NBC-TV: KUON To Use Service

The University's educational television station, KUON-TV, has accepted the offer of the National Broadcasting Company to supply educational programs for viewing in Nebraska. NBC has announced that it will furnish three live half-hour educational programs weekly from the network's studios in New York and possibly in Washington in cooperation with the Educational Television and Radio Center, Ann Arbor, Mich. The programs to be done by NBC in the general areas of political science, humanities and mathematics, will be furnished to KUON-TV over network lines without cost to the University station. Jack McBride, director of University educational television, said the arrangement with NBC provides "KUON-TV with a new type of program service in which timely materials of an immediate impact can be presented live." He added that the interest shown by NBC is another step forward for educational television and indicates its impact in the general field of television. McBride said that programming with NBC is expected to start in mid-March for a 13-week period with a similar period planned for the fall, to be carried by the nation's educational television stations. The programs will be produced by NBC with the counsel and cooperation of the Educational Television and Radio Center and with leading educators. McBride added that it appears that Robert Newman, mathematics specialist and author of the "Wonderful World of Mathematics" will be the talent for one of the NBC series.

Miss Rodeo: NU Coed To Lead March

Dallas Hunt, queen of the International Rodeo Association, will lead the march at the first annual Grand Western Stockman's Ball to be held in Denver Jan. 10. Miss Hunt won the title of Miss Rodeo America over seven contestants who were representing 15 states and Canada. Over-all screening of state, regional and international candidates involved 100 contestants. Her appearance in Denver is promoted by the Denver Chamber of Commerce's tribute to the livestock industry with the ball. It is slated to be one of Denver's largest social affairs and will be held on the eve of the opening of the National Western Livestock Show.

Books, Clothing Offered: Chances For Hungarian Refugees Here 'Excellent'

Chances appear "excellent" that Hungarian refugee students can be brought to the University to study and that guarantees of transportation, clothing, maintenance, books, tuition and room and board can be made for them, according to Barb Sharp, chairman of the Hungarian Student Project. The project has been under way for a little more than two weeks. According to latest information from World University Service, agency in charge of delegating refugee students to applicant universities, the University of Ne-

Free Concert: Madrigal Program Thursday

The University Madrigal Singers, assisted by the University string ensemble, will present its annual Christmas program Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Union main lounge. The string ensemble is an addition to the program this year. According to Dr. Foltz, director of the Singers, the ancient madrigal music was in the form of strings and brass instruments. Out of that grew the modern conception of singing madrigals. The Madrigal Singers will sing "Fum, Fum, Fum," "Carol of the Birds," and "Ya Viene La Vieja," Spanish carols; "Patapan" and "The Sleep of the Child Jesus," French carols; and the Welsh number "Deck the Hall." The string ensemble will present Corelli's "Concerto Grosso, No. 8," a Christmas Concerto. The audience will also join with the Singers in a number of well known carols. No tickets are required to attend the program.

History Club Members Hold First Meeting

The University History Club ratified its constitution and elected officers Thursday afternoon. President of the newly formed group is Abraham Dash, senior in Teachers. James Stone was elected vice president and Connie Sorrenson is secretary treasurer. Samuel Eddy, instructor of history, is faculty adviser of the club. The general idea of the club is to enable people interested in history to discuss the field with famous historians and to share social interests," Dash stated. He added that all students and faculty members are eligible to join the organization. The History Club will meet the second Thursday of each month at 7:30 p.m. in the Union.

Pub Board Announces: Nebraskan Given Permission For Four Issues Per Week

The sub-committee on student publications has given the Nebraskan permission to print four issues per week beginning next semester. Nebraskan business manager, George Madsen, appeared before the Publications Board Monday and requested authorization to inaugurate a four-issue per week schedule.

However, the committee will not grant a raise in salary for Nebraskan staff members for the coming semester if the new schedule is utilized.

According to the specifications of the National Collegiate Press Association if the Nebraskan chooses to print four issues per week it will qualify as a "daily."

Nebraskan editor, Sam Jensen, stated that "next semester's Nebraskan staff will have to decide whether they want to begin a daily paper."

"It must be realized that most college papers in this area are of tabloid size and are directly connected with the school of journalism," Jensen added.

In his appearance before the committee Madsen cited what he termed "substantial increases in revenue obtained from advertising" as the primary reason for a four-issue per week schedule.

The committee granted such authorization with the stipulation that next semester's Nebraskan staff will ultimately decide whether the new schedule will be adopted, according to Ken Keller, advisor to the publications board and assistant director of University public relations.

In approving the four issue per week schedule the publications board authorized the addition of one more copy editor to the Nebraskan staff, making ten paid members.

The Board of Publications has unanimously approved the request of Sam Jensen, Nebraskan editor, that it endorse the Nebraskan campaign for open meetings of the Committee on Student Affairs.

"Before a decision is reached in regard to instigating a daily paper the situation should be weighed carefully," Jensen went on to say.

The Board recommended that the Nebraskan send a representative to the Committee on Student Affairs to make their request.

The last time the Nebraskan printed four issues per week was in the spring semester of the 1952-53 academic year. In the fall of 1953 the publications board cut the publication rate down to three papers a week "in an effort of equalize expenditures of the paper with the income available from student tuition and advertising."

