Delta Gamma Takes Top Honors In Penny Carnival

Delta Gamma was announced as the winner of Penny Carnival Friday. Chi Omega and Delta Delta Delta tied for second place and Kappa Kappa Gamma and Alpha Xi Delta took honorable mention honors.

The booths were judged on the basis of originality attractiveness and audience appeal. Members of the judging committee were Miss Helen Snyder, Mrs. Frieda Spaulding and Bruce Kendall.

Decision of the winner was determined 40 per cent on student voting and 60 per cent on the votes of the judges.

About 2000 people attended the Carnival, according to Carolyn Williams, assistant chairman. "The new system of selling tickets for two different times made the Carnival go much more smoothly", she said.

The theme of the winning booth was "Hit the Headlines". The booth was decorated in newspapers. Contestants attempted to throw folded newspapers through holes cut in the backdrop.

The theme of the Chi Omega Booth was Chi O Construction Co. Contestants at this booth tried to throw chunks of "mud" into a "steam shovel" whose claws moved up and down, opening and closing.

The Delta Delta Delta theme was "Rope your Gal in the Delta Corral." Girls in this booth sat upon sawhorses and players tried to loop a lasso over them.

In the Alpha Xi Delta booth, contestants attempted to throw silver horse shoes through a spinning lariat. Players at the Kappa Kappa Gamma booth threw a beanbag onto the mouth of a mouse's head.

Last year's winner of Penny Carnival was Alpha Xi Delta with a theme of "Paris Can-can".

Other participants in Penny Carnival, themes and Booth chairman included: Alpha Chi Omega, "Join the Penny Parade", Alyce Fritchman and Kay Turney; Alpha Xi Delta,

The Outside World: Polish Defiance Continues

Communist Poland's defiance of Moscow by declaring independence from the Moscow controlled organization has brought about four major developments within the past 24 hours:

- 1. Two or three Soviet cruisers have appeared off the Polish seaport of Danzig, reportedly on maneuvers.
2. The Russian army officer in command of the Warsaw district, Gen. Franciszek Andriejewski, has disappeared from his post at night, apparently going to the Soviet Union.
3. A movement has started inside the Kremlin to remove Nikita Krushchey from his top post in the Soviet party because of his personality and the rough way he carried out overall policies.
4. Communist Poland's apparently successful defiance of Moscow has heartened U.S. officials, but nevertheless the official Red party in Poland reaffirmed their firm ties with the Soviet Union. They also said it would be naive to consider the new freedom would swing their policies to the West. They warned West German Konrad Adenauer not to meddle in the development of their freedom and told President Eisenhower their change did not give the U.S. the right to interfere with Poland's internal affairs.

Saboteur Convicted

The Colorado Supreme Court Monday upheld the conviction of air-liner dynamiter John Gilbert Graham and ordered the 24-year-old saboteur executed in the state's gas chamber during the week ending Jan. 19, for the bomb plot that killed 44 persons.

Regents Drop Curriculum Of Arch Engineering

Virtue Of Sharing

University students will again be confronted with the decision whether or not to give to the All University Fund Drive this week.

Students will be asked to give money—dollars and cents. There are no special gimmicks. No popularity contests. We are being asked to give in the spirit of charity.

On many campuses, student organizations raise relatively small amounts through special promotions much the same as the people of Ogden Nash's poem who "... have heard of unemployment and they've heard of breadlines, and they philanthropically cure them all by getting up a costume charity ball."

When we give to AUF we are giving to Cancer and Heart, we give to the uneducable children of LARC School and the diseased student of Asia, we are giving to people we may never see, but nevertheless it is a personal gift, for we give of ourselves.

There is a certain acknowledged virtue in giving when it is realized that what we are indeed doing is sharing—and few persons have as much to share as do students at the University of Nebraska.

Action Misinterpreted

The action of the University's Board of Regents Saturday in discontinuing the curriculum of architectural engineering has been misinterpreted in some cases as elimination of the department of architecture.

Linus Burr Smith, department chairman, said Monday he had received calls from high school teachers expressing regret that the University has dropped the study of architecture.

He said the confusion arose because many people refer to architecture as "architectural engineering."

In effect, he added, the Regents merely dropped the name of architectural engineering which was one of two curricula to comply with the practice of most state examining boards.

Smith explained: "Practically no state examining board recognizes a professional division entitled architectural engineering. The graduate must, therefore, become registered as either an architect or an engineer."

"If the student chooses engineering, he should enter one of the traditional engineering courses," Dean Roy M. Green of the Engineering College said the move will emphasize rather than de-emphasize the architects profession.

"Some confusion exists in the minds of those people who would hire an architect and find that they have obtained the services of an engineer," Dean Green stated.

