

Budget: Student Council Request Presented To Anderson

Nine members of the Student Council presented Nebraska Governor Victor Anderson 9 a.m. Tuesday with a request to recommend to the Legislature that the full $5.5 million budget increase sought by the University be approved.

The resolution was introduced by Marvin Breslow, a Council vice-president, at "an emergency meeting" of the Student Council Monday and was passed unanimously by the members present.

The recommendation stated that "the best of the people of Nebraska are to be served by the proper functioning of its state university."

"The University of Nebraska can only function for the best interests of the people of Nebraska if it is granted all of its requested funds," the resolution said.

Reasons cited for the budget hike were "to maintain the quality of its staff and facilities... to provide educational facilities on all campuses for the increasing number of students... and to maintain and expand its research..."

"We strongly urge the governor of Nebraska to recommend to the Legislature the adoption of the full budget..." the request added.

Members of the Student Council who presented the resolution to Governor Anderson were, Bruce Brugmann, president; Mick Neff and Don Beck, vice-presidents; Bev Deepe, Marvin Breslow, Dave Keene, Sally Laase, Mary Huston, and John Kinnier.

'Superior': All-America Rating Given Nebraskan

The Nebraskan has received an All American rating from the Associate Collegiate Press rating for the semester ending June, 1956.

The top rating was given to college newspapers of comparable enrollment that published two or three times a week. Thirty newspapers entered this division.

This is the fourth time in a decade that The Nebraskan has received this award. The paper was rated All-American in the fall semester of 1955, in the spring semester of 1952 and in 1947.

According to Fred Kildow, director of ACP, "All American rating indicates a distinctly superior achievement."

The criteria by which the newspapers were judged are coverage, content and physical properties; the Nebraskan rated excellent or superior in each of these fields.

The judge was Gareth Heilbert, former editor of the St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Heilbert commented, "Your student coverage is excellent-blending nicely with academic and classroom copy". He remarked that the style had a "professional touch".

"The editorials certainly follow the news and take a strong tone", he said. He called the sports coverage about as "thorough a job as I've seen".

"Frankly I am impressed by your display", he stated. "It makes your page look like a metropolitan daily. It has eye appeal and should make the readers read!"

Bruce Brugmann, Arts and Sciences senior, was editor of the Nebraskan last semester. "I feel that the All American rating given to last semester's Nebraskan is not only a credit to its fine staff and excellent columnists, but will also be taken as a tribute to those students and faculty members who took an unusual interest in our paper last spring", Brugmann said.

Council Declaration

The Student Council, representative body of the students of the University of Nebraska, unanimously resolves:

That the best interests of the people of Nebraska are to be served by the proper functioning of its state university.

1. The University of Nebraska, to serve the state of Nebraska, must be able to maintain the quality of its staff and facilities on all campuses in the face of fierce competition from many sources.

2. The University of Nebraska, to serve the state of Nebraska, must be able to provide educational facilities on all campuses for the increasing numbers of students who will be seeking a higher education.

3. The University of Nebraska, to serve the state of Nebraska, must be able to maintain and expand its research, especially in the vital areas of agricultural and medical experimentation and research.

With these points in mind, the University of Nebraska can only function for the best interests of the people of Nebraska if it is granted all of its requested funds.

Therefore, we strongly urge the Governor of Nebraska to recommend to the Legislature the adoption of the full budget requested by the University of Nebraska.

The Student Council,
University of Nebraska.

New Head: Ferre Named Dean-Elect For School Of Religion

Gustave Ferre has been appointed Dean Elect of the Cotner School of Religion and will take over his duties before the school opens in the fall of 1957.

Ferre will receive his Ph.D. degree from Vanderbilt University before taking over his duties at Cotner. He has received his A.B. degree from Boston University, his B.D. from Andover Newton Theological School and has done graduate work at Yale Divinity School.

Ferre has specialized in Bible, Theology and Philosophy and has served as college coach and Pastor, Rio Grande, Ohio, University Pastor and instructor in Religion at the Kansas Chair of Religion at the University of Kansas and as instructor in Religion at Vanderbilt.

Since Cotner College was reactivated as a School of Religion in 1946, P. R. Stevens has served as Head of the School. Stevens was requested by the Board of Trustees to remain with the school on a full professorship and has indicated that he will probably remain with the school at least until the new Dean has had an opportunity to become acquainted with the school.

University Regents

dent; Dr. B. N. Greenberg of York, president; and J. Leroy Welsh of Omaha; (standing) J. G. Elliott of Scottsbluff, Clarence Swanson of Lincoln and Frank Foote of Axtell. Elliott and Foote are the two newly elected members of the board.

No Tuition Action Until Senators Act

Regents Oppose Hike In Student Fees

University tuitions will not be acted upon until the state Legislature has acted on the NU budget for the coming year, newly-elected president of the Board of Regents Dr. B. N. Greenberg of York said Sunday.

The University Board of Regents conferred in a closed session Saturday with Governor Victor Anderson on "differences" concerning a $5,500,000 University budget increase.

