

Lentz To Direct 4000 Students: Annual Band Day Performance To Feature Massed Spectacle

In less than one minute and 15 seconds tomorrow the University football field will be transformed from a field of green to a multi-colored field of music and precision with the annual Band Day at the University.

Under the direction of Donald Lentz, conductor of the University of Nebraska Band and co-ordinator of Band Day, more than 4000 high school band members will assemble on the football field for half-time intermission.

The color, music, and precision will reach a climax when the 72 bands, in full dress uniform, form a huge "N" the length and breadth of the field. Ringing the gridiron will be 315 of Nebraska's top high school baton twirlers in a salute to the Cornhusker team and all spectators attending the Nebraska-Texas A & M game.

Official opening of Band Day will be at 9:15 tomorrow morning when the bands will parade 20 blocks through downtown Lincoln. Route of the parade will be: south on 10th to O street; east to 14th street; north to R street; west to 12th street; and north to the East Stadium. Reviewing stand for the parade will be on Pennney's marquee, on the northeast corner of 13th and O streets.

Rehearsal for the half-time show of the game will be held from 10:45 a. m. to noon. The music for the show will include: Star Spangled Banner, Hail Varsity, United Nations, Manhattan Beach, and Dear Old Nebraska U. The massed formation will be directed by Professor Lentz, with the University Band forming the nucleus.

Of the 14 minutes allotted for the show, less than three minutes are used for getting the bands on and off the field.

Receiving much of the credit for the preparation of Band Day are these groups:

Retailers division of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce, which furnishes the lunch to visiting band

King, Mascot, Don Beck and Ann Wade. The squad will travel to all remaining games with the exception of the one in Pittsburgh, Pa. At Friday's rally the group will use the theme "Yellow Rose of Texas." Homecoming members, and supplies certificates of appreciation of each participating high school. Fred Wells is promotion counselor for the Chamber.

Queen candidates will be presented at the rally and voting will follow immediately after the rally. The Yell Squad's skit will consist mainly of spontaneous stunts, according to Christensen, who is in charge of all rally skits.

Traffic division of the Lincoln Police Department, headed by Capt. Willis Manchester, which will patrol, along with Boy Scouts, the route of the parade.

Gamma Lambda, University Band fraternity, which is in charge of registration. Jack McKie is president. The University Builders, a service organization, which will distribute the lunches to the bands. Cathy Olds is president.

University Department of Intercollegiate Athletics, headed by Bill Orwig, which holds a luncheon for the band directors and aids in the arrangements.

Individuals who will play a prominent part in Band Day are: L. F. (Pop) Klein, director of concessions for the Athletic Department: Jack Snider, Dean Killion, Wesley Reist, and Roger Brendle, assistants in organization and administration; and Gail Drahota and Billie Croft in charge of seating.

Only 10 bands participated in the first Band Day held in 1939. It was originated then by Professor Lentz and Comptroller John Selbeck. During World War II, the program was discontinued. Since 1946, more and more bands have sought invitation. Because of the demands, Nebraska high school bands are now allowed to appear only once every three years.

Bands appearing tomorrow will be: Ainsworth, Bassett, Beatrice, Beaver Crossing, Bemmer, Benkelman, Big Springs, Blair, Boelus, Burwell, Butte, Callaway, Cambridge, Campbell, Chapman, Columbus, Clarke, Comstock, Conad, Dorchester.

Eustis, Exeter, Fairbury, Falls City, Farnam, Fremont, Fullerton, Geneva, Gibbon, Gordon, Hebron, Hickman, Holdrege, Hooper, Indianola, Johnson, Juniata, Kenesaw, Lexington, Litchfield, Loup City, Lyons, Milford, Nelson, Newman Grove, Norfolk, North Bend.

North Loup, North Platte, Oakland, Osceola, Oshkosh, Overton, Palmer, Pender, Pilger, Plattsmouth, Rising City, Schuyler, Seward, Shelton, South Sioux City, Stamford, St. Paul, Stromsburg, Stuart, Table Rock, Tecumseh, Westside (Omaha), and West Point.

Cut To Nine Members: Yell Squad's Many Duties Make Yelling 'Incidental'

Although the 1955-56 Yell Squad has only nine members it continues to provide the same functions which it carried on in former years when there were more members.

Gene Christensen, Yell King, explained Thursday that the Yell Squad had this year been cut to nine members because it was found in past years that it was difficult for all members to meet together and often times the overload proved to hinder the work of the others.

Christensen stated, "We are finding that it is possible to generate more pep in a smaller group than in the larger ones of previous years."

Other members of the present Yell Squad are Don Beck, Joan Pollard, Doris Anderson, Ann Wade, Margie Copley, Phil Hockenberger, Larry Epstein, and Jim Switzer.