Judiciary Committee: Tassel's Proposal On HC Queen Election Rejected

The Student Council Judiciary Committee voted unanimously to reject Tassel's proposed amendment concerning Homecoming Queen elections.

Reasons given for the rejection were that the right to sponsor the Homecoming Queen election has not been a constitutionally recognized function of any organization, that the Homecoming Queen election is an election of campus-wide interest and that the request of Tassels to include the sponsorship of the Homecoming Queen Election in their constitution does not provide methods consonant with the best interests of the student body.

The Judiciary Committee recommended that if no satisfactory plan for the election of the Homecoming Queen is submitted to that committee by the first Student Council meeting in February, the Student Council should establish a procedure for the election either under the sponsorship of the Student Council or some other interested organization.

According to Shirley McPeck, Tassels president, the amendment submitted to the Student Council stipulated that the Homecoming Queen should be a junior member of Tassels (active or pledge) with a 5.5 accumulative average. The proposal also called for Tassels to elect the Queen, Miss McPeck said.

In an effort to satisfy the Student Council Judiciary Committee Miss McPeck predicted that Tassels would change the present amendment to "include a wider selection of girls and a different method of selection other than the Tassels method."

Fair Skies To Replace Cold Weather

Relief from the cold was promised Nebraskans Tuesday as a warm front moved eastward from the western part of the state. Fair skies and no precipitation was forecast by the weatherman and the mercury was expected to rise from Monday's high of 23. Norfolk recorded a low temperature of 10 degrees Monday with a five degree reading and Scottsbluff recorded the state's high with 17 degrees.

Service Award: Outstanding Nebraskan Nominations Now Open

Nominations for Outstanding Nebraskan may now be submitted to the Nebraskan office, Sam Jensen, editor, announced Thursday. One senior or graduate student and one faculty member will be selected for the award. Both men and women may be nominated. The deadline for nominations is Jan. 16. Winners will be announced in the Nebraskan Jan. 18. Any students may nominate a candidate for the honor. Two "Outstanding Nebraskans" are chosen each semester by the Nebraskan staff. Rules governing the selection will be the same as last semester. To be eligible, a student must have made outstanding contributions to the University and be either a senior or a graduate student. The faculty nominees must have served at least two years as a staff member. Letters of nomination must be submitted in writing and be signed by the writer. Names of persons making the nominations will be confidential. The letters of nomination become the property of the Nebraskan and any and all parts of the letter, excepting the writer's name, are subject to reprint in the Nebraskan.

Builders' Filing Date Extended

Filings for Builders Board have been extended until Wednesday, according to Mel Fahrbruch, president. Applications are available in the Builders' office. Interviews for Board positions will be held January 15, 1957.

Saturday: NU Singers To Perform Over CBS

The University Singers will represent the Midwest on the Columbia Broadcasting System's annual program of carols from around the world, Director David Foltz, chairman of the University's department of music, announced Monday. The Singers will be heard on the CBS coast-to-coast radio network Saturday from 5:45 to 6 p.m. C.S.T. The 15-minute program has been recorded in Lincoln and sent to New York City for broadcasting. This is the third successive year that the University music department has been invited by James Fassett, CBS program director, to participate in the pre-Christmas programs.

Regional Contest Winners

Members of the University Moot-Court team admire the plaque which they won in the regional moot-court competition in St. Louis. The College of Law team won first place and advanced to the seventh annual National Moot Court Competition. The team drew a bye in the first-round competition and will compete in the second round Thursday. The team will argue a case which involves the determination of the mental competence of an accused in a first-degree murder case. Team members are (left to right) Patrick Healey, James Knapp and Jerrold Strasheim.

Moot-Court Competition: NU Team To New York

The top moot-court team in the prairie states, the NU College of Law team, will compete in the seventh annual National Moot Court Competition Wednesday through Friday at New York City. The three-man Cornhusker team, coached by Associate Prof. Allan Asenrod, will leave Wednesday for the competition. Winner of the regional competition held in St. Louis in November, the team drew a bye in the first round and will compete in the second round Thursday at 4 p.m. Team members are: Jerrold Strasheim, Patrick W. Healey, and James M. Knapp. The case to be argued involves determining the mental competence of an accused in a first-degree murder case. Also participating from Nebraska will be a team from Creighton University School of Law, which was defeated by the University of Nebraska team in the final round of the regional competition. The final moot-court bench will be presided over by Justice Felix Frankfurter of the U. S. Supreme Court. A University of Nebraska Law College team won the national competition in 1955.

Rag, Cornhusker Christmas Party

The annual Christmas party for the staff and workers of the Cornhusker and The Nebraskan will be held Wednesday at 4 p.m. in the Nebraskan office, Room 29 of the Union. Refreshments will be served. Organizations stand at $60, a do-Club, Imperial, Neb. Rainbow girls and the Y-Teens of Imperial have each contributed $10, according to Phyl Bonner, publicity chairman for the project committee. Several campus organizations are considering donating to the project, according to Miss Sharp. Sororities on campus have also contributed. Kappa Delta has contracted for $80 and the Alpha Xi Delta pledges for $23.75. Individual contributions have also been coming into the University of Nebraska Foundation, the agency handling funds for the project. Anyone wishing to help with the project may send contributions to the University of Nebraska Foundation, Room 106, Love Library. All checks should be marked, "Hungarian Student Project."
