

Kosmet Klub Fall Review Reinstated On Campus

Mens Variety Show Slated For Dec. 14

The Kosmet Klub Fall Review "Classical Capers" banned last year by the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs has been fully reinstated and will take place in the Coliseum Dec. 14, Bill Bedwell, president, announced.

In a letter dated June 4, the Committee granted the Kosmet Klub permission to put on their review under certain stipulations set down by the Committee.

On May 29 the Klub appealed for reinstatement, presenting a proposed plan for the presentation of their show. The stipulations set down by the committee were taken largely from this proposed plan, Bedwell said.

The main reason the show was objected to last fall was because of the master of ceremonies, Bedwell said. This year there will be an active undergraduate member of the Klub acting as announcer instead of a master of ceremonies from outside the Klub, he added.

Jokes and stories told by last year's master of ceremonies, Marshall Kushner, University graduate, brought objections from older persons in the audience. These objections resulted in the banning of the show last fall.

The stipulations include the following points:

1. Kosmet Klub takes full responsibility for the production of an "acceptable and unobjection-

Orientation sessions for freshmen and new students who sign up for All University Fund at the AWS Activities Mart have been scheduled for Thursday, according to Jeanne Elliott, AUF president.

The purpose of the orientation sessions is to educate the new workers on the background and purpose of AUF so that they will be prepared to help with the AUF fall drive beginning Oct. 23, Miss Elliott said.

Three sessions have been planned in order that more students may attend. Workers will sign up for an orientation session at the same time they sign up for AUF at the Activities Mart.

Times of the orientations are Thursday from 3 to 3:30 p.m. and 3:30 to 4 p.m., both led by Judy Bost and Sam Jensen, and 4 to 4:30 p.m., headed by Ben Belmont and Bev Buck.

The director of the show will be Jim Boling, senior in Business Administration. Assistant director will be Morgan Holmes, junior in

IFC Petition Requests Return Of Annual Ball

The Interfraternity Council will petition the faculty committee on student affairs for permission to again hold the Interfraternity Council Ball at the Turnpike Ballroom.

Sam Ellis, IFC president, brought the motion before the IFC meeting in regular session Wednesday evening. Ellis said that if the committee accepts the petition of the IFC, it will be up to house presidents and IFC officers to aid county officials in insuring that the event will be "an orderly party."

Text of the proposal follows: "The Interfraternity Council requests the permission of the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs to hold an Interfraternity Council Ball at the Turnpike. The Council's right to hold a party at Turnpike was withdrawn two years ago after the IFC Ball that Spring.

"The IFC is willing to cooperate with the University in having this party and will make every reasonable effort to see that the spirit of University social regulations is carried out. In order to best do this, the Council will hire an adequate force of County Deputy's to assure the good conduct and safety of the students attending. In addition we will make each house president responsible for the conduct of the members of his fraternity and in any case where the house president does not act effectively the Interfraternity Council will take action against the fraternity involved."

Ellis admitted that the section referring to discipline of member fraternities was "vague." He also stated that the withdrawal of the right to hold the Ball at the Turnpike was a result of "bad conduct on the part of a few individuals."

The committee on student affairs withdrew the IFC's privilege of holding the annual dance at an off-campus location last fall in a message from J. P. Colbert, Dean of Student Affairs.

Fraternity members believed the action was a result of drinking which took place openly at the dance. The IFC considered the possibility of holding the dance at the Coliseum, but this proposal was overwhelmingly rejected.

Last year's IFC officers stated that a dance held at the Coliseum would very likely result in a financial loss. The IFC then voted against having a dance in 1956. The event is usually held in the early spring.

An almost unanimous vote empowered Ellis to appear before the faculty committee with the proposal.

In other business, the IFC passed a motion stating that fraternity pledge classes would no longer carry banners at pep rallies with the name of the fraternity on the banner.

Ellis said it was the consensus that recent disturbances at the rallies had been caused by fraternity pledge classes and the situation was "getting way out of hand."

Paul Zucker, Beta Sigma Psi president, said most of the men bothering pledges of his fraternity were from Selleck Quad.

Several IFC fraternity representatives agreed that the cause for the past incidents had centered in competition among pledge classes to place their banners in a strategic position during the parade and the rally.

Don Beck, Yell King, said that fraternities have been giving good support to the rallies, but more work was needed in providing team spirit and University spirit, and not just fraternity spirit.

Dr. Rex Knowles, All University Fund advisor, addressed the meeting earlier concerning the coming AUF drive.

K-State 'Up' For Huskers, Mertes Says

Kansas State Coach Bus Mertes promises his squad will be up for the contest between the Wildcats and the Nebraska Cornhuskers Saturday.

The Cats have bowed to Oklahoma A. and M., 27-7, Colorado, 34-0, and Oklahoma, 66-0.

Expecting to carry the load for the Wildcats is their leading scorer from last year, Ralph Pfeifer, who scored 36 points and had a yards per carry average of 4.7.

Other outstanding players for the Kansas include Dick Corbin, junior quarterback, Ken Nesmith, senior halfback and Captain Ellis Rainsberger, senior guard and tackle.

The Cornhuskers have been working hard this past week in preparing to hurdle another hump on the way to the Orange Bowl.

They have especially worked hard on their passing attack. So far this year they have completed 11 out of 21 for 161 yards. Quarterback Roy Stinnett has seven completions in 12 tries to become the number one tosser.

Off Campus Houses Seek Parking Spots

The Student Council Wednesday approved a motion that the Council parking board investigate the possibility of providing for parking spaces near Love Library for the use of off-campus organized houses.

The matter came up when John Kinnier, representing the Co-op Council, moved that parking space be reserved near the Library for Brown Palace Co-op. Two weeks previously the council had passed a motion calling for the parking board to look into the possibility of getting similar space for Delta Upsilon fraternity.

After Kinnier's first motion lost, he moved that the motion involving the DU's be reconsidered. Mick Neff, Council vice-president announced that research into the matter had already begun, and that the board was seeing if space could be attained for all off-campus houses, not particularly the DU's.

The Council then passed the motion covering the action being taken by the Board.

Atlantic: Hope Dims For Missing AF Plane

Hope dimmed Friday morning for the rescue of 50 Lincoln-based Air Force personnel missing in the Atlantic aboard a U.S. Military Air Transport Service plane.

As an extensive air-sea search went into the second day, Air Force officials reported no sight of wreckage nor radio contact with any possible survivors.

The plane was returning 50 Air Force personnel to Lincoln from England Thursday and carried a crew of nine Navy personnel. Of the 50 passengers, two officers and eight enlisted men lived off the base and listed Lincoln addresses, one lived in Milford and 39 lived at the base.

Air Force officials were optimistic because of good weather, relatively calm seas and the abundance of survival equipment aboard the plane, a military version of the DC-6. An Air Force official said Thursday there were "more than enough" life rafts and "if a landing was made at sea without breaking up the plane, chances for survival and rescue are excellent."

Other members of the committee include Bev Deepe, John Kinnier, Ann Pickett, Monroe Usher.

The three student members of the Pub Board will be selected by the Student Council. They will include one senior, one junior and one sophomore.

The Pub Board Committee will screen the eighteen applicants and will select six final nominees whom they will recommend to the Student Council.

The six nominees will consist of two each from the senior, junior and sophomore classes.

The Council will make the final selection, and any applicant may be nominated from the floor even though he may not have been among the six nominated by the Pub Board Committee.
