The third quarter was highlighted by some fine defensive work by the Elliottmen. Early in the stanza the Hoosiers drove to a first down situation on the Nebraska two yard line.

Four downs later when the dust had cleared the Huskers had not only held their rivals but had driven them back to the seven yard line. Jack Fleming, Max Kitzelman and Nappi were very unfriendly to the visitors during this series of plays.

Coach Bernie Crimmin's squad closed the gap early in the final period when Bob Fee plowed over from the two yard line. Cichowski made his conversion good leaving the Huskers with a slim 14-13 lead.

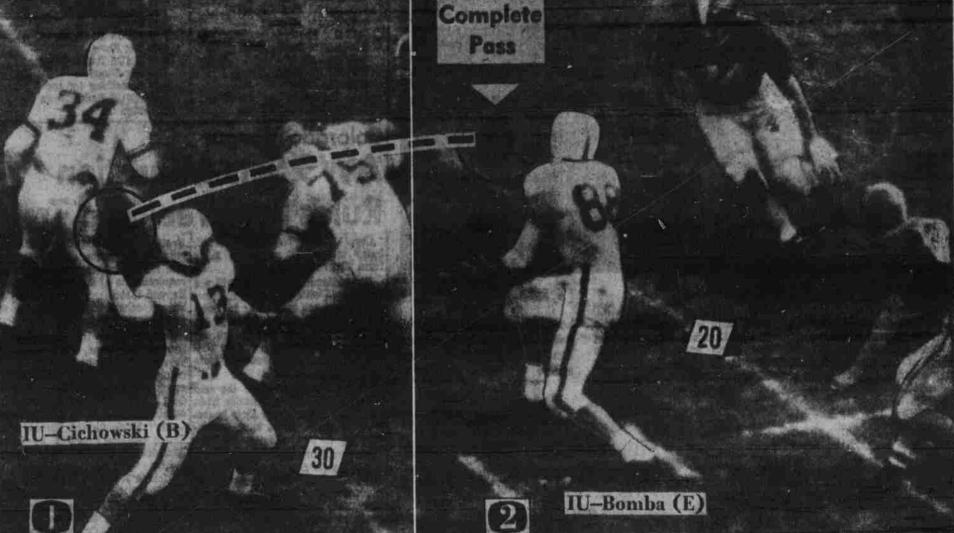

Forcing Nebraska to punt, the Hoosiers combined an aerial attack and the fine running of fullback Bob Fee to score the game's deciding six pointer. This march was topped by Fee's second touch-down of the afternoon putting the visitors in the lead 19-14.

Conference Play Heavy ast Week

While Indiana was tripping up three other conference games be-

Oklahoma came no closer than usual to football defeat Saturday, 24.0 but 31,000 Kansas fans cheered lustily as Kansas twice crossed the previously unsullied Sooner goal-line, Oklahoma on the long end. They set a modern collegiate winning record of 34 straight, and extended their Big Seven winning string to 55 without defeat.

Tommy McDonald and Clendon Thomas, the touchdown twins, were again instrumental in Oklahoma's win, McDonald averaged six yards per carry and scored twice; Thomas also averaged six yards per carry and scored once.

It took a sustained Kansas drive starting on the Sooner 45 for the Kansans to score on the Sooners. In the Big Seven, little honors like this are treasured.

Kansas' stout stand, coupled with Avg. Mich. Dame 14.0 their 8.5 s.0 polls. Michigan State's rout of Notre Dame will likely cost the Sooners their No. 1 ranking in the national Missouri found the going much rougher than expected while they were beating Kansas State 20-6.

Thirteen thousand Wildcat fans had visions of an upset until the Tigers scored their third touchdown with 21/2 minutes of play remaining.

Missouri, it was the hard driving times of 10:11.7 and 10:26.0. of Hank Kuhlman and the pinpoint passing of Jimmy Hunter that told the difference, Kuhlman added the third touchdown late in the fourth

Kansas State's lone touchdown came in the opening minutes of play when Keith Wilson recovered a Tiger fumble on the Missouri 23 and scored two plays later.

Colorado and John (The Beast) Bayuk overwhelmed Iowa State 52-0. Rarely has a Cyclone football team looked worse as 16,000 home comers sat in glum silence.

Bayuk discovered early that Iowa State's midsection was soft. Spinning and boring straight ahead on trap plays, he covered 24 yards for one first-half touchdown, 38 for another, and then added a third early in the third period before calling it a day.

Bayuk crashed 145 yards on 29 carries for an average of almost eight yards per carry. By contrast, the entire Iowa State managed a net of only 34 yards on the ground. Bayuk's smashing rushes were not even overshadowed by Leroy

As I See It-

By WALT BLORE

BLACK SATURDAY

It's hard to find misery and gloom heavier than it was late Saturday afternoon in the Cornhusker dressing room.

Players were hurrying to get away and be alone with their thoughts. It's hard to describe the look in a huge linesman's face when he's spoken to by a well-wisher. He's not the same man who just finished fighting his heart out on the gridiron.

There were no excuses given, just plenty of disappointment shown. Everyone connected with the team thought the Indiana game was the Cornhuskers 19-14, there were the best game the Huskers played all year. It looked like it too from the Pressbox. It was just one of those things.

However, this week will be another story. Instead of looking back into history, one should look into the future and what Saturday's game at Boulder should offer.

If past performances hold up (that's a pretty large if) Willie Greenlaw will play one of his best games in his career.

As the Colorado scout said after the game Saturday, "Next week's hunting season in Colorado and we're going to get somebody to shoot The final score was 34-12 with that Greelaw down before he gets within the city limits of Boulder." That expresses the feelings the Buff followers have toward the Port-

> Willie rambled over the Buffs twice and they are taking no chances this year.

SLIM PICKINS'

Several of the favored teams fell before upstarts last Saturday. With those teams came the crash of the Blore system of picking football winners.

After cruising along happily with the favorites for three weeks, the bottom finally fell out. Last Saturday's 11 to 20 is reminiscent of the horse race selevtions during the summer. A good long shot every once in awhile never hurts.
