

It Happened At NU
Coeds are traditionally considered totally ignorant of sports matters. Thursday's night news editor typifies the theory. She was called upon to write a headline for a sports story and, by the time she had waded through a sea of sports terminology, she was quite confused. She called one of the staff's gentlemen, who nobly assisted. Chivalry lives!

the NEBRASKAN

Weather 'R' Not
Friday's forecast shows a slight relief from Thursday's blustering cold. Highs are expected to reach the high 30's and drop to about 10 Friday night. Skies will remain overcast, but no snow is expected. Temperatures will drop Saturday.

Lincoln CC: NU TV Refused Building

The board of directors of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce has decided against deeding its four-story building at 11th and P to the University.
In return for this the Chamber of Commerce was to have been allowed to use its administrative offices on the second floor rent free for 25 years.
The University had shown interest in using the third and fourth floors for the operation of the University's television station, KUON-TV.

Robert Slater, publicity director of KUON-TV, said that at the present time the station has no definite plans. He stated that the station hadn't really planned on taking over the Chamber's third and fourth floors. For the present time KUON-TV will continue to use the facilities at KOLN, Slater said.

This was the third special board meeting in which the Chamber was considering the recommendation of a special committee headed by Carl Ganz. The committee, appointed in 1953, has been exploring the cost of operating the Chamber building. The Chamber built the structure in 1913 at the cost of $150,000.

The Ganz report stated that the cost of maintaining the building is so high that it would be economically advantageous for the Chamber to cease operating and owning its own building.

In the report to the directors, Chairman Ganz stated that the group felt that the organization could get along without the dining room and recreation facilities now provided by the building.

The board rejected this recommendation and voted that the Chamber's building committee explore ways and means of greater utilization of the building with the Chamber-retaining ownership.

President Hale stated that the board of directors didn't see how the different groups of the Chamber could function without the space. He said that the dining room was needed as it now is used for luncheon meetings and other such functions.

Coeds To Perform With Lincoln Symphony

By CINDY ZSCHAU
Staff Writer

"Striking music strikingly played." Such was the performance of Martha on the right, and Janet Danielson, a sister duo piano team, as described by Martin Bush, judge of the Lincoln Symphony auditions held Monday. As a result of the auditions, the girls were selected to perform with the Lincoln Symphony March 20. Bush, an Omaha music critic, praised the girls for their freedom of style and "excellent technique" in the execution of their two piano numbers. They played "Concerto in D" by Poulenc for the audition. Bush also commented that their work was "professional and mature" and that they displayed "a fine sense of ensemble." Both sisters are students at the University and are enrolled in Teachers' College. Martha Danielson is a junior majoring in French. Her activities include Coed Counselors, Union music committee, University Singers and Alpha Lambda Delta. Janet Danielson, a freshman, is majoring in English but has a minor in music, and also on the Union music committee. Both girls are members of Kappa Alpha Theta. This opportunity to play with the Lincoln Symphony comes for Martha after 14 years of piano lessons and for Janet after about 12 years of lessons. Both study under Beth Miller Harrod. The Danielsons are the first duo piano team ever to win the Lincoln Symphony auditions, although others have tried out. The auditions, held annually, are open to all Lincoln instrumental and vocal artists between ages of 17 and 26. Approximately ten performers were auditioned this year. The sisters will play the Poulenc concerto for the March concert.

Second Year: Madrigals Invited To Sing On CBS National Hook-Up

The University Madrigal Singers have been invited to participate in two Columbia Broadcasting System coast to coast radio broadcasts during the Christmas season.

The first broadcast will be a fifteen minute show, consisting of Christmas carols from various countries, and will be heard from 9:15-9:30 p.m. CST, Dec. 23.

The second broadcast will be a half-hour presentation of Benjamin Britten's "Ceremony of Carols" to be heard at 11:05 a.m. CST Dec. 25, Christmas Day. The program will be heard as the result of a special request from CBS officials.

This will be the second consecutive year Madrigals have sung on CBS and is one of the few times a non-professional music group has been requested to do a show of this kind.

The request was made by James Fassett, Music Supervisor of CBS Radio in New York.

The Madrigals, composed of 32 University men and women, were founded at the University in 1943. The singers present their programs while seated around a table in the traditional madrigal style.

The listeners are asked to think of the performance as a gathering of good friends to enjoy good music, conversation, refreshments and an evening together, Donald Lentz, director of Madrigals, said.

The songs presented cover every conceivable facet of life—religion, politics, dancing, drinking, card-playing, conversation, nature, death and all other phases of human thought and experience, Lentz said.

Sunday:

NU Choral Union To Sing In 'Messiah'

The University choral union will present the University's annual performance of "The Messiah" Sunday at 3 p.m. in the Coliseum under the direction of Dr. Arthur Westbrook.

