Chancellor Optimistic

In an all student convocation Thursday, Chancellor Hardin spoke of the difficult staff problem faced by the University. Maintaining that "the University is very proud of its standards", he pointed out the financial problems faced by the Administration regarding the staff. The Chancellor also mentioned the parking problem and the expansion of the physical plant of the University. Ending on a note of optimism, the Chancellor declared, "with student thinking positive, with student interest bright and with student spirit high, the University is on its way."

Convocation: University Problems Reported By Hardin

In a "State of the University" convocation report, Chancellor Clifford Hardin told students Thursday morning that "we are facing a difficult staff problem."

Dr. Hardin said he appreciated the devotion of the staff to the University. "I know that many of them have turned down offers to go elsewhere at higher salaries. I know that many of them will receive even more attractive financial offers in the future."

The Chancellor said that the concern over the teaching situation "involves a great deal more than just employing enough people to preside over classrooms, laboratories and lecture halls."

"Our University is very proud of its standards. This University deals in quality education."

"What success we will have in the immediate future in obtaining the financial support necessary to keep our quality staff intact and at the same time add to it, remains to be seen."

Commenting on the University traffic and parking problems, the Chancellor said "I think we have been especially fortunate so far in avoiding a serious traffic accident."

He stated that expansion of the physical plant of the University means the elimination of some of the available parking places on campus.

"As most of you know, plans are now being made for an extensive addition to the Student Union. When those plans reach the construction stage the parking area north of the present Union building will go out of service."

He stated that plans for acquiring new parking areas on the periphery of the campus are being developed.

The University, he stated, has obtained the land at 17th and Vine for parking of student and faculty cars.

The physical plant, Dr. Hardin noted, is up to a point at which it should have been in about 1949.

"In 1947 the Nebraska Legislature enacted a 10-year building program for state institutions. The University has been receiving about $1.3 million a year for construction purposes," the Chancellor said.

"The University is asking for a continuation of the program so that we can proceed with plans for a Music Building, a new building for the Physics Department, a Library at the College of Agriculture and new classroom facilities."

Dr. Hardin said that the force which concerns the University the most at the present time is growth. Growth means more classes and a larger staff, he said.

Pi Xi Activity: University Suspends Two For Vandalism

Two University students, Ronald Speer, 23, and Veldon Lewis, 25, have been suspended as a result of vandalism and alleged association with Pi Xi, local secret fraternity.

The two men were apprehended by campus policemen early Tuesday morning at 14th and U streets where Pi Xi signs had been recently painted. The incident occurred at 3 a.m.

According to J. P. Colbert, Dean of Student Affairs, Lewis and Speer may apply for readmission to the University next semester. Speer is a junior in the College of Arts and Sciences. Lewis is a junior in the College of Business Administration.

Pogo Poll: Pi Beta Phi, Acacia, Ike Win NU Acclamation

Pi Beta Phi sorority copped first place in the women's division of the Pogo Contest with 550 possum points.

Pledge president Marilyn Pickert, Karen Peterson and Julie Dowell led the Pi Phi's to victory over second place Alpha Omicron Pi, which compiled 478 possum points.

In the men's division Acacia fraternity lead the field with 472 possum points. Sigma Alpha Epsilon took second place, accumulating 327 points.

The winners in each division will receive Pogo Booster's Awards. The Pi Phi's will also have the Innocents Society's services for a three hour period while the victorious Acacia's will have Diane Knotek and Shari Lewis over to one of their Monday night dinners.

According to the results of the recent Pogo for President election questionnaire President Eisenhower is the choice of over 70 per cent of the University student body.

The Pogo poll, which involved approximately 2500 University students, shows 1776 preferences for Eisenhower and 699 votes for the Democratic aspirant, Adlai Stevenson.

The Pogo questionnaire was designed to reveal how much enthusiasm a student actually possessed for his actual choice for president, Ike or Adlai.

Question number one stated, "Which slate of candidates are you supporting in the 1956 presidential election?" (Candidates listed red Ike and 124 liked Adlai.

Pogo officials have concluded that the support given to Ike and Adlai on the first question is indicative of close party affiliation.

The second question stated, "If you are supporting the Pogo ticket what is your second choice?" (Candidates listed were Ike and Adlai.) Of 2043 votes cast, 1468 liked Ike and 575 preferred Adlai.

A final breakdown of actual campus voting sympathy reveals 1776 for Ike, either on the first or second questions, and a 699 vote total for Adlai.

