Parking permits for Areas A-D, on the City Campus, and 1-5 on Agriculture Campus entitle the holder to park in those areas only.

Student permits are available only to those whose Lincoln residence is eight blocks or more from the campus.

Residents of Selleck Quad must secure parking permits for the lot east of 17th street at North Side Avenue. Residents of the Womens Residence Hall may obtain permits for the lot at the rear of the Hall. These permits are good only for these lots on the City Campus, but will be honored in student areas on the Agriculture Campus.

Students not included in the above group may secure permits for the lot east of 17th Street at North Side Avenue.

Students with physical disabilities certified by the Student Health Center may secure parking permits even if they live less than eight blocks from the campus.

No cars may be parked on the campus without a permit or parked in areas not entitled by the permit. No cars shall be parked on red or green lines, in any service drive, in any space marked "No Parking" or in any crosswalk.

The speed limit on all campus streets is 15 miles per hour. Cars must come to a full halt at all stop signs.

All student-operated cars must be registered with the Campus Police at time of registration, even though the operator may not be eligible for a parking permit.

These regulations became effective Sept. 19 for the current year. For violation of any of the above regulations, a fine of one dollar is charged. Fines are payable at Police Headquarters, Geography Building, Room 4, within five days after receipt. If unpaid after five days the fine will increase to $2 and if unpaid after 10 days will increase to $4.

A student may appeal issuance or payment of a traffic ticket to the Student Council Parking Committee, which is authorized to review and recommend disposition of the case to the Dean of the Division of Student Affairs.

A student may appeal the decision of the Dean of the Division of Student Affairs to the Committee on Conduct Appeals and subsequently to the Chancellor. The Parking Committee meets at 4 p.m. Thursday in the Union, Room 305.

Students and staff members receiving in excess of five parking tickets per semester shall have their permits removed.

Students, whether eligible for parking permits or not, must report changes on cars and license plates during the year.

Student and staff members who change cars during the year must remove parking stickers from the windshield and return the pieces to obtain another parking sticker.

General traffic violations include red line parking, backing into stall, parking in drives, center of lot parking, failure to stop at stop sign, parking without a permit, parking in faculty area, careless driving, speeding, taking two stalls and parking for more than 15 minutes on the green line.

Young Named Chairman

Dr. George Young, Saturday was named chairman of the department of animal pathology and hygiene by the University's Board of Regents.

He succeeds Dr. Carl Olson Jr., who resigned last week.

Dr. Young received his bachelor of science degree from the University of Nebraska in 1933, and his doctor of veterinary medicine from Cornell University in 1943.

He came to the University staff as professor of animal pathology and hygiene in 1955 from the University of Minnesota, where he served from 1946-55.

Dr. Young is author of numerous professional articles, particularly on swine influenza and swine pediatrics.

In other personnel changes, the Regents placed on retirement five faculty members. They are:

—Irving Blake, professor of zoology, emeritus, who has served for 30 years. Dr. Blake was chairman of the department from 1946-53. He has taught courses in ecology, fish and game, comparative anatomy, histology, and embryology.

—Harald G. O. Holck, professor of pharmacology, emeritus, who joined the Nebraska staff in 1936. In addition to his teaching duties and being acting chairman of the department of pharmacology, Dr. Holck has carried on an extensive research program. One of his major research fields was the study of sex-variation in resistance by rats to certain hypnotics. He will continue at the University as research associate and consultant in the air pollution studies being conducted by the department of physiology.

Student Parking Violation Appeals Procedure Told

The Student Council Parking Board will meet each Thursday at 4 p.m. in Room 305 of the Union to review parking violation appeals.

A parking ticket may be appealed by requesting an appeal at the police office Room 5 in the Geography Building.

A student may appeal his parking violation ticket by appearing personally, sending a representative to present his appeal, or presenting his appeal by letter to the Park Board.

If, after requesting an appeal at the Police Office, he fails to make an appeal at the Thursday appeal session to which he has been assigned, he will lose his right of appeal.

