Husker Nine Opens League Action With Kansas State

Sharpe . . . hoping

By MAX KREITMAN Sports Editor

Baseball occupies the spotlight this week-end as the Nebraska Cornhuskers host the Kansas State Wildcats in a double-header this Friday and Saturday.

One or southpaws, Willie Greenlaw or Roger Bottorff, will get the starting call from coach Tony Sharpe.

Bottorff has been the most effective of the two hurlers, having a 1.13 earned-run average through the first seven Husker contests.

Greenlaw, who has lost two contests this year and has a 6.23 earned-run mark, was the most effective of the hurlers last year.

The Huskers will open with Hohn Beideck at first, Al Karle at second, Don Brown at third and Norm Coufal at shortstop.

In the outfield will be Gene Torczon in left, Gary Reimers in center and Larry Lewis in right.

In the event that Bottorff opens on the mound, then Greenlaw will move to the outfield.

Don Erway, who moved to the outfield earlier because of a bad knee injury, was back behind the plate because of an injury to sophomore receiver Jim Kane.

Brown continues to pace the Cornhusker hitters through the first ten outings. The slugging

Union Awards Presentation will be held at 7:30 p.m. next Tuesday, in Parlors ABC of the City Union.

Awards will be presented to the outstanding workers in both Ag and City Union the past year.

New Union Board of Managers Members will be announced at the program as well as committee chairman and secretaries.

Members of the both City and Ag Union activities committees are invited to attend.

third sacker is boasting a powerful 448 mark. Norm Coufal is next with a .333 average.

A young sophomore, Al Karle, is making his way up the hitting ladder. The Grand Island sophomore is hitting at a .278 clip.

Ziegenbein, Richare Geire and Torczon own the only three Husker wins. Greenlaw and Geier have each lost two.

The Huskers finished their seven-game Southern swing with a 3-4 record.

Their opener in Tulsa found the Nebraskans winning by a 1-0 count. Houston then swept a two-game series from Sharpe's crew, 3-2 and 6-1.

The Huskers then moved into Rice for a two-game affair with the Owls. They split the series, winning, 8-5 and bowing to the hosts, 4-1.

Waco, Texas was the next stop and the invading Nebraskans split a series with Baylor, winning by a count of 5-3. They lost to the Baylor nine, 9-4.

Last year the Huskers finished the Big 7 with a record of 6-4.

Oklahoma is the defending champions.

Coufal, Greenlaw, Brown, Geier and Bottorff are the only returning letterwinners. Much of the success of this years Husker hopes will lie in their pitching. If Bottorff, Geier, and Greenlaw can come through in the league, the Cornhuskers could very well be in the NCAA play-offs at Omaha this June.

Second In Discus Event Earns Smith Star Of Week Award

By BOB WIRZ Nebraskan Sports Reporter

Larry Smith, senior from South Sioux City, has been chosen by the Nebraskan as the second winner of the spring Star of the Week award.

The Husker track star was given the award for his fine performance during the quadrangular meet at Norman, Oklahoma last Saturday.

Smith was the high individual scorer for the thinclands in the meet as he placed second in the discus, his pet event, and scored a third in the shot-put.

Larry, who stands 6'3" and weighs 205 pounds, was one of the few bright spots in the meet for the Huskers.

He followed Bob VanDee of Oklahoma in both events. Smith threw the shot 49' 4/4" and thus finished ahead of teammates Ken Reimers and Leonard Rosen although he usually follows these two men in the event.

However it was different in the discus as he had one of his best tosses since returning from the service. His throw was 150' 8".

Smith won the discus throw in the 1953 Big Seven outdoor track meet and then joined the Army and served with Uncle Sam for two years.

Larry won nine letters during his prep career at South Sioux. These included each three in football, basketball and track.

Injuries have kept him from playing football here at the University.

While in the service, Smith participated in track at Ft. Bliss in Texas, at Ft. Sill in Lawton, Oklahoma and in Germany. While in Germany he won first place in the 7th army championships and finished second in the shot put.

Larry is majoring in Physical Education and minoring in Science and mathematics.

He is a active member in the N Club, Phi Epsilon Kappa, and Inter-Varsity.

Smith follows Don Brown of the Cornhusker baseball team as winner of the second spring award.

Top Gridder: Pinkston Shines In Spring Drills

left halfback spot, despite competition from other speedy players like Bernie Dillard and Claire Boroff.

A good dashman, Pinkston, in addition to his all-American prep honors, earned nine letters in football, basketball and track at Grand Island. He was active in Junior Legion baseball for three years and was an all-Big 10 conference basketball player.

As a junior, he won all-American, all-State and all-conference honors on the Grand Island state championship football team. Darrel likes to remember the 40-0 win over Lincoln High last year and the 40-0 triumph over McCook in the Big 10 playoffs. In that game, Pinkston scored four touchdowns and ran up a total yardage record.

A surprising performer during the spring workouts has been the performance of sophomore Darrel Pinkston.

Cornhusker fans will be able to see the flashy halfback play during All-Sports Day, April 28.

Murphy Out

The Nebraska football squad received another blow yesterday when Jim Murphy, first team guard and a letterman from last year, was dropped from the football team for the remainder of the spring because of disciplinary reasons.

The announcement came from coach Pete Elliott at a press meeting Tuesday.

Elliott went on to say that any further decisions concerning his status are impossible to make at this time.

University officials declined to comment on the incident.

Although hampered by injuries managed to win all-Big 10 honors. He did not play freshmen football last year, but was a member of the all-University intramural football team.

THE NEBRASKAN SPORTS

Nebraska Teams Host Washburn

Thursday finds the Huskers golf and tennis squads playing host to the Washburn Ichabods of Topeka, Kansas.

