Homecoming: Beta Sig's Take First In Division

Beta Theta Pi fraternity and Delta Gamma sorority combined cosmic dust and a torrid trumpet to take first place honors in house decoration competition for the 1955 Homecoming Beta Sigma Psi topped the smaller men's houses division.

Also announced as winners at the annual Homecoming Dance Saturday night were Farm House, International House and Builders in the float competition.

Beta Theta Pi, winner in the large houses competition, won the men's grand champion trophy, while buffalo heads danced across a sheet of music.

Other winners in the division for larger men's houses, were Sigma Alpha Epsilon, second; Sigma Chi, third, and Sigma Phi Epsilon, honorable mention.

Pi Kappa Phi and Delta Sigma Phi took second and third, respectively in the women's division.

Second in the women's division was Gamma Phi Beta, and Chi Omega placed third.

The Beta's display, "Buffs to Stardust," depicted a rocket ship swooping in from outer space to blast a large golden buffalo off the globe and up into the stars.

The Delta Gamma's, with the "Buffalo Blues," had a giant Husker football player playing the blues while buffalo heads danced across a sheet of music.

"Nebraska Whammie Biseets Bisons" won first for the Beta Sig's in the men's small houses division. A huge Cornhusker split a buffalo in two with an "evil eye."

In the homecoming floats, Farm House won the men's award with "Steamed Up for Colorado," a huge locomotive which trundled its way down the parade route. International House won the women's division with "The World's For You," and Builders won the division for honoraries and organizations.

In the men's division Brown Palace won second and Alpha Gamma Rho, third. Terrace Hall placed second and Howard Hall, third, in the women's division.

Red Cross was second and Student Union placed third in the honoraries and organizations division. Judges for the house decorations were Dr. H. L. Weaver, Norma Carpenter, John Wenver, Col. C. J. Frankforter and Max Worley, Lincoln Businessman.

Winners in all competitions were announced Saturday night at the Homecoming Dance in the Coliseum. A traveling trophy was awarded to Beta Theta Pi and Delta Gamma as house decorations winners. Winners in all competitions received engraved plaques.

Mass Meeting: YW Panel To Discuss Girls' Role

The Changing Role of Women will be the theme of a YWCA mass meeting Tuesday at 7:15 p.m. in Love Library Auditorium.

"The meeting will feature a panel who will discuss the cultural influences regarding the status of women in the past fifty years and the responsibilities of women who combine family and a career," said Janice Oshorn, YW director.

She added that another topic to be covered in the discussion was "Helping College Women to Prepare For The Future."

Student members of the panel will include Sharon Mangold, president of City Campus YW; Marlene Hutchinson, president of Ag YWCA, and Dick Fellman, editor of The Nebraskan.

The moderator for the meeting will be Dr. Dudley Ashton, chairman of the Department of Physical Education. Other panel members are: Mrs. Rex Knowles, past president of the YWCA advisory board; Mrs. Leroy Laese, president of the YWCA advisory board; Mrs. George Ernest, vice-president of the board; Dr. Garnet Larson, professor in the graduate school of social work; Mrs. Shirley Marsh, home economist for KUON, and Dr. Kenneth Cannon, associate professor of home economics.

There will be an opportunity for the audience to question the panel members after the discussion, said Tootie Way, YW board member in charge of mass meetings. She added that men are invited to attend this meeting.

New Spirit Booster

Bill Dewulf, Corn Cobs member in the Corn Cob man, and Doris Anderson, cheerleader, are examining the buffalo's head trophy won last year and retained after the Cornhusker Homecoming victory Saturday.

The Corn Cob man, a new symbol of Husker school spirit, is the result of coordinated efforts of one yell squad, James Pittenger, secretary of the Alumni Association, Corn Cobs and Gene Christensen, Yell King. "The idea for a symbol originated in the yell squad last spring," Christensen said. It is patterned after the Kansas University Jayhawk, he said. Last summer, Christensen went to Minnesota to contact a company with facilities to make the "Corn Cob."

"It was difficult to find such a company," he said. Pittenger and Christensen made numerous inquiries at other universities before they got the name of the Minnesota concern.

Corn Cobs paid for the "Corn Cob," and Tussels have ordered a uniform from a costume company in Omaha in the corn cob motif, Christensen said.

The head was hand-made by the same woman who made the bear used in connection with the "Land of Sky Blue Waters" commercials of a malt beverage company, he said.

"The uniform was not complete for the Colorado game, but it was decided to show half of it for Homecoming," he said.

The rest of the outfit should be ready for the Oklahoma game Saturday, he said.

Norm Creutz, Corn Cobs president, coordinated all efforts to get the "Corn Cob."

Union Dance Lessons

Union dance lessons will be held Tuesday night instead of the regularly scheduled Wednesday night because of a conflict with the AUF Auction, Roy Boyd, chairman of the Union Dance Committee, announced.

There will be refreshments served and a dance prize given, Boyd said.

Cornhusker Pictures

Deadline for signing up for individual Cornhusker pictures for fraternity and sorority members is Tuesday, Carol Unterseher, Cornhusker Associate Editor, announced.
