Sets Budget 'Minimum': Vic Says Pay Boost Necessary

Gov. Victor Anderson told two groups of University students Friday that salary increases for University teachers "are musts."

Speaking at the Nebraskan Press Club Luncheon, Anderson stated, "If you don't pay the market you lose your instructors and this University is not going to crack up."

Anderson said that a transference of funds from the general building fund to the University Hospital would "make sure" the two wards at the hospital would be reopened.

Anderson also declared that this University is not going to lower its standards. "We're going to make our staff pleased; it must be kept intact."

The Governor said his recommendation to the legislature which will appropriate funds for the University is $2.4 million. "And this is the minimum. If the unicameral feels the University should get more they will vote it."

During the past few years, the chief executive explained, the state has been put in a strange economic position. "We have no products to trade with the eastern markets since we have been stricken with drought. This year I received 700 letters against a tax boost; in 1955 I received none," Anderson explained.

The governor said that he has confidence in the board of regents and the chancellor. "We will work together and will come up with answers to the problems." He stated, however, that the University must look to a long range program of expansion.

Speaker of the Legislature, Sen. John Beaver of Beemer, another guest of the Nebraskan Press Club, said that the operational costs of the state have risen from $634 thousand in 1869 to $237 million in the 1955-57 biennium. "Of this present total, 87 per cent is distributed to the department of roads and irrigation, welfare, the board of control, teachers colleges and the University."

"And your University gets 38 per cent of that total," he added. Beaver stated that at present there is no place where the budget can be cut. He added that with the expansion of governmental agencies, taxes will eventually be expanded.

"I feel that it is extremely important for students to know the coming consequences of taxation," Senator Beaver said.

He added that three bills have been introduced in the legislature this year for the broadening of the tax base.

Governor Anderson met with a group of students from the Medical College immediately following the press luncheon. They included Bob Stryker, president of the Medical College student body, Virginia Horack, a senior nursing school representative, Janet Niess, a student x-ray technologist and Robert Haag, sophomore student council representative. Accompanying them was Dr. Joseph Gardner of the anatomy department.

The students presented the Governor with a letter signed by the entire student body of the medical unit requesting the full budget for the University "since we feel the future of Medical College is our own."

The letter added that the students were concerned about the rating of the college since "Our national standard may fall."

Governor Anderson told the group that they are getting substantial increases for the medical unit. "We are constantly expanding. The University will receive 300 per cent more than last time," he added.

Graduates

in Engineering... Physics... Mathematics

Lockheed Representatives of the California Division and the Georgia Division will be on campus Friday, January 18

You are invited to consult your placement officer for an appointment. Separate interviews will be given for each division.

Both divisions of Lockheed are engaged in a long-range expansion program in their fields of endeavor.

California Division activities in Burbank cover virtually every phase of commercial and military aircraft. Seventeen different models of planes are in production, including cargo and passenger transports, high Mach performance fighters, jet trainers, radar search planes, patrol bombers.

B.S. graduates who wish to attain a Master's Degree will be interested in the California Division's Masters-Degree Work-Study Program. In the program, participants achieve their M.S. while working concurrently on Lockheed's engineering staff.

At Lockheed in Marietta, Georgia, new C-130A turbo-prop transports and B-47 jet bombers are being manufactured in the country's largest aircraft plant under one roof. The division is already one of the South's largest industries. Moreover, a new engineering center is now in development as part of the division's expansion program.

In addition, advanced research and development are underway on nuclear energy and its relationship to aircraft. A number of other highly significant classified projects augment the extensive production program.

This broad expansion program is creating new positions in each division. Graduates in fields of: Aeronautical Engineering, Electrical engineering, Mechanical Engineering, Mathematics and Physics are invited to investigate their role in Lockheed's expansion.
