Tryouts Today:

NU Theater To Present 'Garden's' World Premiere

By DICK SHUGRUE Copy Editor

When tryouts for the second University Theater production of the year, "Garden of Asclepius," begins Dallas Williams, Oscar Mandel and Max Whittaker, will be well on their way toward working out the show's problems.

Mandel, an assistant professor of English, is the author of the drama, Williams, the director of University Theater, will handle the technical aspects for the show and Whittaker will direct it.

The University Theater will present the world premiere of "Garden of Asclepius" Nov. 16.

Mandel, naturally excited about his first produced play, had this to say, "Of course it is a most interesting experience to write a play and to be in touch with the production from the moment casting begins."

Williams, Mandel and Whittaker have discussed many of the aspects of the drama which is based on Greek mythology. "After the play is cast we can see just what type of scenery will be appropriate," Mandel said.

"This is a learning experience for me, too. While I watch those closely associated with the theater working my play out I can learn what technical difficulties to avoid in the future," Professor Mandel added.

"The play," Mandel noted, "has been written for production. It is not one of the so called closet dramas which are written merely for the enjoyment of the reader."

"I expect some changes in the script—none too drastic—though," he said. "This is an idea play. "Garden of Asclepius" involves the love of a stepmother for her husband's son. When the husband left for war, the stepmother wanted to have an affair with the boy."

"However," Mandel commented, "the son rejected his step mother."

The Publications Board determines staff members for the Nebraska and Carhusker, and for that reason should be conversant with the work involved in these publications and the operation of them, he said.

In addition to the student members, the Publication Board is composed of W. C. Harper, director of University Services; Hallgren, Assistant Dean of Student Affairs; Ken Keller of the Public Relations Office, and three teaching-faculty members, Neff said. These three teaching-faculty members are appointed by the Committee on Student Affairs, of which the Publications Board is a sub-committee.

Regular Students:

Hardin Reports Increase In Enrollment To 8387

A fall enrollment at the University of 8387 regular students, or an increase of 535 students over the same period last year, was reported today by Chancellor Clifford Hardin.

This is the fourth successive year that the University has shown a substantial gain in regular students, he said.

The enrollment record of 10,153 was set immediately after World War II.

The increase, comparable to adding a small college to the University, does not include 2,650 students who are enrolled in the University's evening and off-campus courses.

Dr. Hardin explained that the final enrollment probably will pass the 8,400 mark as additional Graduate College registrations are expected in the next few weeks.

The break-down follows: College of Agriculture, 1,008; Business Administration, 1,088; Teachers College, 1,333; Arts and Sciences, 1,214; College of Engineering and Architecture, 1,750; Pharmacy, 122; Dentistry, 123; Law, 166; Junior Division, 221; Students at large, 50; Teachers College Advanced Professional, 189; Graduate College, 680; College of Medicine, 317; Nursing, 105; and medical technicians and X-Ray technicians, 21.

Of the total enrollment, 6,286 are male students and 2,101 are women.

Dr. Hardin said the increase was remarkable because the number of high school graduates in the state has remained approximately at the same level during the past four years.

The increase in the University's enrollment has been the result of youth in furthering their education and not by increased birth rates.

Convocation Set Thursday

Chancellor Hardin will address the student body on the general subject of the "State of the University" Thursday, at 11 a.m. in the Coliseum at an All-University Convocation, according to James Pittenger, Administrative Assistant.

This will be the first time that Chancellor Hardin has held such a Convocation, Pittenger said. If the students appear interested, the speech may become an annual event, Pittenger stated.

Chemistry: Professor Named To Cancer Post

Dr. Norman Cromwell, professor of chemistry at the University, has been named to the newly created Cancer Chemotherapy Study Section of the U.S. Public Health Service, it was announced Sunday.

Meeting periodically in Washington, D.C., the committee is composed of non-government scientists selected on a national-wide basis.

It recommends to the National Advisory Cancer Council research grants in the field of cancer chemotherapy — the treatment with chemical compounds which have a toxic effect on malignant cells without poisoning the patient.

