

Wednesday Election Nullified

Council Selects Hove President For '55-56

Andy Hove, junior in the College of Business Administration, was unanimously elected president of the Student Council in a special meeting called late Thursday evening.

Hove's name was submitted in nomination for unanimous election by Ivan Althouse, junior in the College of Agriculture. In the regular election meeting of the Council Wednesday afternoon, Althouse was elected president.

Thursday it became known that Althouse's scholastic average was below that which the Student Council constitution calls for as a minimum for members and officers. The special meeting was called to hold a re-election.

Elected to serve as the other officers for the 1955-56 school year were Sharon Mangold, first vice president; Glenna Berry, second vice president; Gail Katskee, holdover member, and Bernie Wishnow, holdover member.

Miss Berry was elected to fill the vacancy in the holdover members on the Council created by the forced absence of Althouse. In the original election, Althouse was named president, Hove vice president, Miss Mangold second vice president and Miss Katskee and Wishnow were holdover members.

Hove

According to Jack Rogers, retiring Council president, an "unfortunate mistake was made in overlooking the eligibility requirement, but the end result has produced excellent leadership for the Student Council for next year."

At the Wednesday election, the entire membership of the Council originally answered roll call. Thursday evening, at the special election meeting, a quorum was present. Council rules provide that 60 per cent of the membership must be present. With this minimum, a simple majority is sufficient for election.

Hove, new president, is vice-president of the Innocents Society; assistant business manager of The Nebraskan, member of Corn Cobs, Kosmet Klub, Alpha Kappa Psi and Delta Tau Delta.

Miss Mangold, chosen to head the Judiciary Committee, is secretary of Mortar Board, president of YWCA, former president of NUCWA, member of the debate team, Alpha Lambda Delta, and Gamma Phi Beta.

Miss Berry is vice president of Phi Sigma Iota and member of Phi Beta Phi.

Miss Katskee is president of Mortar Board, vice president of AUF, past secretary of Student Council, former treasurer of city campus YWCA, member of University Orchestra, Alpha Lambda Delta, Alpha Epsilon Rho and Sigma Delta Tau.

Wishnow is a sophomore in the College of Law, member of Phi Delta Phi and Sigma Alpha Mu.

Earl Barnette, junior in engineering, assumed command of the University's Air Force ROTC unit Thursday at the annual change-of-command.

James Hewitt, junior law student, will serve as deputy wing commander. Both new officers have the rank of cadet lieutenant colonel. Barnette succeeds former wing commander Hans Mathiesen.

Other new cadet officers are:

Cadet Majors Wallis Hammond, wing personnel; Charles Tomsen, wing operations; James Vanek, wing material; Jack Moore, wing inspector; Leon Kroenke, wing intelligence; Timothy Hamilton, group commander; Roger Sack, group commander.

Doleman Ousted

Administration Action Reviewed By Chancellor

At the request of The Nebraskan, Chancellor Hardin agreed to release a prepared statement covering many of the questions that arose as an aftermath of the recent riot.

Prior to the time the following statement was drawn up, a group of questions calling for detailed answers was submitted. This statement is meant to clarify the entire area of administrative action taken as a result of the riot.

Since original action was taken, in which 19 students were dismissed from school, the Board of Regents has heard appeals from many expelled students and their families.

Among the 19 cases, two have seemed especially confused. At the present time, William Doleman, originally dismissed, then reinstated, is suspended. Clarence Swanson, who was on probation at the time of the riot, has been placed on a more severe type of probation and has been reinstated.

Following is the statement as prepared by the Chancellor: The Nebraskan has informed me that many students fail to understand the University Administration's line of thought on the following points involved in handling of the April 14 riot:

1. The measurement used to determine whether a student should or should not be suspended.

2. The difference between cause for discipline by the University and cause for a fine in court.

3. The reasons for removal of suspension in the case of William Doleman, a graduate student from Fairbury.

The principal measurement employed to divide "suspension" cases from others was the answer to this question: "Did this student, during the riot, make improper entry into living-quarter areas reserved for women-students?" If the answer was "yes," suspension was imposed.

As to point No. 2, the University Board of Regents has the authority under Nebraska law to make rules and regulations to govern conduct at the University. Proof of an infraction of University rules or regulations to the satisfaction of University authorities is sufficient to warrant disciplinary action by the University.

A court, of course, is guided by the provisions of statutes. Since state statutes and University regulations are two different things, it is possible that a student may be disciplined by the University without involvement in court, or that a student may be fined in court without also being subject to University discipline.

The case of William Doleman has caused us both trouble and embarrassment. When originally questioned, Doleman admitted participation in the April 14 rioting and was ordered suspended. Later he returned to the Office of the Dean of Student Affairs and said that his participation amounted only to being present in the lobby of the women's residence halls.

In the interest of fairness and in the absence of absolute proof that Doleman was in living quarters of women students during the riot, the Dean reinstated Doleman pending further investigation. This week, the Dean's office obtained new evidence which satisfies it that Doleman was, as a matter of fact, in living-quarter areas during the riot. Consequently, he is now suspended.

The request made to me came prior to the meeting of our Board of Regents on Tuesday. By now, of course, you all know that the Board authorized Dean Colbert to reinstate suspended students on a probationary basis and with my approval but not before next September. This means that the way is clear for an adjustment in penalties in cases which may merit review.

