Landslide Gives Ike Victory

Shortly after 12:20 a.m., Democratic presidential hopeful Adlai Stevenson conceded the election to Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Speaking from the ballroom of the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago, the former governor of Illinois said that he had sent a message to the president stating, "You have won not only the election but the great confidence of the American people."

The Eisenhower-Nixon ticket, which, according to Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, "won on the popularity of the presidential candidate" will retain the two highest offices in the nation.

Shortly after Stevenson made his speech in Chicago official election figures showed that the GOP had gained 292 electoral votes, having won in 26 states.

In order to win an election, a candidate must poll 266 votes in the electoral college.

Stevenson said further, "We are not Republicans and Democrats but Americans. As Americans we join in wishing you success in the coming years."

"First I want to express my thanks to my partner Estes Kefauver."

"I wish very much there was some way I could properly thank you one by one. I wish there was some way I could make you feel my gratitude for your support."

"To you who are disappointed, let me confess that I am too. But we must not be downhearted. To succeed we have only to lose. For here in America people have made their choice, through the democratic process. And I say God bless democracy. . ."

"Take heart. There are things more precious than political victories. There is a right to political contest."

"I have tried to chart the road to a new and a better America. I am supremely confident that our thought will ultimately prevail. . . America can go only forward."

The state to give the landslide vote to the president was Stevenson's own home state, Illinois.

The President, a picture of health, spoke to the nation at 1:45 eastern time.

"This is a solemn moment he said. 'The only thing I should like to say is this. It is a very heart warming experience to know that your labors of four years have achieved the level where they are approved by the United States of America in their vote.'

"To all the people of the United States who have understood what the administration has been trying to do my most grateful thanks."

"It is our earnest prayer that nothing we shall ever do shall betray that trust."

Loerch served as county agricultural agent in Pierce County from April 1951, to October, 1952, when he became assistant extension forester.

He is a member of the Society of American Foresters and American Forestry Association.

$3,500 Collected: Sororities Lead Frats In AUF Campaign

After one week of collections, the annual AUF charity drive has collected $3,500 according to AUF chairmen.

Incomplete returns from sororities show them leading fraternities so far $869 to $539.

Mary Huston, AUF chairman in charge of sororities said that collections were going very well. Only two sororities have turned in complete reports although six have made partial returns.

Bob Schuyler, chairman of fraternity solicitations, announced a tentative goal for fraternities at $2,000. Five houses have so far returned partial reports.

"As a general trend," Schuyler said, "fraternities are contributing more than $2 a man."

Sally Carter, chairman for independent houses announced very incomplete returns of $166. New faculty members contributed additional $33 to bring the faculty contribution to $639.50. Most of the faculty was solicited last spring in the regular faculty drive.

Plans for this week call for complete reports to be submitted by sororities and fraternities, as well as junior and senior medical students.

Freshman and sophomore medical students were solicited last week and contributed $51.

Money collected by AUF is divided among six charities. World University Service receives 25 per cent, American Cancer Society 20 per cent, United Cerebral Palsy 20 per cent, Community Chest 20 per cent, Lark School for Mentally Retarded Children 10 per cent and the Emergency and Expense fund 5 per cent.

Sakai Efforts: Japanese Collection Acquired

Among the acquisitions are a 19-volume compilation of documents relating to the Meiji Restoration movement which overthrew the feudal regime in 1868, an encyclopedic compilation of materials relating to the Shogunate (military) rule, a score of volumes of pertinent newspaper articles which appeared at this time, a major reference collection on Japan's constitutional history, and a library of official records of the Ministry of Finance.