The committee also surveys the status of research in the cancer field to determine areas in which research activities should be initiated or expanded.

The term of the appointment is for four years.

Dr. Cromwell just recently received a $16,000 grant for research in cancer chemotherapy. He has been doing chemical research in this particular field for several years. For the past four years he has served on the Experimental Therapeutics and Pharmacology Study Section of the U.S. Public Health Service.

Ak-Sar-Ben: Dallas Hunt Gets Omaha Rodeo Title

Dallas Hunt of Lincoln, 18-year-old University freshman, was crowned Queen of the Ak-Sar-Ben Rodeo Sunday afternoon.

She won over six other contestants representing rodeos in Iowa, North Dakota and Nebraska.

Miss Hunt was representing the Burwell Rodeo Association.

It was the fifth rodeo title which she has won. Her other crowns were Queen of the Sutherland Rodeo, The Nebraska High School Rodeo and the National School Rodeo at Harrison.

She has been Burwell Rodeo Queen for the past two years.

As regional winner, Miss Hunt will fly to Chicago to take part in the Golden Spurs Contest to compete for the title Miss Rodeo American this Wednesday. She will meet competition from twelve sections of the country.

Contestants will be judged on personality, appearance, and horsemanship. The winner of the contest receives a two-week trip to Las Vegas, a television and movie contract, and will appear with Gene Autry and Annie Oakley on their circuit for the remainder of the year.

Miss Hunt said she was "pleasantly surprised" and "quite shocked" when she won her new title.

She is a freshman in Arts and Sciences and a pledge of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

The Golden Spurs Contest was originated to give girls who have horse back riding as their talent in the Miss America contest a chance for recognition in their field.

This interest factor will add to the so-called flood tide of students which is expected to skyrocket the University's enrollment in the 60's, he said.

Dr. Hardin said a study prepared by Dr. Floyd W. Hoover, registrar, shows that by 1964, the University's enrollment potential—that is, 12th graders in the Nebraska public schools—will have increased by 40 per cent. And, he added, this is a conservative figure.

Kay Nielsen, Kappa Alpha Theta sophomore, was selected by the judges as the 1956 Derby Day Queen in the featured event of the day's competition.

The horse and rider fight, one of three mystery events, resulted in a draw between the Pi Phi's and Alpha Chi Omega. Each rider was fully equipped with an egg on her head and a dead carp in hand and attempted to allude the other contestants in pursuit.

The Balloon Relay started off the competition. Pi Beta Phi, with trackers Julie Hatheway, Gene Brandt, and Pat Rolfs, lead the field all the way and dashed home to victory.

Informal Survey: Pogo Campaign Ends; Close Race Predicted

Monday marked the finish of the Nebraska's Pogo Contest as the front runners in both divisions poured almost 400 questionnaires into campaign headquarters.

All indications point to an extremely close race between Pi Beta Phi and Alpha Omicron Omega in the women's division. When the polls closed both organizations were nearing the 500 mark in possum point tabulations.

Acacia fraternity, in an eleven-hour blitzkrieg movement, stormed ahead of last week's leader in the men's division, Sigma Alpha Epsilon. Nothing definite can be said about this race, however, as claims from Beta Theta Pi and Sigma Chi seem very optimistic.

Complete results of the contest, including a valid summary of the contest, will be disclosed at the weekly Nebraska Press Luncheon on Friday.

The Pogo Questionnaire was designed to discover the relative amount of enthusiasm each contestant possessed for his actual choice for president, Bob Ireland, associate campaign manager stated.

Results from the Pogo Election Questionnaire will enable the Nebraska to state very definitely the University student's actual presidential preference.

If a student does not choose Pogo on the first ballot and instead selects the of Adlai he is manifesting expression of enthusiastic party support, according to Ireland.

Almost 2500 questionnaires have been turned in to Pogo for President headquarters at the Nebraska office.

A total of 4000 questionnaires have been distributed to various organizations by Pogo for President chairmen.

The purpose of the Pogo campaign was not only to provide for an informal survey of student political opinion but to give the current election a bit of humor.
