

Loomis Hall Leads Houses

Chi Omega, Farmhouse First

Loomis Hall topped organized house averages last semester with a 6.969. Chi Omega and Farmhouse led the sorority and fraternity scholastic averages. All three houses ranked first during first semester, 1954.

Women students at the University of Nebraska have a slight scholastic edge over the men for the second semester of the 1954-55 school year, reports from the office of Registration and Records disclosed.

The women's average is 6.152. This is equivalent to slightly under 81. The men's average is 5.468, or about 77.

The overall average for the University is 5.664, or about 78. The sorority average is 6.108, slightly over 80, and the fraternity is 5.489, or about 77.

Women's Tea
The annual tea for women students will be held in the main lounge of the Union Friday, from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m.
At this traditional social event, freshmen and new women students are special guests, Miss Marjorie Johnson, associate dean for women, said.

Enrollment Up 695 Over 1954

At the beginning of school Monday, enrollment at the University totaled 6,531 students, compared with 5,836 at the same time last year, Dr. Floyd Hoover, director of registration and records, reported.

Final date for registration is Oct. 1. Dr. Hoover estimates that the final tally will show 7,500 students enrolled. This compares with 7,197 last year.

The enrollment figures to date show the following breakdown: regular students, 6,263; graduates, 272; Teachers College advanced professional degree candidates, 58.

Dr. Hoover said the figures do not include enrollment at the College of Medicine and School of Nursing at Omaha, which will add approximately 500 to the total.

Dr. Wesley Poe, director of Junior Division and Counseling Service, said 1,920 new students registered compared with 1,710 last year at this time. He estimated that the 1955 total will reach 2,000 compared with last year's figure of 1,788.

New Service Library To Open Sundays

Love Library will be open to students and faculty Sundays from 2 to 9:30 p.m. starting with the fall semester, Bernard Kreissman, director of library publicity, announced recently.

An increase in the Library's budget has made this additional library service possible, Kreissman said. It will cost approximately $8,000 a year to keep the library open Sundays, he added.

Keeping Love Library open Sundays was one of Chancellor Hardin's main points before the legislature in asking for an increased budget, Kreissman said. It is through the combined efforts of students, faculty members and the library that the Sunday opening of the Library was finally accomplished, he said.

Sunday library hours are the second major service to be offered students, since the browsing room was opened last spring on the second floor off the Humanities Reading Room.

The library has also opened a listening room and a record collection on the third floor, Kreissman said. This is another addition to such services as the free study lounge on the first floor, the bibliography center, seminar rooms and facilities for graduate students, he said.

The University library is one of the few large college libraries which did not offer facilities to students and faculty on Sundays, Kreissman said. "It is something we have wanted for years."

Hula-Hula Greeters Swarm Visitors

By JERRY BROWNFIELD Staff Writer

With sirens screaming, a caravan of nearly 50 cars laden with howling students left the Union Thursday on a parade to greet the Hawaiian football team on their arrival at the Municipal Airport.

Officer Al Delaney cleared traffic for the cars carrying Cobs, Tassels, a band and other assorted welcome. The parade, organized by Gene Christensen, University Yell King, left the Union at 1:15 p.m.

The students converged on the airport about 1:30 p.m. and emptied all of the soft drink machines in a matter of minutes. The terminal was busier than it had been in several months.

The plane, scheduled to arrive at 2:15, was right on time. The Hawaiians stepped off the plane into the mid of Hula girls and Hawaiian music. The gridders were presented with large ears of field corn with red N's attached. The team was served Royal Hawaiian Fruit ice cream in the airport lobby.

"This welcome was to show, in a small way, our appreciation for the wonderful time given our team in Hawaii last year. We hope that these boys will feel as much at home as our team did over there," Christensen said.

Frosh To Wear 1959 Beansies

In keeping with the college tradition, freshmen will be wearing beansies on the campus this fall.

Beansies are on sale on the second floor of the administration building in the student activities office. The seventy-five cent cost is the main source of revenue for Innocents Home and helps defray costs of Homecoming and Ivy Day festivities.

Facing Unexpected Defeat

Expressions of hope, anxiety and disgust play across the faces of Cornhusker student rooters as they see the disastrous opening of the 1955 football season. 25,000 fans, including 1800 new students crowded Memorial Stadium to see the University drop a totally unexpected decision to the gritty University of Hawaii Saturday. The football scene was not a pleasant spectacle to these students as the Cornhuskers greeted the new year with a defeat.

