Registration Blues

Confident Students Become Dismayed

By JUDY BOST Staff Writer

Neither snow, sleet nor coffee kept University students from registering for next semester Monday. Elite studiers with 60 hours and upwards rushed out into a snowstorm that seemed to reach blizzard proportions to register for classes that would not be filled Wednesday afternoon.

"They'll never enforce that two-fifths ruling for the spring semester," optimistic students said as they confidently toyed with work sheets listing all morning classes: Two hours later, one of the optimists emerged from the lions' den with a 3 p.m. English class and a 1 to 3 p.m. Friday lab.

He had a dazed expression on his face and kept muttering something about the fact that spring was coming.

Class Card Omitted A senior girl confidently pulled 21 hours of straight academics which she needed to graduate. She announced that she was turning over a new leaf and would study all semester, except for the interruption of her 21st birthday.

More confusion than usual in the entangled registration procedures resulted when no class cards were made for Classics 75, section 2. No one really wanted to take it, anyway.

"Bear Down" People sat all over the room, chewing pencils and gnashing teeth over little yellow sheets that said in inch-high letters: "BEAR DOWN: YOU ARE WRITING FIVE COPIES AT ONCE."

Registration Blues

That same phrase has been on the sheets since the beginning of carbon paper, according to University historians. Without the advent of this marvelous invention, the little yellow sheets would read: "DON'T BOTHER. WRITE FIVE SEPARATE COPIES." There is no end to red tape, state haggard student-philosophers.

Conspirators gathered in small groups trying to beat the system. The main topic concerned courses that were reputed to yield the maximum grade with the minimum effort.

Excuses Sentinels at the doors were besieged with excuses for early registration. Two girls were apparently flying the coop, because they had to catch a plane at 3 p.m. The mortality rate among relatives and dear friends takes a marked upswing during registration.

When one student filled out his class schedule, he found that he seemed to be ending with quite a lengthy list. He remarked that his worksheet read more and more like the schedule book every minute.

There is one bright spot on the horizon. In a matter of days students will be privileged to witness the epitomy of and red tape.

Every person who expects to attend the University next semester will be required to fill out seven cards with information comparable to an autobiography on each one.

The most despicable feature about this interesting procedure is that the cards will be filled without even the benefit of carbon paper.

ROTC Lab

Changes in Army ROTC lab classrooms for Thursday have been announced by Capt. Robert S. Law, public information officer.

The artillery will meet in Pershing Armory; Engineers, Room 20, Morrill Hall basement; Infantry, Room B-5 Military and Naval Science Building; Military Police, Room 106 Military and Naval Science Building, and Ordnance, Room 206 Military and Naval Science Building.

Cadets who regularly meet at 3 p.m., 4 p.m. or 5 p.m. should report to the rooms above at their regular lab time next semester.

Biz Ad Group Initiates 15 New Members
