New Presbyterian Chapel

Contracts totaling $85,338 have been approved for the construction of the new Presbyterian-Congregational chapel to be built adjoining the Student House at 333 No. 14th St. Total cost of the structure is estimated at $110,000. Work on the building is scheduled to begin immediately, and it is hoped that the chapel will be completed by April so it can be dedicated at Easter. Included in the new chapel building will be a main chapel, which will seat about 300 persons, a social hall, recreation room, stage, kitchen and administrative offices. "The chapel should help the whole university to realize even more clearly the place of religion in the life of an educated person," Dr. Rex Knowles, pastor of the student house, said.

Ticket Sales:

University Theater Competition Starts

The ninth year of the University Theater Honorary Producer competition begins Tuesday, according to Dallas Williams, director of the theater.

Last year, Chi Omega and Pi Kappa Phi won the contest by selling the most season tickets to the University Theater.

Each house which enters the competition selects an Honorary Producer candidate, according to Williams. The ticket sales period will be between Sept. 25 and Oct. 4.

The man and woman from the two houses selling the most tickets in proportion to the number of members will be selected Honorary Producers for the 1956-57 season.

The honorary Producers and runners-up (two women and two men) will be presented from the stage in appropriate ceremonies at the first performance of "The Desperate Hours," the initial theater production, Oct. 16.

Williams said that an important aspect of this year's contest is the reduced rate of the season passes. "They are $1.50 cheaper this year than they were during the last few seasons. And for the $5 cost, you can see seven top shows," he added.

Williams stated that the winning organizations will receive trophies to be kept during the year and the 1957 Rush week.

"In addition," Williams said, "a page of the Cornhusker will be devoted to pictures of the Honorary Producer Ceremonies."

"Ticket sales are not restricted to members within the organized houses. Tickets may be sold to anyone in any place within the period of the competition," he concluded.

Year's Retreat For Foreign Students Held

Antelope Park was the scene of the annual Foreign Student Retreat Saturday. Approximately 50 students from all parts of the world were fed a picnic lunch by members of NUCWA, the Student Council, CCRC, and other campus organizations.

On hand to welcome the students was Dr. Adam Breckenridge, Dean of Facilities for the University. The Rev. Mr. Rex Knowles, pastor of the Presbyterian-Congregational Student House, delivered a short talk on campus religious organizations.

Robert Knoll, assistant professor of English, acted as the official chaperon for the group.

Also present were members of the Cosmopolitan Club, WAA, YMCA, and YWCA.

Counseling:

Reading Courses Offered

The University Counseling Service, available to all students including graduates, is aimed at solving students' immediate problems and those which may arise in the future, according to Royce Jones, assistant director of the counseling service.

Specific functions are involved in analyzing and solving these problems, such as individual interviews with a counselor, aptitude tests and interest inventories.

The interviews enable the student to plan a suitable course of action. Very often a student is referred to the Occupational Information Library where he can learn what is involved in various types of work.

Reading and study improvement courses are offered each semester. These courses are voluntary, non-credit, non-tuition and available to any University student. The first classes are scheduled to begin Oct. 1.

A student may arrange an appointment to see a counselor at Temporary Building A. Members of the counseling staff are Dr. Wesley Poe, Dr. Royce Jones, Dr. Charles Warnath, Mrs. Ruby Gingles and Mrs. Lois Olive.

Speakers: New Service Now Provided

A newly organized Speakers Service especially designed for men's and women's civic, professional and service organizations and for public school assemblies is being offered by the University for the first time this year.

The only charge for these speakers is a ten dollar booking fee. There are no travel expenses, no honorariums for the speakers.

Anyone wishing to take advantage of this service should write to: University of Nebraska Speakers Service, 1127 R Street, Lincoln, Nebraska.

Outstanding speakers included in the service are: Dr. W. Pfeiler, speaking on "The Privilege of American Citizenship;" Dr. G. W. Rosenlof, speaking on the topic of "Ambassadors of World Understanding," which explains how the exchange of students is breaking down the barriers of ignorance and prejudice.

Clifford Hicks, "Curves and Hills on the Business Map;" Dr. James Olson, "Nebraska Panorama," which relates Nebraska's history; Dr. Carl Georgi, "Victories Over Disease;" Mr. E. Reed, "Basic Resources—Old and New;" Dr. Walter K. Beggs, "Effective Community Action."

Robert Roselle, "Insects; Man's Chief Competitors for Survival;" Dr. Colbert Held, "Town and Country Landscapes in Western Europe."

Professor Linus Smith, "City Planning," which explains plans for community development; Dr. Dale Hayes, "Basic Ingredients of Community Improvement."

Dr. Victor Miller, "Why I Failed," which takes the point of view of the plant in describing why plants do not always perform as expected; Dr. C. Bertrand Schultz, "Nebraska in the Ice Age."

Dr. Carl Schneider, "Report from Germany;" Kenneth Keller, "Speaking of the University," in which he gives a general picture of the University, its accomplishments, its problems and its hopes for the future.

Dr. Merk Hobson, "The Atom and Nebraska's Future;" Mr. Edward Janike, "What Do You Know About Your Country Cousins?" in which he discusses why townspeople should take more than a casual interest in people living in rural areas.