NU Welcomes Students

Chancellor's Message

No doubt you have heard and read many definitions of a university. Permit me to add one of what a university is not. It is not a place, or an effort, or much of anything at all without students. I know. I was on the campus during most of August and the first few days of September.

But you are here now and once again we have the University of Nebraska. I know that as students you want this to be a great year, rich in accomplishment and progress, and I am sure that it will be.

Your advancement and success are among the prime objectives of the University of Nebraska. Whether you are returning to resume your studies, or whether you are enrolled for the first time, we, the members of the University staff and faculties extend our welcome and best wishes to you.

Cornhusker 1956 Annual Staff Plans Larger Book

The 1956 Cornhusker, the Golden Anniversary Cornhusker, will be the largest and most expensive yearbook ever published at the University, Mike Shugrue, Cornhusker business manager, announced.

Scheduled to contain nearly 500 pages, the 1956 Cornhusker will cost an estimated $30,000 and approximately 50,000 man-hours to produce, Shugrue said. "We are aiming for clarity and complete coverage with the accent on the student scene," he said.

John Gourlay, editor of the 1955 yearbook, said that several sections in the book such as student scenes, the men's dorm and the religious houses will be expanded due to further student interest and participation in these areas.

The Cornhusker staff hopes to print nearly 3000 books for circulation next year, Shugrue said. "It should be the largest circulation in Cornhusker history," he added. 1956 Cornhuskers went on sale Tuesday, Sept. 12, in a "concentrated fall sales campaign," Shugrue said. Cobs and Tassels sold several hundred books in the first week, he said.

Shugrue also promised something "extra special" in the way of a cover for the 1956 book. Last year's Cornhusker was 464 pages, one of the largest to date.

Gourlay is this year's editor, Shugrue is the business manager and Carole Utterscher is the associate editor.

History Staff Cut Ten Staff Members Leave University

Returning students will find many faculty members absent this fall following action by the Board of Regents. Some will be returning next year, others have accepted positions at other schools.

The history department was probably hardest hit by members leaving. Dr. A. T. Anderson has gone to Turkey where he will be Arts and Science adviser and professor on the Nebraska advisory team to aid Turkey in establishing Atatürk University.

E. N. Anderson, professor of history, has accepted a position in the history department of University of California.

Another professor of history, John R. Aiden, has accepted a position at Duke University, as professor of history.

Among the leaves of absence approved by the Board of Regents during the summer are the following:

Clifford S. Hamilton, professor of chemistry, for one semester. He plans a trip to Europe, primarily to attend International Congress of Chemistry at Zurich, Switzerland.

Dr. O. K. Bouwama, professor of philosophy, for one year to accept a Frank H. Woods Fellowship. During the one year leave, Dr. Bouwama will use the fellowship for the first semester doing research in England on contemporary British thought. In March he will go to the University of Washington, where he will be a visiting professor the second semester.

Ernest J. Burgi, instructor in speech, for one year. Burgi plans to do graduate work at the University of Pittsburgh.

C. John Toich, instructor in speech, for one year to do graduate work at Ohio State University.

Another resignation which was approved over the summer was that of Dr. Nathan B. Blumberg, assistant professor of journalism.

Outside World Peron's Reign Ends

The threat of a rebel naval bombardment of the capital city, Buenos Aires, has ended the nine year Argentine dictatorship of Juan Peron. Peron was reported by the rebel radio to have sought asylum in the Paraguayan Embassy, four days after the civil war in Argentina started.

At the time that Peron's government announced he would resign, a fleet of rebel ships stood outside Buenos Aires, prepared for battle. Gen. Franklin Lucero, leader of the Argentine Loyalist Forces, appointed a board of officers to negotiate the cease fire on board of one of the rebel ships.

Hurricane Ione Heads East

Hurricane Ione, with winds over 100 m.p.h. struck Virginia and North Carolina on her way to Washington D.C. and New York.

Ione, estimated to hit Washington about midnight Monday, left residents of states along the Atlantic Coast with flooded streets and homes and ruined crops. States hit by Hurricane Diane, a month ago, have been warned to expect more rain and high winds as Ione roars toward New York.

Benson Challenged

Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont) has added to the increasing Democratic criticism of Secretary of Agriculture Benson's farm program.

Mansfield, in an interview Monday, challenged Benson to reveal his "very specific" farm proposals. Benson had announced Sunday that new agriculture ideas were in the discussion stage and would be submitted early next year.

"Why does Benson wait until January?" Mansfield asked rhetorically. "Is he waiting for providence to come to his rescue?"

