Scholarship: AAUW To Offer Grad Aid

The American Association of University Women, Lincoln branch, is offering a scholarship of $100 to an undergraduate woman and a stipend to be used for graduate study to a June or August woman graduate.

Any girl with a high scholastic average who expects to graduate in June or August of 1957 or 1958 and who can show evidence of financial need is eligible to apply for the $100 scholarship.

Women graduating in June or August and who will begin work toward a master's degree next September are eligible to apply for the stipend.

Application blanks are available at the University office of the Dean of Women and the Home Economics office on Ag campus. When applying, girls are asked to give the Registrar's Office written permission to send their grades to the Scholarship Committee.

Two letters of recommendation, one of which is to be from a faculty member, must be submitted by the applicant. These letters may be sent directly to the committee by the writer, or enclosed with the application blank.

Letters and application blanks must be sent on or before April 21 to Esther Montgomery, Apt. 202, 501 South 13 Street, Lincoln.

Applicants to be interviewed will be notified by the committee.

Smoky Mountains Audubon Topic

The Great Smokies, one of the largest wilderness areas remaining in the United States, will be the subject of the Audubon Screen Tour, scheduled at 4 p.m. and again at 8 p.m. Friday, at Love Library auditorium.

Dr. Harrison Orsini, professor and director of summer sessions, University of Toledo, will narrate his motion picture.

The film includes the wildlife and people of the Southern Highlands, famed as the lands of purple mist, towering trees and sky-high ridges. Fifty-two species of animals live in this region, as well as wild flowers of many types, rhododendrum, mountain laurel, evening primrose, yellow lady's slipper and white turtle head.

In depicting the life of the mountain folk, the film shows grist mills run by water power of the mountain flumes, houses made of slab-boards, utensils of gourds, and parties with old-time games, fiddles and occasionally a dulcimer.

The program is sponsored by the University bureau of audiovisual instruction and state museum and the Audubon Society.

Book Nook To Add State Newspapers

Out of town newspapers will be placed in the Book Nook for student readership. The newspapers will be selected according to geographical location.

Presently the Omaha, Columbus, Fremont, Holbrook, Scottsbluff, York, and North Platte papers are available.

The project, sponsored by the Union activities and displays committee may be enlarged to include out of state metropolitan papers which have journalistic value, such as the New York Times, Kansas City Star, St. Louis Post-Dispatch, and the Chicago Herald Tribune.

Phillips Selected Law President

James Phillips, sophomore in the College of Law, was elected president of Delta Theta Phi, University law fraternity.

Other officers are Dave Keene, vice president; George Null, treasurer; Ken Hotcliff, treasurer; Bruce Barion, bulliff; and James Weber, pledge chairman.

Vincent Rawson, past president, was presented with a fraternity key for distinguished service.

All pledges will be initiated at the Delta Theta Phi Founders Day Banquet to be held in Omaha the first week in May.

Advertising: Scholarship Established By Agency

Ayres, Swanson and Associates, Inc., Lincoln advertising agency, has established a $250 scholarship, University Foundation secretary-director Perry Branch, announced.

The scholarship, established through the Foundation, is to honor "the exemplary and faithful service of Forrest Blood, professor of advertising and sales management."

Professor Blood has been a member of the University faculty since 1926.

The scholarship, established by the agency in observance of its tenth anniversary, will be given each year to a senior in the college of Business Administration or the School of Journalism who is specializing in the field of advertising and-or journalism.

In order to qualify, the student must have maintained a good scholastic record, show promise of future success and be worthy of financial assistance.

The University's general scholarship awards committee will select the recipients.

Warren Ayres, president, and Warren Swanson, executive vice president of the agency, are both University graduates.

Research Grant

A $2000 research grant for studies by the University department of animal husbandry has been given by the Nitrogen Division, Allied Chemical and Dye Corporation of New York.

The funds were given through the University Foundation, Perry Branch, director-secretary, announced Monday.

Dr. Thomas Dow, associate professor of animal husbandry, will conduct the studies which concern the use of non-protein nitrogen in cattle rations.

Short Course

A six weeks course, on a production workshop and on the requirements in the more specialized branches of publishing will be offered at Radcliff College in Cambridge, Mass., beginning June 26.

Barton Stratton, production manager of the Harvard University Press, will conduct the workshop.

Science: University Chosen Site For Study

Nebraska has been selected as one of four states in the nation for the establishment of centers to study the use of science counselors in the secondary schools.