These members were elected March 25 by a committee of presidents of organization and faculty members. Immediately after their election the members began working on yells and songs three times a week in order to perfect them by the fall term of 1955-56. The football season was the official opener for the new squad.

The Squad members present skits at all home games. At the Hawaii game members entered the field in a small Nash in true circus clown fashion. The skit for the Texas A&M game tomorrow will be a series of spontaneous stunts. It has been further announced that at one of the coming games the Governor will lead a yell.

The Yell Squad works with the rally committee, consisting of representatives from Corn Cobs, Tassels, Yell Squad, and band in preparing the skits to be presented.

Nebraska's Yell Squad will be represented at every remaining game, both here and away, with the exception of the game at Pittsburgh. The entire membership of nine will travel to the Iowa State game.

A rally to be presented at the rally tonight will have at its theme, "The Yellow Rose of Texas." Candidates for Homecoming Queen will be presented as will Coach Bill Glassford and co-captains for the game.

Christensen stated, "The Yell Squad wishes to urge all University students to bring a lot of noisemakers to all games and rallies this year."

He further stated, "Homecoming plans for this year include the presentation of a University 'Corncob Man' similar to the Jayhawk of Kansas U."

Members of the Yell Squad have made it a policy to meet the team as they return from all games. The purpose of the University Yell Squad is to organize student cheering at Varsity athletics, to carry on the tradition of the University Yell Squad, and in general to instill a high spirit and enthusiasm toward the University.

During New Student Week the group performed at the freshman barbecue, printed individual song and yell booklets for distribution to freshmen, and the girls performed at the Men's Smoker and the boys went to the Coed meeting.

Yell King Christensen is chairman of the rally committee which plans each rally. He has to arrange to have the team at the Student Union for each rally, plan the rally route, arrange a police escort, arrange for speaker and mike, arrange for bell and publicity, arrange for the band and plan the program for all school rallies.

For downtown rallies he must check with the City Hall for the route, contact the Police and Fire Department; in case of a torch parade, arrange for the car and make arrangements for the marching band.

In connection with Homecoming he must plan Wednesday's downtown rally, arrange for the Field House bonfire on Friday, arrange for two effigies, and make all arrangements for extra publicity.

The Yell Squad also participates in all basketball games and alternate breaks with the pep band. All work assignments are made before the season.

Constitutional changes last year provided that the membership would consist of five men, of which one is an alternate, and four girls, of which one is an alternate. Two of the men and two of the women will be retained with the men having the positions of Yell King and assistant. Awards for a girl member having been on the squad for three years will be a choice of warm-up jacket, large N letter, compact, or bracelet.

Turk Professors Arrive To Begin Nebraska Year

The Turkish contract, between the University and U.S. International Cooperation Administration, will begin its second phase of operation Friday, with the arrival in Lincoln of 12 Turkish professors from Ankara University.

The professors will begin a one-year training program, principally at the University of Nebraska, in their specialized fields, with special emphasis on the workings and philosophy of land-grant colleges.

The first Turkish professor, Sahap Elci, arrived at the University in August to begin his re-orientation, and a home economist is expected next week to bring the Turkish group to 14.

Of the 12 arriving Friday evening, five are veterinarians, five are animal husbandmen, one is a horticulturist, and one a chemist.

Harry G. Gould, contract coordinator headquartered at the College of Agriculture, said the group will register for graduate courses. The professors, all of whom have Doctor of Philosophy degrees, have indicated a preference in living in Lincoln homes instead of University dormitories, Mr. Gould said.

The five veterinarians will remain at the University for the first two weeks and then go on to veterinary schools in the Midwest.

The Turkish contract, signed by the University last March, calls for the University's technical advice and assistance in the establishment of a new land-grant type university in eastern Turkey -- to be called Ataturk--and in strengthening the work of the existing Ankara University in the fields of agriculture and veterinary science.

Mr. Gould said the program is to be accomplished by sending U.S. specialists to Turkey, and by training members or potential members of Ankara and Ataturk Universities in this country.

The contract calls for the payment of about $1,400,000 by the U.S. agency to the University over a three-year period.

At present, the University has a field staff of seven persons in Turkey headed by Dr. Marvel L. Baker. Other staff members are: Dr. Albin T. Anderson, Arts and Sciences adviser; Dr. Thomas H. Gooding, agronomy adviser; Stanley A. Smith of Washington State College, architect; J. Orvis Keller of Pennsylvania State University, engineer; and Mary Lou Majorian and Virginia Louise Nelson, both secretaries.

Mr. Gould said an additional 10 to 12 advisers are expected to join the field staff within the next year.