Mansfield referred to Benson as the "biggest single asset the Democrats have for next year's election."

Skidding farm prices have been aggravated by drought in the Central states, and have been increasingly used as political fodder by the Democrats.

Restricted Areas Traffic Regulations Announced For Year

Traffic regulations which will be effective for the school year 1955-56 have been released by Sergeant Furrow of the University Police Department.

Boundaries of restricted areas include Tenth Street east to Seventeenth and R Street north to Aveny Avenue on the city campus; Thirty-third Street east on the Agriculture Campus.

Parking permits must be secured by all employees or students wishing to park on the University City Campus or Agriculture Campus. Applications are available on the City Campus at Police Headquarters, Room 102, Temporary L.; on the Agriculture Campus at Room 202, Agriculture Hall.

Student permits are issued to those whose Lincoln residence is eight blocks or more from the campus. Residents of Selleck Quadrangle must secure permits to park in the lot east of Seventeenth Street at North Side Avenue and Campus; residents of the Women's student areas on Agriculture Residence Halls and the student area on Agriculture Campus; residents of fraternities, sororities and other students may secure permits for the lot east of Seventeenth Street at North Side Avenue.

General traffic regulations to be enforced by the University police Department include:

1. No cars may be parked on the campus without a permit.
2. Cars may not be parked in areas not entitled by the permit.
3. No cars shall be parked on red lines, on green lines, in any service drive, in any space marked "No Parking," on any crosswalk.

4. The speed limit on all campus streets is 15 miles per hour.
5. Cars must come to a full halt at all "Stop" signs.
6. All student-operated cars must be registered with the Campus Police at time of registration, even though the operator may not be eligible for a parking permit at that time.

For violation of any of the above regulations, a fine of $1 is charged. Fines are payable at Room 102, Temporary L., within 5 days after receipt. A student may appeal issuance or payment of a traffic violation ticket to the Student Council Parking Committee.

Students or staff members receiving in excess of five parking violation tickets per semester shall have their parking tickets revoked.

Students, whether eligible for parking permits or not, must report changes in automobiles and license plates which occur during the school year. Staff members and students who change cars during the academic year must remove parking stickers from the windshield and return the pieces to obtain another parking sticker.

Any person who falsifies an application for a parking permit must surrender the permit and pay a fine of $5.00.

Parking permits will continue to be on sale all of next week. Graduate students who have not yet registered may obtain a pass at the University Police Department in Temporary L.

'Have You Bought Your ...'

Nostrils quivering, palms sweaty, the fresh freshman edged wide-eyed into the main hall of the Union. He crouched nervously behind a pillar, glancing from side to side. Suddenly, from out of the gloom and cigar smoke, a thousand hands were thrust at him, a thousand voices hawked their wares in his ear—"Buy a calendar." "How about AUF ... " "Have you bought your 1956 Cornhusker. . . " "how about a University Theater ticket. . . " "every freshman needs a beansie, cousin." They never told me about this at orientation, he thought as he bolted for the door. Approaching Freshmen Lee Wotika are Sherman NeJasky, Builders worker; Karen Rauch, AUF assistant; Bob Krasne, Corn Cob worker; Jim Copp, Nebraska Masquers member and Andy Smith, Innocents treasurer.

AUF Pre-Drive Booth Gives Information

The All University Fund has begun its activities with the introduction of an information booth in the Union to acquaint new students with its purpose.

In the past, many students contributed without the knowledge of what their money would do. Andy Smith, president of AUF, said. It is hoped that the new booth will alleviate this problem.

The actual drive will begin Oct. 11 and will end Oct. 27.

"The choice of charities this year represent the wishes of the student body as evidenced by the AUF poll last spring," Smith said.

The five charities this year are: The Lancaster Association for Retarded Children, which helps children who are mentally retarded.

The Lincoln Community Chest, which helps people of all races, creeds, and classes as well as the University YWCA.

The American Heart Association and Cancer Society, whose allotment will be used first in this area.

The World University Service, which helps supply necessities to students in universities abroad.

An auction will be held Nov. 16 to aid the drive. At this time pledge classes, the football team, Innocents and Mortar Boards are sold. Last year's auctioneer was Hank Cech. The Activities Queen will be presented.

"AUF" looks forward to continued co-operation from the student body and I feel confident that AUF will have another successful drive," Smith said.

Masquers Sponsor First Open House

The annual open house at Howell Memorial Theater will be held Saturday at 7 p.m., announced Jack Parris, president of Nebraska Masquers.

To show examples of their work in making "The Best of the Best" of the Masquers.
