Four More Suspensions Made Public

The number of University students suspended since Tuesday noon as a result of last week's riot increased to 19 with the additions of four more names to the list by University officials.

Suspended recently are William Doleman, graduate student; Joel Samuelson, freshman in Ag College; Monty Thompson, sophomore in Teachers, and Carl Krumel, freshman in Engineering.

Doleman, Samuelson, Thompson and Don Fritson were arraigned Tuesday in County Court for disturbing the peace and were fined.

Pound Lecture

Curtis Bok Scheduled To Speak

Curtis Bok, author of a legal opinion on censorship of books, will deliver the fourth annual Roscoe Pound Lecture at 8 p.m. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in Love Library Auditorium.

Bok, who is president judge of the Court of Common Pleas No. 6 in Philadelphia, will speak on the general theme of "Problems in Criminal Law."

Judge Bok handed down a legal decision in March, 1949, protecting nine American novels against charges of obscenity.

Among the books were some written by William Faulkner, James T. Farrell and Erskine Caldwell. Bok's opinion clearing them of charges leveled against them was, in effect, sustained later by the Philadelphia Supreme Court.

Science Group Plans Session

Highlight of the 65th annual session of the Nebraska Academy of Sciences Friday will be an address by Dr. George O. Gey, authority on cancer research.

Dr. Gey will speak on tissue and cell culture at 11 a.m. Friday in Love Library Auditorium. Sectional meetings of the Academy will be held on the campus throughout the day. Collegiate division sessions will be held at Nebraska Wesleyan University.

The Academy banquet will be held at 6 p.m. Friday at the Union.

Scholarship, Leadership

Women's Houses Name Ivy Day Chain Members

Ivy Day participants in the daisy and ivy chains have been selected by women's organized houses.

Eight Displays

Engineering Week To Begin With Open House Thursday

Engineers Week will open Thursday with an open house from 2 p.m. to 10 p.m. on the campus. The open house is designed to acquaint the public with the phases of student engineering work with display from eight engineering departments.

"Engineering — It's all around you" is the theme for the demonstration, exhibits, and movies which are all part of the program.

Howell Theater

Lab Group To Present 'Hotel Universe' Friday

A laboratory theater production of "Hotel Universe," a three-act play by Philip Barry, will be presented Friday at 8:30 p.m. in Howell Theater. There is no admission charge.

The play revolves around six outwardly successful Americans, traveling on the continent. The six meet at the villa of Ann Field and her father, Stephen in Southern France.

Each of the six have made attempts to solve the riddle of existence and, in doing so, have lost all sense of security. The normal adjustment of the Field family has, made each of the six more dissatisfied with his own way of life.

The play reaches a climax as Stephen Field forces each into a self-revelation and gives them a renewed hope and courage to accept life for what it offers.

The cast includes: Jack Parris as Pat Farley; Ted Nittler, Tom Ames; Josephine Margolin, Hope Ames; Joyce Fangman, Lily Malone; Gloria Kollmorgan, Alice Kendall; Luanne Raun, Ann Field; Bill Wagner, Norman Rose; Eugene Peynux, Stephen Field, and Gene Densmore, Felix.

On the production staff are: Beverly Englebrecht, production manager; Morrell Clute, manager, and Jean Weddie, light department; Jim Copp, manager of the sound department.

Jack Parris is manager of the stage crew and his co-workers include Ted Nittler, Josephine Margolin, Joyce Fangman, Gloria Kollmorgan, Luanne Raun, Bill Wagner, Gene Densmore and Eugene Peyroux.

The play is directed by Dallas Williams, professor of speech and dramatic arts, and Max Whittaker, assistant professor of speech and dramatic arts.

Union Plans Party For 17th Birthday

"Good Old Days" is the theme of the Union's 17th birthday party to be held all day May 6.

Featured events will include cut food prices in the Crib, free jukebox music, singing waiters, can-can girls, penny candy, old time movies and a concession stand.

A street dance will be held from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. in front of the Union. Music will be provided by Cliff Dudley and his orchestra.

Presentation of Nebraska's "Most Eligible Bachelors" highlighted Kosmet Klub's opening presentation of "Bloomer Girl," the annual Spring Show, Thursday evening at the Nebraska Theater.

Revealed as the six "bachelors," were Jack Skalla, junior in Business Administration and member of Delta Tau Delta; Herb Meissner, senior in Business Administration and member of Phi Delta Theta; Andy Smith, junior in Arts and Sciences and member of Beta Theta Pi.