PBK Announces Year's Meetings

The University chapter of Phi Beta Kappa has announced its scheduled dinner meetings for the year. The meetings, which will be held at the Union will include the following speakers:

Oct. 19, "Altars on Mainstreet," American Scholar Revisited, Prof. A. C. Land; Feb. 8, "Neutrons and Uranium," Prof. Theodore Jorgensen.

March 6, "Cross-Currents in Legal Thought," Prof. Julius Cohen, April, Joint Meeting of Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi, May 6; "Philosophy, the Guide of Life," Paul F. Good.

This year's officers are, President, Clifford Hicks; Vice President, Robert Knoll; Secretary, Stanley Vandersall; Treasurer, R. C. Deis; Historian, Kenneth Forward.

Improvements In 50 Years: 'Ginger Up' Advises Annual

"Ginger Up" was the advice given to the senior class in the 1906 annual, then named the Sombreno. Other words of wisdom were "Don't get the swelled head over your record in athletics."

This year is the 50th anniversary of the Cornhusker annual. In 1907 the annual changed the name from the Sombreno to the Cornhusker.

In 1906 the Sombreno was bound in brown leather appearing much like an old copy of Walt Whitman's poetry. The pictures of the various men students showed a predominant liking for long haircuts with a part down the middle.

A mitsell history was given to each student. "Miss Totton was born in Kansas in 1882, but realizing the superiority of Nebraska, she moved to Lincoln."

A graduate of the Omaha high school. Her friends say that she is one of the brainiest girls in the class of '06. Her chief accomplishment consists in being able to dig and keep sweet at the same time."

The section devoted to the College of Dentistry began with a simple poem. "Jack and Gill went up the hill to get a pail of water. Jack fell down and broke his crown and Gill her partial upper."

A first page reproduction of the Friday the 13th Daily Nebraskan was included in the back. The story featured was "Students buffet and kidnap each other because freshmen undertook to hold a class party."

Selections from the news stories are colorful and vivid. "On the campus a general mix-up occurred among girls from all the classes. They tussled and pulled each other's hair in delicious joy, and unraveled the rats like peas shelled from the pod. They went into one conglomerate mass of beautiful femininity, and struggled delightedly and apparently aimlessly. . . . This continued for over an hour, before interference came. Chaucer appeared and ordered it to disperse. He addressed a few simple words to the large throng assembled on the library steps and it immediately separated."

The next year a marked change came over the yearbook. Besides the switch of names, the book had hard covers. In the year 1907 such notable things as a "potato bake" at Burlington Beach, and a Saturday April outing took place.

The yearbook began each class section with a brief history of the class. These thumbnail literary histories began with a picturesque setting. As an example the history of the class of 1910 or freshman class began with a description of a fall morning.

"Many cries rent the air of a

Prize Winning Architecture Panels Shown

The exhibits and displays committee of the Union is currently showing a new exhibit of church architecture in the main lounge.

Approximately forty panels containing pictures of the exteriors and interiors of new churches, architects' designs for proposed churches, and floor plans for churches are being shown.

Almost all of the architecture that is being displayed is modern, a new trend in church design and building. Some of the prize winning churches being displayed are: "Twelve Corners Presbyterian Church" of Rochester, N. Y., designed by Harold E. Wagner of Philadelphia, Pa., received an honorable mention.

"Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran Church" of Baltimore, Md., also designed by Wagner of Philadelphia, was given first prize rating in the church class.

"St. Mark's Chapel," University of Connecticut, Storrs, Conn., won Huntington & Double, architects, an honorable mention in its class. The first place winner in the large church category was the "Grace Lutheran Church" of Tenneck, N. J., Paul Schweitzer, architect.

Also exhibited is the third place winner of the small church division the "Salmon Methodist Church" of Seattle, Wash., designed by Robert J. Durham and Associates.

beautiful fall morning. The occasion was the first freshman class meeting which the sophomores were vainly endeavoring to persuade the freshmen to keep out of. It is generally thought that a Freshman is "a soft un," but by the results of that morning's scrimmage the soph found that such was not always the case. . . .

A section titled "Nubbins" was devoted to limericks, poems and short humorous writings. Behind the names of each student was written a short statement about their personality, habit, or philosophy.

Cal Bates -- He looks on the world with jaundiced eye. Mabel Cramer -- Once admired Hershew's chocolates. Marie Hiller -- wants to be a national heroine so when she dies there will be a holiday on her birthday." Hearts and flowers bouquets were given to other students. Ethel C. Field -- Grace was in all her steps, heaven in her eye, in every gesture dignity and love." Edward Markwood Rutledge -- "In shape, in height, in stately presence, fair."

Dr. Ross (Mr. Levy habitually coming in late to class): I am sorry, Mr. Levy, that I am forced by circumstances to mention you as in an obituary. I find myself speaking of you at all times as "The late Mr. Levy."
