Andrews On Pub Board: Student Council Recommends Tassels Clarify Queen Election

The Student Council judiciary committee recommended Wednesday that the Tassels, women's pep organization, draft an amendment to its constitution concerning the election of the Homecoming Queen.

Don Beck, chairman of the committee, said that a check of the Tassels' constitution revealed no mention of Homecoming Queen or her election.

As the election is now handled, Homecoming Queen finalists are nominated by Tassels from junior class members of the organization.

The review of the present method was brought up in the Oct. 17 Council meeting by Mick Neff, vice-president, "in order to determine if the method used by this organization in selecting its candidates for Homecoming Queen is in the best interests of the entire student body."

This year's candidates are Nancy Tucker, Donna Sawvell, Jan Schrader, Janis Davidson and Sandra Kadlecik.

Dick Andrews, junior in Arts and Sciences, was elected junior class member of the Board of Student Publications by the Council. Andrews and Pat Coover were nominated to the Council by the Council's Pub Board screening committee.

On the first ballot Andrews and the student body of the University, as the Cornhuskers won last year's Homecoming contest in Lincoln, 37-20.

Andrews received the highest number of votes. On the third ballot Andrews was elected.

In other Council business, John Kinnier reported on the investigation of the annual Council orientation session for officers of campus organizations.

Kinnier said that meeting time should be changed to the second Wednesday of the school year, and that better notification of those expected to attend be assured by two letters to organization presidents.

Because of lack of time, the election of the sophomore member to the Board of Publications was postponed until the next meeting.

Homecoming Activities: Campus To Display Traditional Events

Homecoming house displays will be judged Friday evening, Nov. 2. Decorations are to be completed by 8:00 p.m., Friday evening.

Lights must not be turned on until after the rally. For the benefit of Saturday visitors, all houses are encouraged to keep their decorations intact until after the game, and to operate the displays Saturday morning from 11:00 a.m. to 12:00 a.m. noon.

The judges will include Fran Clark, display manager for a Lincoln clothing store; Clarence Wilkens, outdoor advertising agent; Kenneth Clark, a prominent Lincoln architect; Mrs. Snipes, a well

Their escorts will be Dr. Weaver, Dean Halgrin, Colonel Frankfurter, Bob Slater, KK advisor, Sam Ellis, President of Innocents Society, and Jim Feather, Innocents house decorations chairman.

Decorations will be judged on four points: originality, attractiveness, construction, and general relationship to, or identification with, our opponents. A reference to Homecoming and/or alumni must be incorporated.

There will be three divisions in the competition. One division will consist of the women's organized houses. The remaining two divisions shall consist of the men's organized houses. They will be divided into two divisions, large houses and small houses. The Innocents Society will designate which group each house will enter.

First, second, and third place plaques will be awarded in each of the three divisions. A first place traveling trophy will also be given to the winner of the women's division and a traveling trophy will be presented to the grand champion winner of the men's divisions. All awards will be made at the Homecoming dance.

The expense limit for all displays is $125.00. All materials and equipment used will be evaluated.

Materials such as lumber, paint, paper, etc., will be listed at face value, whether purchased new or not. Equipment such as meters, P.A. systems, etc. will be evaluated at rental value.

The evaluation team will check all materials and equipment being used on Friday afternoon, November 2. All materials to be used must be outside by 3:00 p.m. The decision of the evaluation team will be final. Any organization surpassing the $125.00 limit will be disqualified.

In order to take this test a student must get the application, mailing envelope, and Bulletin of Information from any Selective Service Local Board. The test is a three hour examination and will be given on November 15 and April 18, 1957.

The Outside World: Hungarian Riots Continue

The Hungarian rioting continued Thursday and Premier Imre Nagy promised he will negotiate with Moscow to withdraw Russian occupation troops if the rebels will end their revolution.

It has been estimated that 2,000 to 3,000 people have been killed. Great fires have destroyed some of Budapest's historic buildings. In Vienna Western diplomatic sources said they had heard that four regiments of Hungarian soldiers had gone over to the side of the rebels and it was reported the revolt was launched by young army officers.

Fighter Shoots Self

A new Navy jet fighter, flying at supersonic speed, shot itself down by running into cannon shells it had fired seconds before. This is the first accident of its type in aviation history. Air resistance and gravity pulled the bullets into the path of the plane causing the plane and bullets to collide. Hereafter, test pilots are warned to turn aside or pull up after test firing their guns.