Percentage wise these figures show 71.8 per cent of the polled students to be pro-Eisenhower and 28.2 per cent pro-Adlai.

Campaign: Pamphlet Explains Fund Use

All University Fund has put out a pamphlet for 1956 which will explain to the students how the money that they donate to AUF will be used, Sam Jensen, AUF vice president, said Thursday.

"This pamphlet is to be an educational service to donors and AUF solicitors," Jensen explained. "We want the students to understand why they give to AUF."

The pamphlets will be available during the AUF Drive from Oct. 23 to Nov. 6, in the AUF booth in the Union. Jan Shradler, board member in charge of worker education, edited the pamphlet.

Pamphlets will also be supplied to the "captains" of teams soliciting independent students living in Lincoln. Judy Lundt, board member in charge of independent solicitations, said.

Organized houses form teams that go to the homes of independent students to give these students a chance to give to AUF, Miss Lundt explained.

Jensen said, "We hope that these pamphlets will help both donors and solicitors to understand AUF and its intermediary position between the student and the charities that AUF supports."

Nineteen sorority and fraternity doormats, porch floors and sidewalks were painted Tuesday morning, Sgt. Furrow said.

The Pi Xi's have been active for the past three or four years, according to Furrow, but Tuesday's arrests were the first.

The Outside World: Stevenson Levels Charges

Democratic presidential aspirant Adlai Stevenson said the country's natural resources "have been invaded and turned to selfish private purposes" under the Eisenhower administration.

In a Pittsburgh television studio Stevenson not only accused the president of making a "gross misstatement" of the record but blasted him for saying the Republican party has ended "special favoritism, cronyism and laxity" in Washington.

Stevenson declared that the facts are written in "the record of the Dixon-Yates contract" and in the natural resources give-away.

game. The Universities fraternities, sororities are preparing to give lodging to at least 500 Iowa State students. The Iowa State ticket sale committee is going all out to get as many IS students to come to Lincoln for the game.

Game Rated Toss-up:

Cyclone Invasion Hits NU Saturday

Over 500 strong, students from Iowa State College will descend upon the University Campus Saturday for what may be the largest migration in the history of the Iowa College.

The Crimson and Gold should give the Huskers no small amount of trouble as the game is rated as a "tossup" by football experts.

According to Bev Deepe, no official plans have been made for the Iowa State Mortar Boards to meet formally with Nebraska's honorary group during the week-end.

Iowa State students will congregate in front of the Union for a pep rally before the game, and after the game there will be an Iowa State-Nebraska student get-together.

Iowa State Coach Vince DiFrancesca's three-year plan reaches a culmination point this year and Iowans are expecting big things from their team.

Highly rated Terry Ingram, who hails from Des Moines, will lead the Cyclone offensive attack. Ingram paced the Iowans in their victory over Denver a few weeks ago.

Included in the Iowa delegation will be "Cy" the Cardinal, an eight-foot, mascot and pep band. The band will join a parade of cars from Cyclone-land and breeze through the campus sometime Saturday morning or early afternoon. Almost 40 cars should be included in the string of vehicles.

A Model-A Ford painted in the school colors will lead the procession. An impromptu pep rally by Iowa State cheerleaders is also in the offing.

Many of the students will stay in fraternity and sorority houses on the campus. Transportation is being coordinated by the Student government migration committee. The committee has also prepared a map which shows the best route to Lincoln from Ames.

The migrating Iowa students will sit in a reserved section in the west stadium.

"The enthusiasm on the campus has been very apparent since Monday," Cooper said. "The whole college is entirely aware of the Nebraska trip."

Many students are taking advantage of the relatively short distance to Lincoln, he said. Cooper explained that in the past Iowa State had taken migrations to Colorado University and other distant campuses.

The game Saturday will be the Cornhuskers' first Big Seven Conference contest.

Iowa State has played two games so far this year. Against Denver two weeks ago they emerged victorious to the tune of a 13 to 10 score.

The Cyclones battled Northwestern last Saturday, losing 13 to 14, in a game which was not decided until the last few minutes. The Iowans ground out 181 yards in the fourth quarter against their Big 10 opponents.

Husker coach Pete Elliott terminated contact work Wednesday. Captain LaVerne Torczon, halfback Larry Navaux and fullback Leo George abstained from actual scrimmage because of minor ailments. All will be ready for action Saturday.