Soloists will be Barbara Blair, soprano; Carol Asbury, alto; Amer Lincoln, tenor; and John Poutre, baritone.

Groups composing the union are the Agricultural College Chorus, Mrs. Akinas Tullis, conductor; University Singers I, Dr. David Foltz, conductor; University Singers II, Dr. Westbrook, conductor; University Chorus I, Earl Jenkins, conductor; University Chorus II, Dr. Foltz, conductor, and the School of Nursing Chorus from Omaha, Richard Duncan, conductor.

All students who have sung in "The Messiah" in the past but who have not been singing this year are invited to sing with this year's chorus, Dr. Westbrook announced.

Students wishing to sing at the annual presentation, 3 p.m. Sunday, must attend rehearsal at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at the Coliseum.

Also taking part will be the Uni-

International House: Faculty Considers Site For 'Gathering Place'

International House may be a possible site for a University faculty club, Dr. A. C. Breckenridge, dean of faculties, said Thursday.

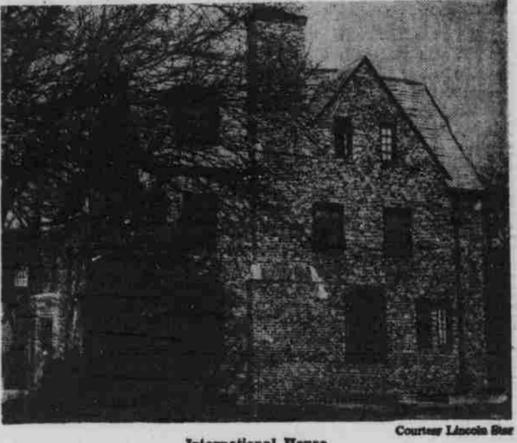

The house, 1520 R, will be removed from the present dormitory system and the residents will be housed in a $600,000 addition to the Residence Halls for Women upon its completion in 1957.

International House was formerly the Phi Mu house and was brought by the University and made a part of the dormitory system in 1944. At present, 33 women students live in International House.

"Plans for organization of a faculty club, under discussion here for years, usually bogged down because of the difficulty in finding a place for it," Breckenridge said.

If the International House building were to be used for a faculty club, it would need considerable renovation, he said.

The faculty now has no facilities for gatherings except the Union, which is crowded by student activities. The faculty needs an outlet like the students have at the Union, Breckenridge said.

Most universities have a faculty club which serves as a place for the wives to meet, teas, evening parties, evening social functions and noon hour relaxation with facilities to serve lunch, he said.

Faculty members would like to leave the office and have a place to meet other professors, watch television, read or just talk, he said. The University has no such place now, Breckenridge said.

The use of International House was discussed at the weekly meeting of the Faculty Luncheon Club, which meets in the Union. A committee was appointed to investigate the possibilities of finding a faculty club building.

Other committee members are Mary Jean Mulvaney, assistant professor of physical education, Robert Feeney, professor of chemistry, David Dow, professor of law, and Carl Donaldson, purchasing agent for the University.

The L-shaped addition which would help accommodate girls from International House will be attached to the south of the present women's dormitory and will provide housing for 160 women, Breckenridge said.

Nonchalant Staffs Set Small Fete For Yuletide

The gala annual Nebraskan-Cornhusker Christmas party will be held Wednesday at 4:30 p.m. in the newspaper offices. Invitations are open to all staff members, business staff, reporters, workers, section hands, columnists and friends of journalism, according to Sad Sam Jensen, staff social chairman.

All those attending must bring a 25-cent gift to be given out by the staff Santa Claus. Fred Daly, hard-hitting news editor, will be Santa Claus over his dead body.

Christmas carols will be sung, refreshments will be served, and there will be games and foot races for the young and old.

There will also be a small, impressive ceremony to celebrate the recent redecorating in the offices. Roger Henkle, columnist, will sing a medley of Welsh mining songs, accompanied by Judy Best on the kazoo and Mary Sheldy on the tenor callopie.

ECNAD To Reveal Eligible Six

Six Eligible Bachelors will be announced Friday at the Mortar Board dance. Eligible Bachelor candidates are to be in the Union Music room by 10 p.m. Friday.

Fraternities entering a candidate in the Eligible Bachelor competition should support their choice at the dance, said Carole Unterseher, publicity chairman.

The purpose of the dance is to provide a turnout for girls to return the favor of an evening's entertainment to their Military Ball dates.

The Heavens Sent theme will be complete with clouds and angels as decorations. Bud Holloway's orchestra will furnish the music.

Tickets are on sale in the ECNAD ticket booth in the Union. The price is $2 per couple. Tickets may also be purchased from any member of Mortar Board.

Refreshments will be served in Parlors XYZ.