The tennis crew, riding on the crest of a two-game winning streak, will have their work cut out for them when they play host to the invading Kansans.

Washburn boasts some of the finest players in the area in their number one singles man, Tom Davidson. George Fisk, the Huskers top gun, will put his individual 4-3 mark on the line against the more experienced Davidson.

Last year the Cornhuskers bowed to the Washburnites by the tune of 7-0.

This year Nebraska is riding on a 3-4 mark. They have victories over Fairbury Junior College, Creighton, and Wichita. They have lost to Oklahoma, Southern Methodist University, Southeastern Oklahoma State College and Oklahoma Baptist.

Other performers for coach Ed Higgenbottom's squad includes Art Weaver, Al Ford, Tom Stitt, Brent Donaldson and John Moran.

The Husker golfers will be trying to bring their seasons record to 3-3 at the hands of Washburn.

The linksmen own wins over Tulsa, 9 1/2-8 1/2 and Omaha University, 11-1. They have bowed to Kansas, 15 1/2-2 1/2, Kansas State 10 1/2-7 1/2 and Houston, 40. They finished 16th in the Southwest Tournament.

The two Moore brothers, Jack and Jerry, Herb Mayer, Warren Christenson and John Butterfield form the nucleus of the golf squad.

Last year the Huskers bowed to the Washburn crew, 8-7.

Spring is finally springing and the first University Spring Day (a poor man's CU Days) is just around the corner. This should prove interesting to the world of sports, as many ancient athletic events are to be revived.

Such old favorites as wheel barrow races, three-legged races, greased pig chases and various and sundry other items are designed to put the Olympic Games on a neophytic basis.

But no athletic event, I say no athletic event has the tradition behind it that the top contest of the day has. Of course, all of you have recognized the sport I'm speaking of by now. Yes, it's none other than the ever-popular peanut-pushing which heads the Spring Day list.

It is a common fallacy to accept peanut pushing for its face value. Peanut pushing is not, however, without its hazards, as I will attempt to relate to you in the frightening tale of Bullets Borini, the All-American boy and Hernando Hideaway, a Spanish major on a peanut pushing scholarship.

Hernando and Bullets met purely by chance one morning in an Ornithology 9 class when a fierce woodpecker cornered them in the same tree. The logical way out of this precarious position was through a window which was adjacent to the limb that they had gotten out on. So, being logical they climbed through the window and into the Music building when they heard a sweet soprano voice singing that popular melody "I Scuffed My True-Love When She Got Tears In Her Ears From Crying Over Me Laying Down."

Neither Hernando nor Bullets could resist the shimmering tones of the ballad and before you could say Antidiseestablishmentarianism they rushed into the room, where their palpitating hearts threatened to burst asunder. For the singer was indeed as beautiful as the golden tones they had heard.

Hernando, captivated by her beauty whispered "I love you, senorita, you all (he was from Southern Spain). Your very wish is my command."

His companion was not to be outspoken and he quickly dropped to one knee and spouted forth "In all my days at Bessey Hall I have never seen anything as beautiful as you."

The girl smiled, but not being one to be overwhelmed, her blue eyes (all three of them) glistened and being of noble descent she replied: "If both of you mean this, there is but one way out. A duel."

Hernando flexed his mustachio and very slyly countered, "How about something different, something that neither of us would have an advantage over the other upon?" He then shifted his weight off of his mustache and looking rather pensive added "How about peanuts at 50 paces," thinking of his many years of workouts with goobers he chuckled at the thought.

His adversary agreed and the battle was on. Peanuts to the finish. Hernando, elated with his own cunning, raced out to the street and produced two peanuts, while the lovely maiden watched from the window above.

The moment of reckoning had arrived and at the signal Hernando sped away into the gathering twilight, employing the old one-two, a method of peanut pushing familiar only to experienced peanut pushers wherein, the mustache is placed in each end of the peanut forming an axis.

Hernando was so carried away by the ease of it all, he neglected to look up from his peanut and lo and behold, he was engulfed in an oncoming parade. Before he realized it, he had followed the peanut right into the trunk of a bystander elephant.

Needless to say, Hernando lost the duel, the girl, and worst of all, being a Hindu, was reincarnated as a peanut.

So let this be a lesson to all you prospective peanut pushers, don't lose your head and accept the sport for its face value, as our dashing young Hernando did. For you also may learn the hard way.

Nebraskan Awarded Second In Ping-Pong

Ed Sarkissian, graduate geology student from Iran, placed second in the National Intercollegiate Ping-Pong tournament novice singles and second in men's doubles at the annual meet in Athens, Ohio, games during the eliminations and final games for the men's singles place trophy.

A friend from Iran and Sarkissian teamed to place second in the men's doubles division. They also received a trophy.

Sarkissian was sponsored by the Union recreation committee, according to Phyl Kapustka, chairman.

Three important clashes spiced Monday's intramural slate.

In volleyball semi-finals, Gustavson I defeated Selleck, 15-1, 15-6 to earn the right to meet Avery for the Selleck Quadrangle championships, and Alpha Tau Omega conquered the Sig Eps, 17-15, 15-8 for the other final berth in the fraternity A bracket.

Beta Theta Pi is the other finalist. DUs defeated the Betas for the DU's defeated the Betas for the fraternity B bracket title.

Bowling results from Monday saw Sigma Phi Epsilon down Boucher, 4-0, and Sigma Nu drop Brown Palace, 3-1. Delta Sigma Phi took Gustavson II by forfeit and Selleck beat Phi Kappa Psi, also by forfeit.
