Keenan: AWS Gives Point Rule Explanation

Associated Women Students Board will enforce the activities point system as it now stands for the spring elections, Beth Keenan, AWS activities point chairman, announced Thursday.

AWS board maintains an activities point system which limits a woman student's activities to a minimum of 5 points.

The point system was not in effect after the Student Council passed its activities limitation proposal last spring due to some confusion concerning AWS status when the Council ruling was in effect.

The system has not been in effect since the Council rescinded its decision because AWS was considering revision of the system, Miss Keenan said.

Under the present system, activities are pointed according to the amount of time and effort involved in them, she said.

The AWS board is now open to suggestions as to how the present system can be improved, she added.

"AWS has decided to revise its point system due to new light reflected by the Council on the question," Miss Keenan said.

Staff Representatives will be on campus to discuss your future
Wednesday, February 29
in Lockheed's expanding research and development program

Both divisions of Lockheed are engaged in a long-range expansion program in their fields of endeavor.

California Division activities in Burbank cover virtually every phase of aircraft, both commercial and military. 46 major projects are in motion, including 13 models of aircraft in production—extremely high-speed fighters, jet trainers, commercial and military transports, radar search planes, patrol bombers. The development program is the largest and most diversified in the division's history. New positions have been created for graduates in: Aeronautical, Civil, Electrical and Mechanical Engineering and Mathematics and Physics.

At Lockheed in Marietta, Georgia, new C-130A turbo-prop transports and B-47 jet bombers are being manufactured in the country's largest aircraft plant under one roof. The division is already one of the South's largest industries. In addition, advanced research and development are underway on nuclear energy and its relationship to aircraft. A number of other highly significant classified projects augment the extensive production program. New positions have been created for graduates in: Aeronautical, Civil, Electrical and Mechanical Engineering and Mathematics and Physics.

This broad expansion program is creating new positions in each division. Graduates in fields of Aeronautical Engineering, Electrical Engineering, Mechanical Engineering, Mathematics and Physics are invited to investigate their role in Lockheed's expansion.

Separate interviews will be given for each division.