The Outside World: Balanced Budget Hoped

By MONROE USHER
Staff Writer

Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey said Thursday, "I don't give a damn what the (military spending) indications are—I think we're going to balance the budget."

Humphrey made this announcement at a meeting of President Eisenhower and his top aids at Camp David, Maryland, to discuss next year's defense program.

Humphrey gave no indication of whether he thought a tax cut would be possible next year but he has said previously that it will be time to think about a tax cut when a balanced budget is in sight.

GOP Accused Of 'Hate Mongering'

Adlai Stevenson has charged that certain members of the Republican party are resorting to "hate mongering" in their politics.

Stevenson stated that American people should say nothing which will hurt democracy's chances abroad. To this he added: "And the politics of hate mongering even blights democracy's future here at home."

Stevenson said he was referring here to Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson's attempt to blame the farmer's current depression on the city worker's wage increase and the chairman of the Republican Senatorial Committee's charge that labor leaders have organized a conspiracy to take over the federal government.

Howell Theater: Noel Coward Production Slated To Open Monday

Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit," the first drawing room comedy to be presented on the stage of the Howell Memorial Theater, will open Monday.

Charles Condomine, played by Eugene Peyroux, is the leading character in Coward's production. Other featured players are Beverly Giltner, graduate student, and Janice Farrell, a junior in Arts and Sciences.

The show, the second production of the season, will run from Monday through Friday with curtain time at 8 p.m. The Monday production will take the place of the Saturday night show which has been eliminated because of Christmas vacation.

Peyroux, a speech major, was last seen as Harry Shapiro in "Stalag 17." He received an acting award last spring for his performance as Master Hammond in "Shoemaker's Holiday." He also had roles in "Death of a Salesman," "The Madwoman of Chailot" and "Mourning Becomes Electra."

The medium will be played by Doris Anne Growcock, a graduate assistant from Fremont. She won an acting award for her role in "Death of a Salesman" and also had major roles in "Mourning Becomes Electra" and "Midsummer Night's Dream."

John Wenstrand, University graduate who is currently practicing law in Lincoln, will direct the play. Wenstrand was engaged to direct "Blithe Spirit" in order to free the regular staff for work on a special University film.

Wenstrand has his master's degree in speech in addition to his Bachelor of Law degree and has played leading roles in many University Theater productions.

Jerry A. Bass, assistant technical director of the University Theater, is in charge of the technical aspects of the production.

Students may make reservations by calling the box office at Howell Theater between 12:30 p.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Miss Farrell, a newcomer to the University Theater stage, will portray Elvira, Charles' first wife who returns as a "blithe spirit" to remind him of their days together. Miss Farrell, a bacteriology major, is a transfer student from Wellesley College.

Miss Giltner, a graduate assistant in the department of speech and dramatic art, also will play her first role in a University Theater production. She will portray Ruth, Charles' second wife, who is an innocent victim of the ghostly happenings until by accident she, too, becomes a "blithe spirit."

Miss Giltner took her undergraduate work at DePauw University in Greencastle, Ind., where her acting experience included playing Laura in "The Glass Menagerie."

Board Set-up: AUF Passes Change, Adds Three Posts

Several changes were approved in the AUF Board set-up at a meeting Thursday night.

Three new board positions were created and one position was dropped. Several changes were also made in the various responsibilities of positions.

The position in charge of radio-TV publicity was dropped because of difficulty in carrying out the position's functions, outgoing president Andy Smith said.

A board position in charge of soliciting graduate and professional schools was approved by the board. Smith said it was felt that these students had not been given ample opportunity to give.

Ag solicitations, formerly one position, has divided into Ag independent solicitations and publicity and Ag organizations and organized houses.

Smith said the board felt the position entailed too much work for one person and better results could be gained from Ag solicitations if the two were separated.

Due to the fact that denominational groups were not solicited this year, the position of denominations and organizations was separated and denominations added to the speakers division of publicity board.

AUF interviews for these and other board positions will be held Saturday, Smith said. New board members will be notified that night, he added.

Installation of the new executive officers and board members will be Thursday, he said.

Other board positions open to interested students include special events, newspaper publicity, art, booths and mass meetings and education of workers on the publicity board.

Solicitations board positions open include independent solicitations, sororities, fraternities, faculty, organizations and organized houses, dormitories and the new board positions.

Board members selected Saturday will begin planning the 1956 drive almost immediately after second semester begins, Smith said.

Candlelight Tea

The public is invited to the Candlelight Tea in the Union Main Lounge after the Messiah Sunday, Marilyn Heck, hospitality chairman, has said.

The tea will have a Christmas theme and refreshments will be served.

'Rag' Press Club

The fourth "Rag" Press Club luncheon will be held Friday at noon in Union Parlor Y. Dick Fellman, editor announced.

All reporters, columnists, staff members and Student Publications Board members are invited to attend, he said. The luncheon will cost $1.
