Paculty members have indicated their interest in the organization and have paid one-half of the first year's dues, according to Miller.

In addition, the faculty really deisres a faculty center where they can meer, exchange ideas and become acquainted with the different departments of the University through personal contact provided by the club, Miller said.

An estimated $60,000 will be required to remodel and furnish the present International House which was offered as a club center, if sufficient interest in the project was shown, to the faculty by Chancellor Clifford Hardin and the Board of Regents, he said.

Dr. Miller announced that the quarters are hoped to be ready by Sept 1957 He went on to say, "Through the University Foundation, funds will be solicited for the purpose of furnidhing and remodeling the quarters which the University has made available for this purpose."

Future plans for the present residents of the International House are not definite, according to J. C. Colbert, Dean of Student Affairs,
