourlay and Jack Rogers. During the meeting, Mann was called to testify on behalf of the COA. The Student Council Elections Committee submitted charges questioning the validity of the elections, and were called in to testify after Mann had replied to the Judiciary Committee. Members of the Elections Committee were Dan Rasdal, chairman, Andrew Hove and Andy Smith.

Lt. Col. Donald J. Kievit, associate professor of military science, commented, "No one will know until the Military Ball who has been selected as the Honorary Commandant. We may select four candidates based upon our selection. Whoever is selected, and from which group, will be kept secret until presented at the Ball."

Reduced Price For Orchids Ends Tuesday

Tuesday is the last day that orchids for the Military Ball can be purchased at a reduced price. Orchids must be ordered at the COA ticket booth in the Union.

A 50-cent increase in price will go into effect after Tuesday. Students interested in purchasing these flowers from a local florist must specify the color of ribbon when placing the order.

Small lavender orchids, normally $5, will be sold for $3 under the reduced rate. The medium or regularly large ones, which usually cost from $7 to $10, will cost $4. The large orchids will sell for $4.75 but are ordinarily $10. White orchids, ranging normally from $12 to $15 will cost $6.

Students To Attend UN Seminar

Twelve University students leave Tuesday for the national YM-YWCA United Nations Seminar in New York City. They will travel by bus.

The entire trip, lasting one week, will cost about $100. In the group will be nine Wesleyan University students and five from Hutchinson (Kan.) University.

Approximately 150 students from colleges throughout the United States will attend the seminar, whose theme is "A New Dimension in World Cooperation."

The bus will leave the Union Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. and will return on the 11:30 a.m. Nov. 30 at 10 a.m. The students will stay at the Hotel Diplomat and will visit UN headquarters. They will hear lectures by the delegates, meet at the headquarters, visit the General Assembly, interview members of the Secretariat, learn about the specialized agencies of the UN and visit the UN Mission. In addition the persons will take night seeing trips and attend a concert or show.

University students include Aletha Blum, Corliss Kruse, Margaret Hook, Russell Lang, Dick Coffee, Sherry Mangold, Carol Thompson, Nancy Timmons, Carol Laase, Joan Knudson and Lucifere Switzer. A chaperone is also planning to attend.