The Regents' action means that now there will be separate degrees in architecture and in engineering. "There will be less confusion now when the services of either the engineer or the architect is needed. They will both be able to work together, one in the area of the structural aspects and the other in design, Dean Green explained.

"Those students who are now in the field of architectural engineering will be able to graduate with a degree in that field," he added.

The degree of Bachelor of Science in Architectural Engineering was established 35 years ago at the University of Illinois when it was felt that some added emphasis should be placed on the structural aspects of architecture.

Today, however, engineers seek positions in any of the many fields in which they are qualified.

"Those students of engineering interested in structural work can specialize in civil engineering.

The new program will definitely better the present program in both the architectural and engineering fields," Dean Green concluded.

Figures Up: Hardin Reports Increased Enrollment In University

Revised enrollment figures at the University show a total of 8,425 students, an increase of 569 students over the same period last year, Chancellor Clifford Hardin reported today.

More than half of the increase, 357, was accounted for by the College of Engineering and Architecture, reporting a total of 1,749 students. This makes the Engineering College the largest college in terms of enrollment.

Two colleges showed decreases. College of Agriculture, down 28, but still up 56 students over two years ago; and College of Medicine, down 47.

Dean J. Perry Tollman said the Medical College decrease was the result of two factors: the effect of the recent change-over from a three-to-four-year program at the School of Nursing; and the more-than-usual drop-outs in the freshman medical class.

He explained that each year about six or seven per cent of the freshman medics leave the school because of health, financial, academic, or interest reasons. This past year more than 12 per cent were lost, he said.

Admittance of transfer students allows for graduation of a full quota class, he added: The complete enrollment breakdown follows:

Agriculture, 1,005, down 28; Arts and Sciences, 1,217, up 58; Business Administration, 1,091, up 55; Dentistry, 122, up 16; Engineering and Architecture, 1,749, up 357; Junior Division, 218, down 17; Law, 185 up 44; Pharmacy, 122, up 5; Teachers, 1,338, up 38; Teachers Advanced Professional Candidates, 205, up 48; Graduates, 694, up 67; Students-at-Large, 36, down 29; and Medics, 317, down 14; Nursing, 105, down 32, and Medical and X-ray Technicians, 21, down one.

These figures, Chancellor Hardin said, do not include any off-campus or evening class registrations, which in themselves total approximately 2,500.

Theater: Actors Face 'Versatility' In New Play

Unusual difficulties are anticipated in casting the University Theater play "The Dark of the Moon," according to Dallas Williams, director.

Tryouts for the play are scheduled Tuesday and Wednesday from 3 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 10 p.m. and Thursday evening from 7 to 10 p.m. in Howell Theater.

The play is set in the hills of Tennessee and is based on the legend of Barbara Allen, Williams explained. "It will involve singing, dancing and the playing of certain instruments", he stated. "This creates great difficulty in casting, as it is necessary to find people not only capable of acting well, but also of playing the guitar and the accordion, singing and dancing."

Any students interested in trying out for the play who have any of the above talents may contact Williams in Howell Theater or attend the scheduled try outs, he said.

Five University coeds have been named candidates for Homecoming Queen.

The candidates, all juniors and members of Tassels, women's pep group, are Janis Davidson, Sandra Kadleck, Donna Sawvell, Janice Shrader and Nancy Tucker.

Miss Davidson is a member of Chi Omega, major in home economics, member of Coed Counselors' and treasurer of City Campus Religious Council.

Miss Kadleck is a member of Alpha Theta, major in physical education, Women's Athletic Association's board and Women's Physical Education Club, and publicity chairman of Tassels.

Miss Sawvell, Delta Delta Delta, is a major in psychology, treasurer of Coed Counselors' board, and notification chairman of Tassels.

Miss Shrader, Pi Beta Phi, is a major in physical education, a member of Orchesis, All-University Fund board, Women's Physical Education Club, and treasurer of Tassels.

Miss Tucker, Alpha Phi, is a major in elementary education, a member of Student Council, Red Cross Board, and house representative of Associated Women's Society.

An all-campus election was held following the announcement. Results will not be revealed until half-time when the Queen will make her entrance and be presented to the students attending the Nebraska-Missouri homecoming game Nov. 3. She will be crowned by last year's queen, Carol Link.

Shirley McPeck, president of Tassels, answered an objection mentioned last week in Student Council about the election being not truly representative since only junior tassels are nominated. She explained that very few universities use this method of selection, but it is felt at Nebraska that the Homecoming Queen is not only a beauty queen but a pep queen.

"The candidates selected are being rewarded for the work they have done in promoting school spirit," she added.