NU On The Move:

Annual Migration Starts For Cornhusker Students

The annual trek is officially underway! Some 6000 University students and Nebraska football fans are traveling to Boulder to witness the Huskers football contest with Colorado and to take an active part in the University's annual migration ceremonies over the week-end.

Highlight of the week-end activity will be Nebraska's football game with the Colorado Buffaloes. Led by John "The Beast" Bayuk, Colorado is currently tied with Oklahoma for first in the Big Seven.

Traditional rivals of the Buffaloes, Nebraska has won the last two football games with Colorado but is tabbed a two-touchdown underdog in Saturday's contest. If the Buffs win this one only Missouri will stand in their way to an Orange Bowl bid.

Saturday has special significance for University of Colorado students also as it is their Homecoming. Migrating Huskers will be treated to a vast array of displays and floats although the expressed message will not be too friendly.

Last year Nebraska played their Homecoming game with the Coloradoans and beat them 37-20.

The symbol of victory between the two teams, the traditional Buffalo Head, will be formally given to the Nebraska Innocents Society by members of the Colorado senior men's honorary, the Heart and Dagger Society. The Head, which has been in the possession of the Innocents for the past two years, is presently being transported to Boulder by members of the society.

Adolph Lewandowski, athletic department business manager, announced that over 6000 tickets have been sold to University students and Nebraskan fans for Saturday's game.

Members of the Husker yell squad, with the co-operation of the University band, are staging a rally in front of the Colorado student union at 12:30 p.m. Don Beck, yell king, has urged all Nebraska supporters to attend this event.

An alumni meeting was held Friday morning in Denver. Plans for the week-end were discussed. Nebraska alumni get-togethers were tentatively planned for Saturday before and after the game but nothing definite was established.

The Cornhusker band, under the direction of Donald Lentz, will perform during the half-time of the Colorado-Nebraska football game. The musical contingent leaves for Boulder Friday and will return to Lincoln immediately after the game.

Carol Link, president of Associated Women Students, announced last Monday migration rules for University women students. All girls going to Colorado have to have permission from their parents and from their housemother. The jaunt will not be registered as an official "weekend" Miss Link said. The girls are to return to Lincoln before 11 p.m. on Sunday, according to AWS.

Boulder Pep Rally

A pep rally for Nebraska students migrating to Colorado University in Boulder will be held Saturday, at 12:30 in front of the CU Student Union. Cheer leaders will be present and urge all students to attend, according to Don Beck, Yell King.

Crowe: Conference Report Set For Friday

Dr. L. K. Crowe, professor of Dairy Husbandry, who recently attended the Great Plains Conference on Higher Education at Norman, Okla. will report to the Ag College Faculty at their Education Forum Friday at 4 p.m. in the Food and Nutrition Building.

The purpose of the conference, according to Dr. Crowe, was to evaluate and suggest methods for meeting the needs of the Great Plains in terms of educational programs at the High School, College and adult levels. The University must have training programs which emphasize more than fitting a man for a vocation. It must instill in students a social obligation as a result of their opportunity for higher education, he said.

The conference was attended by representatives of eleven Great Plains States. The 231 people in attendance represented both professional and nonprofessional fields.

The meeting, financed by a grant from the Rockefeller Foundation, was a success in that it grouped together the thoughts of men and women from many fields on the subject of education, according to Dr. Crowe.

In 1953 he made his first L.P. record for Debut and since then has signed a record contract with Mercury Records.

Buffalo Head Ceremony Set For Game

The traditional Buffalo Head, symbol of victory between Colorado and Nebraska football teams, will be formally given to the Innocents Society Saturday by the men's honorary society of Colorado University, the Heart and Dagger.

Former Athletic Director Patsy Clark, initiated the annual Buffalo Head ceremony which takes place during the half-time of Colorado-Nebraska football games. The Innocents Society has always represented the University and will officially receive the Head at Boulder tomorrow.

The Heart and Dagger Society procured the Buffalo Head in 1951. However, because of Colorado's limited success against the Husker grid team, the Innocents have possessed the coveted prize most of the time.

A similar tradition also exists between Missouri University and Nebraska. The QEBH, senior men's honorary society at M.U., and the Innocents exchange a victory bell each year during the half-time of Husker-Tiger football games.
