

Homecoming

Suggestions Offered To Simplify Displays

A central theme for all homecoming displays was suggested in a meeting of Homecoming chairmen in the women's division as part of an attempt to cut down the elaborateness of displays.

Some of the chairmen said that the ruling prohibiting male help with displays should be removed because it has been frequently violated in the past. Others felt this was one reason behind out-sized displays.

Cutting the price limit to $50 is still being considered, although

Big Red Drive

Du Teau Says Scholarship Total Near

The Big Red athletic scholarship drive sponsored by the University of Nebraska Alumni Association has brought in a total of $36,447, slightly more than 90 per cent of the $40,000 goal, according to Elsworth DuTeau, campaign chairman.

Du Teau said that 967 persons contributed to the fund to help build a stronger Nebraska athletic scholarship program, contributing an average of $36.93 each.

Of the total amount raised, Du Teau said, "a tabulation of the figures shows that 264 Lincoln people contributed $23,400, or approximately 70 per cent of the total. Omaha, (63 people), contributed $1,215, or three per cent."

The drive, launched in August with a special issue of the Nebraska Alumnae, brought in contributions from 383 people who live outside of Nebraska. Their contributions accounted for 17 per cent of the total.

Two-hundred seventy-seven Nebraskans in the state outside of Omaha and Lincoln, Du Teau said, contributed 10 per cent of the total.

The money raised by the Big Red drive will be used for scholarships to worthy athletes who prove that they are acceptable academically as well as athletically. Each scholarship will be screened by a special faculty scholarship committee.

The drive was held to make up a deficit of funds needed to establish the new scholarship program. The Athletic Department allocated $60,000. Another $40,000 was needed Du Teau said.

RC Applications Due

Applications are now open for Red Cross Executive Board. Blanks can be picked up in the Red Cross office and are due in the mail box by 5 p.m. Jan. 13. Interviews will be held Jan. 14 at 3:15 p.m. in the Red Cross office, Union Room 308.

Present officers are president Mary Stromer, vice-president Fran Locke, secretary Natalie Katt and Treasurer Joan Knudson.

The Athletic Department is expected to be able to finance the expanded program entirely by itself next year, Du Teau said.

Those persons who have pledged but have not paid their pledges to the fund are urged to do so as soon as possible. Additional gifts received by the Alumni office will be transmitted immediately to the Athletic Department, Du Teau said.

Unique Type In U.S.

Nebraska Lab Tests Tractors For Export

One of the unique and probably least-known operations carried on at Ag College is the Nebraska Tractor Testing Laboratory.

The laboratory, started in 1919, is the only one of its type in the United States and tests made here are accepted as a world-wide standard. A number of foreign countries will not import American-made tractors unless they have been tested by the Nebraska lab.

The laboratory is governed by a state law which requires that all manufacturers must have one tractor of each new model tested here before the tractors can be sold in the state. The tractors are tested mainly for maximum horsepower and fuel consumption. One tractor can be tested in about 45 engine-running hours, or approximately one week.

The tractors are tested on a prepared dirt track. Attempts are being made to build a new concrete track which would require less maintenance.

The official testing season runs from March 1 to December 1. Last year, a total of 16 new models were tested. According to H. A. Lentler, assistant engineer, this number is about average for each year. "Since its beginning, a total of 531 tractors have passed through the laboratory. Charles Warner, lieutenant governor of Nebraska, was one of the original sponsors of the lab.

English, French Models

The lab has tested an English and French tractor and also tests most of the models manufactured in Canada. The French tractor was the first and only European model to be tested here.

With the exception of two English industrial engines which were tested, the lab makes tests only on tractors. Tests have been made on a one-wheel, one-half horsepower garden tractor up to the larger diesel caterpillars. Each year, Professor C. W. Smith, chairman of the tractor testing board, tests 20 farm tractors in a project to determine amount of wear after farm use.

The lab, which is self-supporting, is under the supervision of the Department of Ag Engineering. L. F. Larson is the chief engineer in charge.

Approximately 125 visitors from foreign countries visited the lab last year. A number of foreigners in engineering and other fields visited the lab each year. Last year, Professor Smith went to Italy where he assisted in organizing a tractor testing laboratory there.

Summary Sheet

Each year, the lab puts out a summary sheet of results of tests made on all models of tractors. A report is also issued on each new model as it is tested. Reports are used by farmers, dealers and manufacturers in farming areas throughout the United States.

In past years, many College of Engineering students have made visits to the lab as part of the training. According to Lentler, the lab is always open to visitors who want to know more about the tests carried on here.

NU Maytag Scholarship Established

A $200 scholarship, to be known as the "Maytag Scholarship in Business Administration," has been established at the University by the Maytag Co., Foundation, Inc., of Newton, Ia., Dr. R. M. Bourne, chairman of the scholarship committee of the College of Business Administration, said Tuesday.

The scholarship will be awarded to a male student for his senior year of study. The recipient must rank in the upper quarter of his class scholastically and be of good character, outstanding technical and administrative potential and need financial assistance.

The University is one of five schools in the nation to receive such a scholarship in business administration from the Maytag Foundation, Bourne said.

Art, Fiction Competition

Cash Prizes Offered

Contests in art and fiction sponsored by Mademoiselle Magazine, are open to undergraduate women under 28 years of age.

Any medium of art work is acceptable in the contest. The two winners will illustrate two winning college fiction contest stories and receive $500 each for publication of their work.

Honorable mention will be given to five other artists and photostatic copies of their work will be kept on file for possible future assignments. A maximum of five samples may be submitted.

The samples may consist of work previously done or work specifically done for the contest. Samples done specifically for the contest should be illustrations interpreting a piece of fiction published in Mademoiselle during the past year.

Original work may be submitted if it is no larger than 8 1/2 by 11 inches. Photographs of the work also may be submitted instead of the original. All work submitted should be unsubmitted, unmounted and unframed. Entries must be postmarked no later than midnight March 1.

Entries in the college fiction contest should run from 2,500 to 6,000 words. The two winners of this contest will receive $500 each and publication of their stories in the magazine. Runners-up will receive honorable mention and the magazine will reserve the right to buy their work at regular rates.

Winners of the fiction contest will be announced in the August issue along with the names of the art contest winners.

More than one story may be entered by a contestant. Stories that have appeared in undergraduate publications are acceptable if they have not been published elsewhere. Regular size typing paper should be used. Entries must be typewritten and double-spaced on only one side of the page. All entries must be postmarked no later than midnight, March 1.

Work in both contests must be clearly marked with the contestant's name, age, home address, school address and school year. An 8 1/2 by 11 inch manila envelope, self-addressed and stamped, should be enclosed with all entries. The magazine will not guarantee to send back any entries received unless they are accompanied by a return envelope.

Judges in the art contest are Bradbury Thompson, art director of Mademoiselle; Thomas E. Hess, executive editor of Art News, and Mildred Constantine, associate curator of graphic design at the Museum of Modern Art.

Art entries should be sent to The Art Contest, Mademoiselle, 575 Madison Ave. New York 22, N.Y. Address for the fiction contest is: College Fiction Contest, Mademoiselle, 575 Madison Ave., New York 22, N.Y.
