Instrumental Duo:

Mitchell-Ruff Slated Wednesday In Union

The Mitchell-Ruff Duo, an instrumental combination, will be the second attraction in the Union Artists' Series.

They will appear Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Union Ballroom. There will be a Meet the Artists session following the performance, Bob Handy, director of Union activities, said.

Dwike Mitchell on the piano and Willie Ruff on the bass and French horn compose the duo. With the use of tonal combinations and other devices, the Duo has both old and new jazz forms in their repertoire.

Building from a classical base, the Duo combines the rhythms of jazz with classical themes to produce inventive chamber music works, Handy said.

Mitchell and Ruff have used more than the usual classical base of Milhaud, Schonberg and Bartok and have drawn heavily from the works of such old masters as Bach, Scarlatti and Beethoven.

The free-flowing ideas of the Romanticist movement in music are employed in most of the Duo's music, but their music is not without modern touches, Handy said.

Ruff and Mitchell met during military service and made their first musical experiments then. Mitchell studied the classics at the Philadelphia Academy of Music following his discharge and appeared as a soloist with the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra.

Later, Mitchell joined the Lionel Hampton group and toured Europe as a member.

Wednesday's Artists

The Mitchell-Ruff Duo, pictured above, will be featured at the second Union Artists Series Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Ballroom. There will be no admission charge. There are two more presentations scheduled in the Artists Series.

Ruff studied music at Yale University. He joined Mitchell with the Lionel Hampton group and they performed there as a duo.

Mitchell and Ruff began working as a separate duo in 1955 and have appeared at several Las Vegas night clubs and at The Elmbars in New York City.

There will be no admission charge for the presentation, Handy said.