Funds to finance the one-year pilot study were among the $63,614 in grants accepted Saturday morning by the Board of Regents.

The project, financed by a $19,000 grant from the American Association for the Advancement of Science, is part of the AAAS' science-teaching improvement program.

The study will be directed by Dr. James Rutledge, assistant professor of secondary education and supervisor of natural science at University High School, and his administrative committee.

Among the grants was one for $22,196 from the U.S. Department of Agriculture for studying the role of enzymes in the digestion of raw starch. The work will be chemistry. In addition, Sandstedt, biochemist and professor of chemistry. In addition, Mr. Sandstedt received through the University Foundation an $8,000 grant from the Corn Industries Research Foundation for photomicrographic studies of starch gelatinization.

Other grants approved Saturday: $6519 from U.S. Public Health to Dr. Robert Feeney, department of biochemistry and nutrition, for the study of mechanism of antibiologic action of chelating agents.

$2600 from Abbott Laboratories to Dr. E. G. Holly and William Rumboldt, College of Medicine, for evaluation of endometrium in abnormal uterine bleeding.

$1500 from E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Company to the Department of Chemistry for investigation of the papain-catalyzed exchange reaction of glycineamide with benzoylglycine thiolethyl ester.

Community: Beggs Talks To Leaders At Project

Dr. Walter Beggs, administrator of the Nebraska Community Education Project being conducted at the University, was guest speaker at the second workshop session for community leaders held at Syracuse Tuesday night.

"A good community today will not necessarily be a good community ten years from now," Dr. Beggs said, "The changes are too rapid."

The changes include increases in population, gross national product, leisure time, income and automation, he said.

Dr. Beggs said community improvement requires comprehensive planning in the areas of economic development, culture development, educational improvement, community appearance, recreation and communication.

"To develop a comprehensive plan for improvement in these areas," he said, "it is necessary that there be a firm belief in the community and in its destiny. There must be intelligent use of resources, both local and outside."

Clinic

More than 150 elementary and secondary educators from four states are expected to attend the fifth annual Air Age Education Clinic Friday and Saturday at the University.

The theme will be "Your Community Airport is Your Classroom Too."

Charles E. Elminger, coordinator of Nebraska Air Age Education Division, said the two-day program will include classroom demonstrations by students of Bancroft School and University High School and discussion and planning sessions, with prominent authorities as consultants.

Ag Club

Seventeen new members have joined the club.

Tour

Foreign students going on the Mortar Board Tour March 26-27 should meet for an orientation session Friday at 4 p.m. in Room 316 of the Student Union, according to Carole Unterseher, tour chairman.

Where Your Money Went: AUF Gives 10 Per Cent To Help LARC School

Approximately $1000, or 10 per cent of the money from the All University Fund fall drive, was given to the school for retarded children.

The only other sources of income for the school are the annual National Association for Retarded Children drive in Lincoln and individual contributions.

LARC school was founded two years ago by the parents of retarded children in Lincoln. The first regular classes began in 1954 with 19 children attending.

At present, LARC school is located at 500 No. 21 St. in Lincoln. The Lancaster Association for Retarded Children is one of the five charities to which AUF contributed this year.

'Economic Race' Candidate Johnson Discusses Farm Issues

The farmer is losing out in the economic race for a fair share of the national income, according to Dick Johnson, candidate for Republican nomination as Representative from the First Congressional District.

The farm problem has become a political football and the programs that have been proposed are just short-term stopgap measures designed to keep the farmer happy until after the elections, Johnson said.

"In talking to voters out in the state, it has become apparent that they want a permanent long-term, long-range farm program, which will solve the basic problem as well as give the farmers a fair share of the national income. This is why I am advocating a program of increased consumption as a basis for sound agricultural legislation," he said.

However, moderate production controls will be necessary until this consumption program has a chance to take effect, Johnson added. He emphasized that these controls should be made on a bushel or commodity basis instead of on our present acreage system.

Until the blistering effect of the consumption program becomes evident, domestic marketing certificates should be issued to producers in compensation for the difference between the "new" parity price and the prior received, he said. Under this system, free market forces would be allowed to operate and all commodities permitted to find their own price level.

The expenditure of vast sums of public money in reclamation of desert lands for agricultural purposes should be stopped until such time as increase in demand for food justifies the increased production of these lands, he concluded.

Johnson will make a major campaign speech before a group of Fairbury businessmen on Thursday during a luncheon given in his honor.