Bob MacDonald, sophomore in Teachers College and member of Delta Upsilon; Tom Olson, sophomore in Business Administration and member of Alpha Tau Omega, and Joe Poynter, junior in Arts and Sciences and member of Phi Gamma Delta.

All six of the men were elected March 16 in the All-University Women's Election. At the Friday and Saturday performances of "Bloomer Girl" the men will again be presented.

Tickets for the Friday and Saturday performances are still available although Kosmet Klub leaders say seats for both performances are nearly all sold.

Klub workers will be selling seats for each performance until 2 p.m. of the day of the show. Tickets will be sold both at the booth on the main floor of the Union and at the box office of the Nebraska Theater.

Kosmet Klub Production Splashes In Technicolor

By BRUCE BRUGMANN

The annual Kosmet Klub spring show, sprinkled with a dainty assortment of bloomers, hoop skirts and bustles, spilled forth in the theatrical technicolor Thursday evening in the Nebraskan Theater.

Shrugging off typical opening night kinks and jitters in the first two scenes, "Bloomer Girl" moved slowly at first but, after a fine finish of the song "The Eagle and Me" by Forrest Stith, the audience responded well and the cast caught the spirit of the performance.

Cecilia TeSelle, playing the feminine lead of the wayward daughter Evalina Applegate, gave one of the show's outstanding performances. Though her acting and movements were a bit unpolished, she sang well and ably characterized the spirited daughter of crusty old Horatio "Godspeed" Applegate.

Marv Stromer, busily blustering about "guiding Cupid's darts" and the "brave captains of industry," played excellently the emotional trebles of the hoopskirt tycoon.

Monty McMahon as Jefferson Lightfoot Calhoun, Miss Evalina's imported suitor, looked the part of a southern gentleman but did not effectively project himself to the audience, although his singing gained strength as the play progressed.

Applegate's wife, portrayed by Ellie Guiliatt, typified the staunch wife of the Civil War days who was loyal to her husband. An important, though minor role, it was slightly overplayed.

Daisy, the pert maid of the hoopskirt clan who "doesn't want to be a liberal if she can't give anything away," provides many delightful interludes. Probably the most engaging character to the audience, the bouncy young miss does a fine job with "T" Morra but her subsequent dance routine is too long to be effective. With main floor of the Union and at the box office of the Nebraska Theater.

A hit Broadway musical, "Bloomer Girl" portrays the problems a father has trying to get his last unmarried daughter attached to an eligible bachelor. Complicating the father's job is the influence of woman suffrage agitators.

a saucy cleverness and spontaneity, she livens many scenes.

The crotchety Dolly Bloomer, the vigorous leader of the Bloomer movement, is well-played by Kathleen O'Donnell who aims a continuous stream of sarcasm out of the corner of her mouth at her multitude of antagonists.

The sheriff, a brusque chap with a charming bluster, was an important minor character and portrayed well by Skip Weatherford. Forrest Stith and Cecil Hatcher, two run-away slaves, combined to provoke the biggest audience response of the evening in singing "I Got a Song."

The dancing routines were quite good, though several of the dancers looked as if they were tense and their movements somewhat strained.

The Outside World

Chou Remains Silent

By DICK RALSTON

Staff Writer

Attempts of Prime Minister Nehru of India to promote an informal discussion of the Formosan crisis after hours at the Afro-Asian conference seem to have failed. Nehru arranged a private dinner meeting with Gen. Carlos Romulo of the Philippines, one of the United States' strongest supporters in Asia, and Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai Wednesday night. However, Romulo reported after the meeting that Premier Chou had avoided any discussion.

Rumored reports are that this was India's last attempt to mediate the crisis and that Ceylon was ready to propose a neutralization of Formosa under Asian-African members of the United Nations.

During the sessions Thursday, members of the Political Committee heard Prime Minister Sir John Kotelawala of Ceylon denounce "Communist colonialism" and demand that the conference declare itself against all forms of colonialism, including Communist domination of satellite states in central and eastern Europe. Premier Chou, obviously disturbed, immediately demanded time to reply on Friday.

Postal Pay Raise Passed

President Eisenhower suffered a rebuff at the hands of the House of Representatives when a bill was passed Wednesday which would grant an 8.2 per cent pay raise to some 500 thousand postal workers.

Eisenhower had earlier called for a 7.6 per cent pay raise for the workers and is expected to veto any raise above that figure. The House bill now goes to the Senate, which has already passed a 10 per cent increase, and from there to a conference to compromise differences between the two bills.