Greenberg said "We certainly feel we should get our money from the Legislature."

Governor Anderson said after the meeting, however, that much of the additional money "will have to be raised in ways other than by raising the mill levy," apparently referring to a possible tuition hike.

The governor said he would recommend to the Legislature tax money for salary increases for present personnel. This would amount to about half the budget figure, about $2,400,000.

He did not mention funds for hiring 80 additional instructors as well as funds for several University projects nor did he give any specific figures that he will recommend in his budget message expected to be delivered within the next 12 days.

The governor said he gave the board "a general idea" of what his budget recommendation would be.

He stressed that drought conditions prevent taxpayers from paying any more for government. Most of the legislators this year will be conservative when it comes to state spending, he said.

The governor renewed a suggestion that tuitions be raised for out-of-state students.

If tuitions are raised, Anderson said, he would ask the Legislature to approve a loan plan or similar measure to assure that some students will not be kept out of school for financial reasons.

Members of the board of Regents have individually opposed tuition hikes although the board has not yet taken an official position on the matter.

Last week the governor said he would have "no hard feelings" if the University took its budget request to the Legislature—which it may do—putting the matter directly before the legislators.

Regents Elect Greenberg As President

Dr. B. N. Greenberg of York has been elected new president of the Board of Regents.

Organizing for the coming year, the regents elected C.Y. Thompson of West Point as the vice president renamed John Selleck, business manager of the University, as secretary.

New members include Frank Foote of Axtell and J. G. Elliott of Scottsbluff. Other members on the board are J. Leroy Welsh of Omaha and Clarence Swanson of Omaha.

The regents accepted resignations of 15 University instructors at the regular meeting. Chancellor Clifford Hardin pointed out that in several cases the losses were due to higher salaries being available elsewhere.

Nebraskan: Pub Board To Choose New Staff

The Committee on Student Publications will interview applicants for second semester Nebraskan staff positions on Friday, Jan. 18, in the Student Union.

The Committee's session will begin at 4 p.m. in Parlor A and an effort will be made to complete the interviews with candidates for the position of editor, editorial page editor, and managing editor before 6 p.m.

After dinner the Committee will reconvene in the Faculty Lounge to complete the interviews.

Students interested in applying for paid staff positions should complete their application forms at once. The forms are available in the Public Relations office, 1127 R street, and the deadline for their return is 5 p.m., Tuesday, Jan. 15. The following positions: editor, managing editor, editor of the editorial page, copy editors (4 or 5), sports editor, agricultural editor, business manager, assistant business managers (3 or 4), and circulation manager.

NUCWA NUCWA will hold a mass meeting Tuesday at 7 p.m. in Room 313 of the Union. "Iran" will be the topic of discussion.

Held To Leave NU Position For State Dept.

The University Board of Regents accepted the resignation of Dr. Colbert Held Saturday morning, effective Jan. 31.

Dr. Held is associate professor of geography. He is joining the Foreign Service Reserve of the U. S. State Department as a geography attache at on.

In announcing the resignation, Chan-Dr. Held told the Regents that "the University is losing an outstanding teacher and researcher, one who is highly regarded by both the students and his colleagues."

The Chancellor said that the reason for Dr. Held's resignation was partially because of financial reasons.

"Dr. Held enjoyed Nebraska and his work at the University but because of the salary difference—about $3,000 more—he felt that he owed it to his family to accept this position," Chancellor Hardin explained.

"This is another example of the competition being faced by the University for well qualified personnel," Chancellor Hardin added.

The Regents also approved 14 other resignations, including: George Stachwick, assistant horticulturist at the Scotts Bluff Experimental Station and Hollis Shull, assistant professor of agricultural engineering, who is going into governmental service in March.

Alumni: Dinner Set For State Senators

The Alumni Association, according to Arnold Magnuson, alumni secretary, is sponsoring a dinner Tuesday evening for all the state senators and their wives.

The program will begin in the main lounge of the Union with an informal reception. Dinner will be served at 6:30 in parlors X, Y, and Z with entertainment by the men's quartet. After dinner, James Stuart, president of the association, will welcome the legislators and introduce Chancellor Hardin who will address the guests.

"This dinner," stresses Magnuson, "is not to discuss the financial problem of the University, but to better acquaint the state senators with the association. The dinner is not sponsored by the University," said Magnuson.

Magnuson stated that deans, regents, officers and directors and their wives, are also invited. Of the forty-three senators, thirty-seven have confirmed their invitations, Magnuson said.

A movie short, "Istanbul, Turkey," sent to the Nebraska Campus by the Turkish Embassy in Washington, D. C., will also be shown.

Snow, Mercury Drop Forecast

It's snowshoe and overcoat time in Nebraska again. The weather predicts considerable cloudiness with snow in the northern portion of the state Tuesday afternoon.

Temperatures are expected to drop Tuesday, with highs ranging from 30-35 in the northwest part of the state to around 50 in the southeast.

North Platte recorded 52 degrees for the state's high Monday and Omaha's 20 was low. Lincoln recorded a high of 45 and low of 24.