There is another aspect of the disciplinary developments which, without explanation, you might find confusing. It concerns the case of Clarence Swanson of McCook. Swanson was on conduct probation when the riot occurred. Though there was no evidence that Mr. Swanson had entered living quarters of women students during the riot, his conduct during that evening was such that Dean Colbert and his associates determined that some disciplinary action was required. Since Swanson was already on conduct probation, the Dean's Office suspended him for the balance of the semester as penalty for violation of his previous conduct probation.

When Swanson expressed a desire to appeal from that decision, the Dean ruled that the case should be heard by the Faculty Committee on Student Conduct, rather than by the Board of Regents. His ruling was based on the point that the suspension penalty imposed upon Swanson resulted in the main from the fact he was previously on conduct probation rather than from actual participation in the riot. That explains why Swanson's case was heard by a Faculty Committee rather than the Board of Regents which heard other appeals evolving from riot cases.

The Faculty Committee recommended a reduction in Swanson's penalty. Dean Colbert, as a result, has reinstated Swanson, but the terms of his probation are now more stringent than in the original instance and he is denied residence in organized housing under University control.

I sincerely hope that these explanations will clear up any doubts which may be existing in the minds of the student body. It is for that purpose that I agreed to supply this statement.

The Faculty Senate eased eligibility requirements for participation in extra-curricular activities at Tuesday's meeting.

Students will be eligible if they pass 16 hours of regularly scheduled classes for two semesters which, in effect, includes summer school. To make the 24 hours required for participation, students may pass 6 hours of correspondence courses each year under the new regulation.

Previously, students had been required to pass 24 hours of regularly scheduled classes each semester to participate in extra-curricular activities.

Charles Miller, chairman of the Senate Inter-collegiate athletics committee, introduced the motion which was passed after a voice vote. Other members of the committee are Dean A. Worcester and Will Foxwell. Athletic Director Bill Orwig, and Earl Fullbrook are ex-officio members.

Robert Morgan, assistant professor of political science, proposed an amendment to the main motion that would exclude hours accumulated in correspondence courses in subjects offered in resident instruction at the University for use in making up eligibility requirements.

The amendment was voted down, after a division of the house had been taken.

Morgan said he felt that the issue of eligibility and the shortening of exam week were related in that both dealt with University standards of students receiving a liberal education.

Many faculty members stated that both rulings constitute a lowering of University educational standards. It is evidence of a trend toward standardization of education, they said.

Under the new ruling, a student could have only 96 hours of actual class work toward the 125 hours required for graduation at the end of four years, the normal college course.

Miller, professor of business organization, stated that other Big 7 schools had such provisions insuring the eligibility of athletes.

One athlete at Kansas State was still eligible for athletics despite the fact that he had taken extension work at Nebraska, Miller said.

Approximately 196 faculty members attended the senate meeting Tuesday, the largest number to attend any meeting this year, according to faculty sources.

The proposal was brought before the Committee of Student Affairs and was advanced to the Senate floor by a vote of nine to eight. The chairman of the meeting broke an eight to eight tie in order to advance the measure before the Senate. Announcement was made of the faculty committee's vote before the Senate.

Under normal conditions, it is difficult to get a quorum of 50 to attend Faculty Senate meetings, faculty members said.

The group was largely made up of representatives from departments in agriculture, engineering, home economics, the Extension Division and Teachers College, according to faculty sources.

The Senate also passed a ruling dealing with the eligibility of students on conduct probation.

Such students may participate in extra-curricular activities which are required for credit in a course only. Such events would include chorus presentations and plays.

New Election In Teachers Set By SC

Between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. Monday, there will be a runoff election in Love Library between Rita Jelinek and Sally Laase for Teachers College representative to the Student Council.

In the regular elections last Monday, Miss Jelinek and Miss Laase tied for third place in the Teachers College balloting. Each received 98 votes. The Council Judiciary Committee decided Tuesday to reschedule the election.

Miss Jelinek, a sophomore with a 6.548 cumulative average, is social chairman of the Residence Halls for Women and a member of the Red Cross Board, All-University Fund, Builders and PI Beta Phi.

Miss Laase, a freshman with a 5.222 average, is a Cornhusker section head and a member of Aquanettes, Women's Athletic Association, YWCA and Alpha Xi Delta.

The Student Council's constitution states that at least one man and one woman are to be elected to serve from Teachers College. Kenneth Vosika and Vernon Hall were elected last Monday. Vosika received 234 votes and Hall received 191.

There is no precedent which applies to the question of how to resolve the tie vote, the Judiciary Committee said. Replacement members may, under certain conditions, however, be selected by the Council. This occurred last year when a new Law College representative was chosen.

Sharon Mangold, Council member, said Thursday that Teachers College faculty members will be asked to announce the runoff election in classes Monday.

Members of the Council Elections Committee, which will handle the election, are Chairman Dan Rasdal, Andy Smith, Skip Hove, Glenna Berry, Marx Petersen and Bill Hatcher.

September Readmission Date Set

The Board of Regents, after Tuesday hearings of appeals of nine students suspended in connection with the patty riot April 14, issued the following resolution:

"Resolved, that the action taken by the Dean of Student Affairs in connection with the suspension of students involved in the riot of April 14, 1955, on the University campus in Lincoln be in all respects affirmed, provided the Dean of Student Affairs in his discretion may upon showing satisfactory to him and approved by the Chancellor re-instate any student so suspended upon a probationary status under such conditions as he shall determine advisable but not prior to September 1, 1955."

The resolution was unanimously adopted.

Before the hearings, Board President J. Leroy Welsh read a statement saying that credits of suspended students wishing to transfer to another school will not be withheld and that along with the credit transfer will go a statement that the student "did not leave the University in good standing."