Dr. Varro Tyler, Jr., "The Use and Misuse of Drugs;" Professor Niles Barnard, "How does Nebraska Look to Young Engineers?" Dr. Thomas Dowe, "Beef Steaks From Range To Table."

Dr. Robert Feeney, "The Egg and I (and Biochemistry);" Dr. Otto G. Holberg, "Making the Home Town Better;" Dr. Calvin Reed, "Your Role in Citizenship Education."

Scholarship:

Rhodes Blanks Readied

Assistant Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences Walter Wright, chairman of the University Rhodes Committee, announced this week that applications for Rhodes scholarships will be available at his office, Room 204 Burnett Hall, any time before Oct. 2.

Rhodes Scholarships are tenable at the University of Oxford and available only to unmarried male citizens of the United States, with at least five years domicile, Wright stated.

Other qualifications for eligibility for this scholarship, which has a value of 600 pounds, specify that the applicant has passed his nineteenth and has not passed his twenty-fifth birthday.

A candidate must have reached junior standing before time of application. A complete list of regulations for the contest are available at Dean Wright's office.

In making the thirty-two scholarship appointments assigned annually to United States, the Committees of Selection will have to judge on qualities specified by Cecil Rhodes, Wright said.

Sorority:

Zetas Plan New House Building

Construction on the new Zeta Tau Alpha house is scheduled to begin this fall, according to Pat Coover, president.

The sorority house, to be located at 425 University Terrace, is expected to be completed before Rush Week next fall, Miss Coover said.

Plans for the new house will follow a contemporary design. It is expected to accommodate up to 45 girls.

Until completion of the new house, the Zetas will maintain an off-campus house at 1445 So. 30 St. At present 26 members are housed there, Miss Coover said.

Zeta Tau Alpha is University's newest sorority. It was granted a charter at the University last year and took part in Rush Week for the first time this fall.

Skit:

'Welcome To Pete' Rally Scheduled For Thursday

The Pep Rally, formerly scheduled for Friday, will now be held Thursday at 7 p.m., Don Beck, Yell King, has announced. The Rally will form at Selleck Quadrangle and will march to the Student Union.

The purpose of the rally is to welcome Pete Elliott, who will introduce the 1956 football team to the students. A skit will be given by the Tassels with a "Welcome Pete" theme.

Yell Squad members for the year are Anne Wade, junior in ag college; Karen Krueger, undeclared sophomore; Carol Matcha, sophomore in Teachers College; Frances Jensen, sophomore in Teachers College.

Varsity Debate Meeting Set

All students interested in varsity debate may attend the first meeting of the team Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in Temple Building, Room 301, according to Don Olson, University debate coach. No previous experience is necessary. "Because of the unusual number of debaters lost through graduation, this will be an especially fine year for freshman to work up on the team," Olson stated.

The college debate question this year will be "Resolved, that the United States should discontinue all direct foreign economic aid."

Campus Beauties Relate Contest Thrills

Diane Knotek And Shari Lewis Feel Nebraska Best Place

By DICK SHUGRUE
Copy Editor

This was one of those once-in-a-lifetime opportunities.

Across from me were two queens—Shari Lewis, Nebraska's candidate for Miss Universe and Diane Knotek, the state's Miss America representative.

They were both smiling. I was, too. Then came the inevitable question—Shari popped it: "Well, what would you like to know?"

The two lovelies talked mostly about the wonderful times they had representing the Cornhusker State in contests where their beauty and talent were pitted against that of outstanding American girls—and in Shari's case you can add girls from all over the world.

Diane admitted that at first she had been a little scared. "I guess I felt insecure knowing that I was among all the top girls in the land," she stated. "But when I got to know them, what I really wanted was that each one would succeed."

"Mutual misery" was the term Shari used to describe the way most of the young ladies she was with felt about the Miss Universe contest. She explained that the Miss Universe had to be willing to give up all for the contest and for the year.

"But there wasn't any feeling of superiority. None of us felt better than the next girl. The idea, though, that I was there with beauty surrounding me was enough to take my breath away," Shari said.

At least until Nov. 6, Shari Lewis, Nebraska's candidate in the Miss Universe contest and Diane Knotek, the young lady who went to the Miss America contest from the state will be helping Nebraska editor Sam Jensen.

The project? The Lancaster County "Pogo for President" campaign. Jensen is county campaign manager for the I'll possess in his perennial campaign for the nation's top office. The beauties will be boosting Pogo—and Jensen as honorary co-chairmen of the campaign.

secrets I asked the girls what the most beautiful girls in the world talk about when they get together. Shari laughed "Oh, just idle chatter . . . girl talk."

That apparently means "men." Nebraska's Miss Universe said that the biggest thrill she had was being with "such wonderful people from all over the world and knowing that they think like Diane or I do."

"We were alike there even to the little insignificant details of living." Diane said that her biggest thrill came when Life magazine was taking color pictures and "we were just sitting around trying to while away the time." She said that they sang together and thought together and she was part of a wonderful honor.

Home, though, had captured the hearts of both of the University co-eds. To Diane it was the "best place to be." To Shari, "It's the place where I feel I can relax."

And the future? Diane, who won a talent scholarship, hopes to be able to make something for her future from it. Shari feels her future lies somewhere in Nebraska.

Whatever they do, Nebraska is proud of its two lovely beauty queens.