Unless he contacts the Police Office before his assigned session and requests an excuse or an extension of time in which to appeal, he loses his right to appeal.

If he loses his right of appeal, his fine will again start to run after the appeal session that was missed.

Appeals will be presented to the Parking Board in the following manner: 1. Present the ticket. 2. Explain the fact situation surrounding the accused violation. 3. State the reason for appeal.

An appeal by a representative or by letter will not be acted upon by the Board if in its opinion the presentation was inadequate. If the Board fails to act in such a situation, the student will be notified as to what action should be taken.

Appeals by letter must be in the hands of the Board by the time of the assigned session.

In all cases if the student was in any way unable to comply with these regulations, he must notify the Police Office before his assigned session.

A student is entitled to appeal his case to the Dean of Student Affairs if his failure to comply with these regulations results in the loss of his right to appeal to the Parking Board, or if his appeal is denied by the Parking Board.

Appeals must be in by noon Thursday of the assigned appeal day.

Alumni Association Has 8000 Members

The Alumni Association of the University has as large a potential membership pool as any organization could hope for—over 80,000 students have attended the University since its founding in 1869.

Although many of these one-time students are now dead or have lost contact with the Association, there are now 8000 active members and a drive is continually underway for new members.

The major function of the Alumni Association is to keep the alumni informed of the expanding requirements of the University, according to Arnold Magnuson, Alumni Secretary.

Its objective, as set down by the constitution, is "to foster a spirit of loyalty and fraternity among graduates and former students of the University of Nebraska in an organized cooperative effort to do any and all things of every kind and nature that will insure to the development, achievement and honor of the University of Nebraska."

To accomplish this the Association is governed by a Board of Directors consisting of 35 members from all points in the United States, Magnuson said. Along with these directors are 35 active alumni clubs, most of which are located in major cities throughout the country.

The Association's function of informing alumni is especially important now prior to the meeting of the state legislature, Magnuson said.

The University Administration contemplates a 70 per cent increase in enrollment during the next ten years and adequate facilities must be provided to handle the influx, he added.

A major duty of the Alumni Association is to publish The Alumnus, the University's alumni magazine. Edited by Phil Holman, the magazine was recently rated among the top 13 alumni magazines in the country.

The Homecoming Reunion in the fall and the annual Alumni Round-up during Commencement weekend are major Association-directed programs. At the Roundup the Association presents five Distinguished Service Awards for "Outstanding service to the University and to their profession" to alumni.

Six freshmen Alumni Scholarships were awarded this fall to freshmen, Magnuson said.

The Alumni office maintains the only biographical and occupational record on the over 80,000 former students, and has the only active records of such a nature. The mailing room handles more than 500,000 pieces of mail each year and maintains an active addressograph plate file.

Approximately 50 per cent of graduates and former students of the University live in Nebraska. A project is now underway to organize more active clubs in the state.

James Stuart of Lincoln is presently national association president.

Building: 'New Face' To Improve NU Campus

A multi-million dollar construction project for improvements on the University campus will soon place a "new face" on several parts of the Ag and city campuses.

Building projects totaling $1,730,000 got underway at the College of Agriculture campus during April. This represents the greatest amount of construction to be underway at any one time in the history of the College.

Construction is now underway on a $750,000 building for the department of biochemistry and nutrition and on three residence halls, two for men and one for women, at a total of $900,000.

The biochemistry building is being financed by revenue from the current ten-year state 1.1 mill building program. The dormitories are being financed by University bonds, to be retired by rentals paid by students living in the residence halls.

The residences for men are three story brick buildings which will accommodate 236 students on the basis of two students per room. The women's residence hall will accommodate 70 students. The buildings are expected to be completed by September, 1957.

The newly constructed buildings are affiliated with the College of Medicine in Omaha. They include the Children's Rehabilitation Center and the $5,000,000 Clarkson Hospital.
