Accident Car Shown

Lowell Callaway and Dale Stewart, University freshmen, were killed late Saturday night when this 1955 convertible plunged into a gravel pit near Norfolk.

The men were also killed. The car ran off the road when the four were out hunting. Authorities believe the car ran into the pit when the driver of the machine was trying to turn it around. Investigation of the pit showed that if the car had gone six feet farther into the pit it would have sunk to a depth of forty feet. It was found Sunday afternoon when a farmer noticed a back wheel projecting above the surface of the water in the pit.
